A pair of unearned runs gave coach Chuck Johnson's Fertile Falcons a 2 to 0 win over the Prowlers here on Wednesday night. The game, which developed into a pitcher's duel between the Prowlers' righthanded Harlie Drees and the Falcon's southpaw Dick Roragen, was one of the finest played here this season.

The Falcons picked up a run in the 1st inning when Al Harstad led off with a single to right field, and when the ball was fielded slowly, Harstad sped on to second base. Jerry Olson's single to left plated Harstad with a run.

With one away in the 5th inning, Harstad drew a walk, stole second; Mickey Olson walked; Howie Strom's infield hit filled the bases; and on a ground ball by Arlo Brunsberg, which was fumbled, Harstad tallied Fertile's second run.

The Prowlers were held to but two hits by the slants of Roragen. Fred Dahlow bounced a ground single into centerfield in the 4th inning; and Jerry Jorgenson singled to right field in the 7th inning.

On Thursday evening, at Red Lake Falls, the Prowlers, behind the steady four hit pitching of freshman righthander Arlan Hjelle, defeated the Eagles, 6 to 2. The Prowlers solved the curveball pitching of Curt Demarais for eight hits. The Eagle righthander was plagued by erratic support by his defense, with the five Eagle bobbles contributing to the Prowler scoring.

On Friday afternoon, on the Warren diamond, the Prowlers concluded their scheduled play by defeating the Ponies, 23 to 9. Southpaw Freddy Jensen and righthander Mickey Hanson shared the Prowler pitching duties, while the Ponies, in effort to halt the Prowler scoring, utilized four hurlers.

Four opening round games in the 31st district high school baseball tournament will be played this afternoon and evening at Warren's Emory Johnson Memorial field.

The Goodridge Huskies will meet the Climax Vikings at 1:00 p.m. while at 3:00 p.m. the defending champion Prowlers will play the Warren Ponies. The evening's games will have the Red Lake Falls Eagles meeting the Crookston Pirates at 6:00 p.m. and the Alvarado Indians playing Oslo at 8:00 p.m.

The Semi-finals games are slated for Tuesday evening, with the winners of Monday afternoon's games playing at 7:30 p.m.; and the winners of Monday evening's tilts meeting at 9:00 p.m.

The championship finals, between the winners of Tuesday night's semi-finals, will be played at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday night.

The winner of the district championship will then be eligible to participate in the regional tournament which will be played on the Fertile diamond, June 11th and 12th.

Band Adds Color to Parade

This is the Winnipeg Police Pipers Band, one of two kilted aggregations present for the Legion parade here Saturday afternoon. The parade was a long one and termed very successful by all who saw it. High school bands from the northwest Minnesota area, drum-and-bugle corps, military units and floats also helped to make the parade a colorful and enjoyable affair.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Big Fish

While it is doubtful if the fish will hold the season-long record for weight and size, we must mention that Jim Battleson is entitled to the early-season record for big fish with the 15-pound, 12-ounce northern pike that he caught while fishing the Red Lake river near Neptune bridge on Memorial Day.

Jim, who has just returned to town after serving a stint in the navy, was fishing down-stream from the bridge, about a block or so, and casting a daredevil lure, when he got a heavy strike. It took some maneuvering, but Jim was finally able to land the big fish. The northern had a weight potential of several additional pounds for it was very slack-bellied.

And speaking of big fish, That walleyed pike we reported last week, and which was brought down here to be officially weighed by Spanky Sullivan and entered in the Grain Belt contest, well, it was a winner. The walleye, caught by Gus Greening of Grafton, N. D. at Morris Point on Lake of the Woods, won the weekly prize of a $100 bond. The weight, in case you've forgotten, was 11 pounds and 13 ounces.

And we must mention too that, given honorable mention in that contest, plus a $25.00 bond, was a walleye weighing 8 pounds and 9 ounces, caught by a Charles Livermore of Canby while fishing Loon lake near Vergas. The important factors of this catch is that a walleye of that size was caught in Loon lake. That's the combination we wish to stress. You see, Mel Zitzow, of the 'Times' back shop, has a cabin on Loon lake, and he's always boasting about the big fish that "his" lake contains. Mel states that on merit, the Lake should be called Lunker lake instead of Loon lake. Well, he has official recognition to support his boasts.

A Reminder

In case you missed the printing of the softball league schedule last week we'll repeat this week's schedule: Monday, Bjorkman's vs. Holsum Bread; Tuesday, Bridgeman's vs. Len's Tire Service; Wednesday, Cliff's Food Market vs. T & S Implement; Thursday, Bjorkmans' vs. Lens' Tire Service.

All games are played on the East Side diamond, and play-ball time has been set for 6:15 P. M.

Serious Business

The Soo Line golf tournament, which originated several years ago as an informal lark and jolly get-together, has developed into a serious competition. And to add dignity to the tourney, which will be held this Sunday at Detroit Lakes, division superintendent Ed Hamerski has donated a suitable trophy.

The trophy, emblematic of the championship flight, will be engraved with the name of the tournament winner. Judging by the warm-up swings, and the chatter that emanates from the number one tee, and the 19th hole, the champion should emerge from this foursome: Jimmy Anderson, Phil LeGault, Harry Ellefson, and Emil H. Larson.

Some of the golfers have been making trips to Detroit Lakes for practice rounds. And there will be quite a contingent leaving here on Thursday and Friday for some preliminary play before the tourney on Sunday.

We'll make a small wager that Jimmy Anderson will win the long-driving honors, and that Emil Larson will be awarded the accurate putting and sharp approach awards. The sand trap shots and out-of-the-rough play will be shared by Phil and Harry. And the most fun will be had by Ed (Boomer) Reed.

Ship by rail!

No Names

We won't mention any names, but Ivan Bundy was relating a humorous incident that occurred while he was fishing with Roy Oen in the Northwest Angle waters on Memorial Day. The two, Ivan and Roy, had brought the Prichard boys to their cabin at Magnuson's island.

After dinner, and Ivan bragged of the meal that Phil Prichard prepared, Ivan and Roy went out in a boat to do some fishing. They were goofing off enjoying the fresh air and the sunshine, and lolling about, and dozing off now and then. They had their fish lines, properly baited with shiner minnows, in the water. While Roy was taking a nap, he had a strike and the fish began to strip off line. The fish headed for Kenora, and he's perhaps there, for, he continued to strip off line until Roy's reel was bare. You see, Roy had forgotten to anchor his line to his reel. And was Roy a surprised, and embarassed, angler when he awoke (Ivan gave him a nudge just as the end of the line was trailing off into the lake). It was a big joke to Ivan, of course.

Thieves Open Season With Win at Fosston

Playing a strong defensive game behind the steady five-hit pitching of righthander Sid Vraa, the senior baseball Thieves opened their Northern Minny league schedule on Sunday night by defeating Fosston, 6 to 2, at Fosston.

The Thieves will continue "on the road" this next week, playing the Erskine Merchants at Erskine on Wednesday night, June 5th, and meeting the Winger Tigers at Winger on Sunday, June 9th, in an afternoon tilt.

Vraa had a shutout on the scoreboard until the last half of the 9th inning when Fosston, with one man out, punched out three hits to score two runs. Daryl Foster singled, Al Olson singled, and both runners scored on Dave Norberg's hit. Vraa retired Al Bjornerud and Sonny Johnson to end the game.

Fosston used three pitchers against the Thieves, with LeRoy Johnson being the starter. Big Stan Otness followed, and Daryl Fosster finished.

A couple of newcomers to the Thieves roster—Keith Johnson Mike Hajostek—showed to advantage for coach Gene Sack's club. Johnson, playing a nifty game at first base, scored a pair of runs and banged out a hit; while Hajostek connected for a pair of singles.

John Burtness Sees Advantages of Grade 'A' Milk Production

Production of grade "A" milk is a specialized business, says John Burtness, who farms in Silverton township. To make milk appealing and attractive to consumers it must come from healthy cows. The milk must be kept under strict sanitary conditons and low temperatures to maintain high quality. This is at 40 degrees F. In addition to knowing how to handle and feed livestock the dairyman has the product to take care of.

John Burtness, whose dairy farm is located eight miles east of Thief River Falls on Highway 1, manages a herd of 60 Holsteins milking 25 cows on a year round basis. He has been producing whole milk for 17 years. He says his bulk tank is real asset to him in producing quality milk. This is a part of the technological improvement that industry of all kinds is making throughout the country.

Not only is milk kept in fine quality says Burtness, but it's easier to handle. No carrying and lifting of milk cans is involved. From storage of milk in ten gallons can, other advantages are eliminations of dumping loss, consolidation of hauling, and elimination of can washing. Storage in a three hundred gallon tank is quite a change, says Burtness.

In the period from 1935 to 1939, 85% of the milk was sold as farm separated cream and 15% as whole milk. Now 70% marketing. Burtness says today's feeding of livestock is equally more exact and demanding.

Good silage and protein supplements feeding with more accurate measurements of feed to get the most out of every feed dollar is imperative.

Culling of cows to eliminate the "boarder" animals is equally important. The farmer cannot afford to own cows which don't produce a profit. An efficient testing program turns up the cows which are not doing the job. A cow which produces less than two hundred and twenty pounds of fat a year is a boarder line cow on the grade "B" market and doesn't yield much profit even on the grade "A" milk market.

Says Bulk Milk Handling is Best

John Burtness, whose dairying operation is described elsewhere in this issue of the Times, says Grade A milk production is a specialized business in which the producer must keep his product at top quality in order to be marketable.

Burtness also says bulk milk handling is the best way to assure consumers of uniform high quality milk at all times. Bulk handling also reduces the work load of the producer he stated.

Public Lands Sale Slated in Bemidji

Interior Dept. Has Set Sales for June 12 and 13

Sixty-two tracts of public lands in Minnesota will be offered for sale at public auction on June 12 and 13, the Department of the Interior announced today. The sales will be held at the court house in Bemidji, and will begin at 10 a.m. (local time) on each day.

The tracts total about 9,533 acres in area, and their appraised value ranges from $25 to $3,367.

The tracts are from 0.14 acre to 1,260 acres in size, and are located in Beltrami, Cass, Clearwater, Crow Wing, Houston, Hubbard, Itasca, Koochiching, Ottertail, Pennington, Roseau and St. Louis Counties. The tracts are isolated from other publicly owned lands and are being sold under the public sale law which gives preference to adjoining owners, and does not limit the number of tracts one individual may purchase. The tracts involved are mostly timberlands and have no recreational value.

Written sealed bids for each tract will be received at the Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, P. O. Box 37, Bemidji, Minn. Full details as to location, character and minimum acceptable bids for each offered tract, together with instructions for submitting bids may be obtained by writing to the Eastern States Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C., or the Bemidji, Minnesota, office.

The deadline for submitting bids on tracts involved in the June 12 sale will be 5 p.m. (CST) June 11; and for the June 13 sale, 5 p. m. (CST) June 12. Bids received after those deadlines will be returned as unacceptable.

Following the opening of all sealed bids, each tract will be offered at oral auction. The lowest acceptable oral bid must be greater than the highest sealed bid received on any given tract.

Among other things many people in the Southwest have been struck with recently is the truth of the adage, "It never rains, but pours."

Highway Leaders to Fete Hoffmann at Dinner June 15

Retired State Highway Commissioner to Be Guest at Minneapolis Affair

A statewide testimonial dinner in honor of M. J. (Mike) Hoffmann, recently retired Minnesota state commissioner of highways, will be held Saturday, June 15 in the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis.

The dinner is being sponsored by Minnesota Good Roads, Inc., a statewide citizens' highway development organization. A social hour will precede the dinner which is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

E. Ray Cory, Austin, president of the Minnesota State Automobile Association and MGRI director, will be master of ceremonies for the dinner program.

Invited to the affair are many prominent highway leaders from all parts of the nation, including Bertram D. Tallamy, new federal highway administrator from Washington, D. C., who is heading up the greatly expanded national highway program; state highway officials from many states; and the five governors under whom Hoffmann served as commissioner of highways . . . Governors Stassen, Thye, Youngdahl, Anderson and Freeman.

Hoffman retired as of April 29 after serving as Minnesota Commissioner of Highways since 1939. A native of St. Paul, he was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1911.

Elmer V. Erickson, Cambridge banker, is president of Minnesota Good Roads, Inc., and chairman of the committee directing details for the Hoffman dinner.

Erickson said that although some invitations have been sent out around the state for the dinner, it will be an open affair and anyone who wishes to join in the tribute to Hoffmann is welcome. Paper Mill Makes Much Road Binder

Over 3,000,000 Gallons to Be Applied This Summer

Encouraged by cost-saving results, communities in this border area plan to apply over three million gallons of paper mill by-product to their village and county roads this summer.

The by-product, called Road Binder, is manufactured at the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company's paper and Insulite fiber board mill at International Falls. This year's program marks the third year in a row nearby municipalities have applied Mando Road Binder.

In the last two years, 5,100,000 gallons have been used to strengthen and stabilize northern Minnesota and Ontario roads, W. H. Schlafge, general manager of Mando's operation, said today.

About 2,600,000 square yards of roads and streets have been treated with Road Binder since the program began in 1955.

Mando Road Binder is an amber liquid resulting from wood chips being processed into pulp for paper making. It has proved to be an excellent low cost stabilizer of gravel and dirt roads.

Major benefit resulting from past use of Road Binder has been greater safety and comfort for motorists. Other values include less dust, cleaner air for roadside businesses and residents and use of lower grade aggregates.

In terms of dollars and cents, E. R. Gustafson, resident engineer at Mando's mill here, said users save about $250 per mile year year by lowering the quality of road building material and by reducing grading costs.

The key to safety is you.

Dairy, Civic Leaders Salute Dairy Month

Representatives of all segments of Minnesota's great dairy industry joined with civic and business leaders in Minneapolis last week to kick off the biggest June Dairy Month in the history of the state with a luncheon at the Curtis Hotel.

Featured guest for the day was Ivanhoe Betty, a champion Ayrshire and the official June Dairy Month cow owned by Mrs. J. Elsie Sweeney, operator and owner for the past 12 years of Ban Tara Farms in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Another prominent guest, who left immediately after the luncheon to give President Eisenhower a purebred Holstein heifer calf from the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, was Barbara Jean Bassus, Princess Kay of the Milky Way. The calf was donated to MDIC by the Minnesota Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association.

Master of ceremonies for the dairy luncheon was Felton Colwell, president of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce. Cedric Adams, famous WCCO radio and television personality, delivered his noon news at this get together and later interviewed Princess Kay for the benefit of the group.

Other prominent dairy industry people who spoke on the program were William Moscrip, chairman of the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee and Byron Allen, state commissioner of agriculture.

The June Dairy Month Chairman, A. G. Sirek, of the State Bank of New Prague, and the chairwoman, Mrs. Kermit V. Haugan, Minneapolis, were featured speakers on the program.

John L. Weiss, Zumbrota, state champion cheesemaker, received his award from Robert Farrar, White Bear, executive secretary of the Minnesota Cheese Industries Association.

Edward Mahowald, Farmington, spring buttermaker champion, was awarded his trophy from Floyd Thompson, executive secretary of the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' Association.

Introduced as the Minnesota Star Dairy Farmer was Larry Bennett, Owatonna. Making the introduction was W. J. Kortesmaki, representing the Future Farmers of America.

Others who appeared on the program were Connie Swenberg, Red Wing, first attendant to Princess Kay and Joan Bergervoet, Mankato, second attendant to Minnesota's dairy princess.

Mayor Eric Hoyer represented the city of Minneapolis and Dr. C. L. Cole, head of the dairy division of the University of Minnesota, represented the university.

Announce Winner of Stamp Design for Centennial

Second prize of $100 went to Will Schaeffer, St. Louis Park, and the $50 prize went to Gordon Lepisto, Virginia, Minn. There were 11 entries.

Henry W. Hill, Minneapolis, committee chairman, said the winning entry is outstanding by commemorative stamp standards. "We are pleased, too, that the judges were unanimous in their opinion the artwork is superior," he added.

Committee plans call for first day issue of the stamp and cachets during the week end of Statehood day, May 11, 1958.

Business College Training

Important in the broadened curriculum of the Area Vocational School, made possible by expanded facilities, will be the new department of business education. Under the program there will be made available complete "business college" training for high school graduates. This department will fill a long-felt need in the area.

As in many other fields of activity, office procedure is becoming more and more a machine operation and in order to qualify as skilled workers employees must have special training. The new department is being organized and equipped with the view of providing the special training needed for present methods.

This department should provide practical and a very worth-while education service to the young people of this area.

Expanding the Market

The city of Taipai, in Formosa, has been headlined recently because of a shooting incident that provoked serious anti-American demonstrations. Last week the Wall Street Journal brought us a report of a more hopeful development in that oriental city.

It is in an especially timely report in that it fits in well with our June Dairy Month promotion in the interest of our most important industry. It tells the story of Minnesota whole milk being made available to the natives of Taipai.

Here are excerpts from the story told by staff reporter Henry Gemmill:

> "In the city of Taipai on Formosa, Foremost Dairies has gone into partnership with a Chinese capitalist by the name of Wang, and just this month opened an ultra-modern dairy covering a full acre.
> "This single new plant is able to turn out 3,000 gallons of milk daily and 1,000 gallons of ice cream. Such production is rather remarkable, considering that hardly more than 900 cows reside on the whole island, and their milk was already bespoken.
> "Explanation: every drop of this dairy's milk comes from California, Idaho, Wisconsin or Minnesota, being transported in a strangely wizened form—and yet the product distributed to island consumers tastes just as fresh as when it left the udder, weeks or months before.
> "This correspondent can testify to that, having just imbibed heavily of the same sort of milk processed in the big plant here, which was the first to be established. And the same may be said of output begun this year from dairies in Izmir and Ankata, Turkey, and in Anthens, Greece.
> "Foremost dairies have perfected a process initiated by U. S. Army researchers. Very simply, large dairy plants such as the one Foremost operates at Atwater, Calif., remove the bulky water content of milk, and separate the remains into two easily transportable products. The first looks like butter, but is 99.8% pure butterfat against butter's 80%. The other is powder, the dry milk solids.
> "Both can be preserved in air-tight packages for as long as a year without refrigeration. At each destination dairy overseas, they are recombined in a special way with specially-processed water. The result is indistinguishable from ordinary milk and is ready for all the normal steps—pasteurizing, homogenizing and the like—which any stateside dairy performs.
> "You can see the white smocked Japanese staff here mixing the ingredients in different proportions and turning out buttermilk and half-and half cream. They toss in cultures flown from the states and turn out cottage cheese; they add stabilizers, sugar and flavoring to get Eskimo pies, Popsicles or banana bisque ice cream.
> "Last Yuletide the stainless steel equipment in the Japanese plants even turned out 100,000 quarts of eggnog mix—though customers were required to supply the spirits."

This report is interesting to us mainly because it reminds us that reconstituted whole milk is now an actuality. Non-fat milk powder is meeting with steadily increasing favor in the market. It is a proven product. Providing a satisfactory whole milk powder has been more difficult because of the problem of preserving the fat without refrigeration. This now has been accomplished.

The report on the Taipai operation clearly indicates that Minnesota milk cannot be purchased at market prices, processed and reprocessed and sold in Taipai at a profit. These operations in foreign cities are largely experimental in nature and are subsidized by the government in an effort to find expanded markets for a surplus commodity.

Minnesota and Wisconsin dairy farmers have a special interest in the success of the processing development however because of the long-range effect it may have in the domestic market. Transportation costs would be less of a barrier for milk produced in the low-cost areas and making it more competitive in the high-priced markets.

This development should be encouraging for those who are seeking ways to secure a larger share of a better market for the dairy products of our area.

Little (Liver) Pills

(Wall Street Journal)

For seventy years Carter Products have manufactured Carter's Little Liver Pills and for fourteen years the Government has been trying to get the word "liver" out of that title.

The Government claims that the pills have "no therapeutic value beyond that of an ordinary laxative." Carter claims the pills are an effective treatment for billousness, liver trouble, the coated tongue, headaches and that "worn out" feeling.

Fourteen years have passed by and the Government attorney and the Carter attorney who have handled the altercation all that time have become so chummy that the Carter man asked the U. S. man where he'd like to try the next case. The Government man said he liked San Francisco in the fall, so the case will be tried in October on the West Coast.

The new case, our Washington Bureau reports, will hinge in large measure on whether Carter's Little Liver Pills do or do not increase bile flow. The Federal Trade Commission hired experts to run tests at Mayo Clinic and three universities; the company, at New York and Philadelphia hospitals.

We'll leave it to the doctors and the courts to decide what effects Carter's Little Liver Pills have on billousness, liver trouble and the coated tongue. But as a taxpayer we feel competent to express one opinion on this fourteen-year-old case that has cost the public $1 million so far. It's certainly high time somebody did something to relieve that worn out feeling.

Too Much Housekeeping

(Hoard's Dairyman)

An undercurrent of uneasiness runs through the dairy industry today. While it has not reached a high degree of turbulence, we feel it just about everywhere we go in the country. Dairy leaders, with their ears to the ground, speculate quietly on possible future developments.

Old-time farm and dairy organization leaders are among those most concerned. First they hear increasing demands for a better economic climate for dairy farming. Secondly, they see new dairy organizations spring up on a local and national level. These veteran dairy leaders speculate on the effects of these new developments on the existence and future of their own organizations.

In our opinion, the highly competent leadership of dairying today may be found in the experienced men who have spent years in organizations and cooperatives formed and now working to do a better job of marketing dairy products.

By and large, the existing groups have done an excellent job of carrying out the functions for which their organizations were originally created to perform. In their success, however, the boards of directors and employed personnel have often become so involved in their local and internal problems that they have failed to evaluate properly the impact of national conditions. Too many have left to others the formulation and promotion of national policies and programs which would improve prices to dairy farmers locally.

In other words many of these groups have devoted themselves so thoroughly to the problems of everyday housekeeping at home that they have neglected the benfits which might be derived from their efforts on a national level.

If this neglect persists, it is only natural to expect others will move in to fill the deficiency. The vacuum will not long remain. Farmers desiring more vigorous attention to the need for a better national program will look elsewhere for their leadership.

Contouring Means More Corn

After three years of contour strip cropping, Victor Schroeder, Houston county farmer, was rewarded with a 100-bushel-per-acre corn yield, reports Harlie Larson, Houston county extension soils agent. A cooperator in the Root River Soil Conservation District, Schroeder says he used to get only 60 bushels per acre. Oat yields went up from 25 to 75 bushels per acre. Schroeder is also a strong advocate of grass silage for his beef and dairy cattle.

Stalk and Root Rot

Minnesota's corn crop suffered a 10 percent loss in value in 1956 because of stalk and root rot, according to J. E. DeVay, plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota. Some fields had up to 90 percent broken stalks. These diseases may result from poor nitrogen potash balance in the soil, susceptible hybrids, growing continuous corn and extremely high stalk populations, DeVay says.

Tractor Fuel Saved

Planting soybeans on the contour not only reduced erosion, but also preserved moisture and saved tractor fuel for Arden Dahlberg, farmer in the Becker county soil conservation district, last year. His yield was well above average.

Fertilizer Pays Off

What if corn drops to $1 per bushel this fall? Would that mean you'd lose money by adding fertilizer to the crop? No says Hal Routhe, extension farm management specialist at the University of Minnesota. Unfertilized last year corn, after legume crops, yields 20 bushels lower than fertilized corn. But on the same corn, fertilizing according to soil test averages about $12 per acre, meaning that even with corn at $1 per bushel you would still get $1.67 return for every dollar's worth of fertilizer applied. Routhe bases these figures on average returns in southern Minnesota.

Purebred Calf Winner

One of the happy exhibitors at the 1957 Dairy Day Tuesday, June 11 will be Synneva Roragen of Fertile, who, as winner of the 1956 grade champion award, will be presented with a purebred calf. Lew Conlon reports that the calf has been purchased and he says it really is a dandy.

In the picture above, taken at the close of last year's event, are Synneva and her winning calf. She will enter this same animal in this years' contest.

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

St. Paul—The final compilations on appropriations approved by the 1957 legislature show that the Minnesota state government during the next two years will cost each man, woman and child in the state $31 more than it did during the last two.

This figure is the result of adding up amounts allowed for operation of state departments, semi-state activities, public welfare, education, new buildings and what the fiscal experts refer to as "open and standing" appropriations. The total figure for these items is $312,000,000, an increase of $138,000,000 over the appropriations by the 1957 legislature.

Less Than Requested

The total allowed by the legislature is approximately $20,000,000 less than what Governor Freeman requested. Nevertheless, the allowance is the biggest in state history and the increase greater than any ever before granted. Two years ago, the increase in appropriations was $91,000,00.

Governor Freeman sought a total of $532,000,000 for his 1957-1959 period. In the welter of figures that resulted between the time his requests went in and the legislature finished its regular and the one-day special session, came the following results:

The governor asked $475,000,000 for operation of the state government, its semi-state activities, public welfare and education. In addition, he sought $57,000,000 for new buildings. The legislature, largely through the efforts of the senate tax and finance committees cut the first figure to $443,000,000, but allowed $69,000,000 for new buildings—a $12,000,000 increase over the request.

Much of the governor's spending program was approved by the liberal-controlled house as proposed. It was in the senate where it ran into a demand for more economical operations and the resulting $32,000,000 cut.

Government Gets Bigger

Actually, spending by the state during the next two years will be much higher than the foregoing figures suggest. When the appropriations for the state highway department, largely financed by auto license and gasoline taxes and federal aids, are considered, the state spending program for the biennium will total $648,000,000.

Highway appropriations, for all state highways, except the new interstate highway plans, total $136,000,000 for the coming two years, about $8,000,000 less than that allowed by the 1955 legislature. In both two-year periods, revenue from bond sales were included in the totals.

The biggest increase in proposed expenditures occurred in the allowances for state government, semi-state activities, public welfare and education. The allowance, $418,000,000, was $90,000,000 higher than two years ago. The $69,000,000 appropriation for new state buildings was $38,000,000 higher than two years ago.

Tax Levies Short

In levying the taxes to finance the expenditures, the legislature came up $10,000,000 short of making the books balance. This means there either will be a deficit at the end of the fiscal biennium or the administration will have to cancel some activities and possibly find refuge in increased revenues.

What the effect of the huge increase in state spending and taxes will have on the political fortunes of Governor Freeman is the subject of considerable talk in the state capitol. The question gets point particularly when is is recalled the governor was so specific in his insistence on tax relief at the outset of the session, urging all-out effort to reduce the tax load on business, industry, agriculture and householders.

The $5 special bonus tax attached to income tax returns was repealed, but observers are pointing out that during the next biennium the head of an average household will save $10 in this field, but pay out an average of $117 in new taxes or price increases induced by higher tax loads on business. This figure assumes the average household head will carry the load of $31 each, for his wife and two children.

Even real estate and personal property taxes will be up during the biennium, the average being about $6 for each $1,000 of taxable valuation, as a result of the appropriations demanded by the governor and granted by the legislature.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

In an earlier column I noted that money spent for the rehabilitation of handicaped persons has proved to be an investment rather than an expenditure. A few facts relating to the program in Minnesota for 1955-56 emphasize this statement.

Employment the Goal

Vocational rehabilitation is not considered complete until the individual who has been receiving training, has secured employment that is suited to his ability. During the fiscal year 1955-56, six hundred seventy-nine persons were "rehabilitated-employed." These individuals became self-sufficient, whereas before rehabilitation they were dependent, either on relatives or on some form of public or private assisance.

The Cost and the Reward

During this same fiscal year, funds expended for rehabilitation amounted to $622,985. Against this cost we must place the gains as a result of this investment. The estimated annual earnings of those rehabilitated are $1,745,481. And the estimated income tax paid amounts to $204,980. At this rate, the investment in rehabilitation is repaid in a little more than three years.

Human Values

The gain to an individual, and his family, when he has overcome a handicap and can re-develop a sense of self-reliance and independence, cannot be measured in terms of money. He becomes a member of his community who can do his share of constructive work. His economic security and that of his family is important to him. He can live a more normal and happy life.

Society Gains

Society gains, not only because it is relieved of a burden of providing care for a disabled person, — but also because it can now benefit from his constructive work. In the period of great economic development that lies ahead, we are going to need the services of all who can work productively. And as a society we cannot afford to waste the resources that lie in the services of those for whom rehabilitation can bring about successful adjustment.

Education of Employers

It is true that many employers are reluctant to employ handicapped persons, — but in most cases that reluctance results from lack of knowledge about the work record of the handicapped. Wherever studies have been made of employment records of handicapped persons the results show that they make excellent employees. In some respects, their records are better than those of average workers who have no handicap. Often they have less absenteeism, and in many cases they have fewer accidents and injuries on the job.

In Minnesota we have an active committee working to secure greater employment opportunities for handicapped persons. The committee consists of many in official positions, representatives of employers and of labor, and experts in the field of rehabilitation. It is under the chairmanship of the Commissioner of Employment Security.

Rehabilitation Center

Minnesota is fortunate to have another great asset in its work for the handicapped, — the Rehabilitation Center at the University of Minnesota. At this center the best of diagnosis and treatment is provided to the physically handicapped. Physicianst and surgeons, nurses, physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech therapists, psychologists, vocational counselors, social workers, and teachers, — all work as a team to do all that modern science has made possible to make the physically handicaped person as independent and self-sufficient as possible. While still at the hospital at the University, patients can have further schooling and can begin job training; and when they leave they are given assistance in finding suitable work.

Concentrating plant, near Calumet, Minn., where low-grade iron ore is treated to remove excess silica.

Our iron ore future depends on plants like this

Last year, almost half the Minnesota iron ores shipped to steel mills were concentrates produced from low-grade ores. Here are the facts: in 1956, we shipped a total of 63,203,316 tons of iron ore. 22,900,292 tons came from concentrating plants, such as the one above, which upgraded and improved the crude ore. Taconite pellets added 4,816,909 more tons to Minnesota's shipments of concentrated ores. More and more, our mining companies are required to improve our Minnesota ores to help our state maintain its place as a major iron ore producer. Many millions of dollars have already been invested in research and plants to achieve this. But many millions more will be needed to insure Minnesota's iron ore future. Every Minnesotan has a stake in encouraging this favorable climate for investment and employment and should support it.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

MINNESOTA LEADS AREA GROWTH RATE

Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and western Wisconsin are growing, over-all, at the rate of about 1% a year, according to a study made by Minneapolis Star and Tribune. Minnesota is outstripping her neighbors, and the Hennepin-Ramsey county metropolitan area sets the fastest pace of all. From 1950 through 1956, the Minneapolis daily finds; the population of Minnesota increased 9%. A careful projection indicates that by 1975 it will have increased 46.8%, becoming nearly half again greater than at last federal census. The rest of the contiguous area has gone up 5.8% since 1950, and is expected to grow 24.2% by 1975. Minnesota leads in growth rate, followed by South Dakota, North Dakota, and western Wisconsin. In the metropolitan projection Anoka county leads in anticipated population growth, followed in order by Scott, Carver, Washington, Dakota, Wright, Hennepin, Ramsey.

HOME Garden TIPS
C. GUSTAV HARD
ORRIN C. TURNQUIST

Growing Gladiolus

The gladious is one of the most popular garden flowers. Although it is grown primarily for cut flowers, it can also be used in small groups toward the back of the flower border.

Gladiolus should be planted in full sunlight in a soil that has not grown gladiolus for at least four years. The soil should be well enriched with organic matter. A side dressing of a complete garden fertilizer applied at planting time at the rate of one pound for each 25 feet of row will also help to produce larger blooms and better bulbs.

In planting the bulbs, make a trench about five to seven inches deep and distribute the corms about six inches apart in the row. A side dressing can be applied on either side of the row if you are careful not to get the fertilizer in contact with the corms.

For a longer period of bloom, make the plantings at intervals from May 1 to June 15. Also, choose early and later flowering varieties to extend the period of bloom in the garden.

It's a good idea to write the names of the varieties on small wooden stakes so you can identify your glads.

Summer care consists of clean cultivation to control the weeds and spraying or dusting with DDT at regular intervals to control pests. During dry periods, water thoroughly once a week.

ISA Says $9,000 Quality Home Is Still Possible

To the most prospective home-buyer, the question: "Do you think you can buy a quality home for $9,000?" belongs in the same category as: "Do you believe in Santa Claus?"

They think it's a beautiful idea but not a very practical one.

"Not so," says the Insulating Siding Association and thus sides with the Federal Housing Administration in the contention that recent liberalization of down payments on homes in the $9,000 and under class will have an appreciable effect in stimulating the housing market.

$9,000 or Less

"There are dozens of developments all over the country where quality homes are being built and sold for $9,000 or less," states the manager of the Association, R. G. Breeden, Jr.

Breeden cited a development planned and built in Denver by Victor G. Rose who used the new technique of skip-laying sheathing over which insulating siding was applied, a technique acceptable to FHA. He saved 30 per cent on wall cost compared to previous methods and sold his three-bedroom ranch type homes for $6,000.00.

Across the country in Glen Burnie, Maryland, near Baltimore, Admiral Construction Company sells its "Country Clubber" homes for $11,000 and $12,000, but that figure includes landscaping, street improvements, paved driveways and their own boat dock for the home owners. Take away these extras and the cost of the lot, and you have an actual construction cost well under $9,000. The Glen Burnie allotment was one of the first big developments—300 homes—to use insulating siding on all the homes.

Ingenuity Needed

Up in Springfield, Mass., they are still talking about the huge crowds that turned out in midwinter to see the Wakefield Manor homes, selling for $9,000 and including five rooms, full basement, double garage. Again, careful selection of materials and economical use of labor made the savings possible that kept the selling price under the magic $9,000 figure.

FHA's own figure on mortgage applications show that the $9,000 figure is not a wild dream. In 1955, 27½ per cent of all the homes financed under the FHA-insured mortgage plan were for $9,000 or less.

Building quality homes in this price class calls for all the ingenuity a builder can muster, but the facts show that it can be done, and is being done.

U. S. Builders Prefer Wood Kitchen Cabinets

Wood kitchen cabinets—many in ponderosa pine—were installed in 88 per cent of all new homes built during the first quarter of 1956, according to a survey by the Bureau of Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor.

One of the chief reasons for this is a growing preference by women for soft, natural wood tones in the kitchen. Clear ponderosa pine is ideal for kitchens since it stains readily in any light or dark finish. It can also be easily painted.

Comfortable Hens Lay More, Eat Less

Chickens are more productive and consume less feed when they are kept more comfortable in shelters insulated with mineral wool, according to tests conducted at Iowa State College.

The tests showed that hens in well-insulated buildings lay 16 more eggs per year and consume 6.1 pounds less food than hens kept in non-insulated buildings.

LEADING COLORS LISTED

Leading a list of 11 favorite colors for home decorating are pastel yellows, corals, aquas, blues and wood tones, according to a California pigment manufacturer.

Signs of Age 'Skin Deep' With Many Old Houses

It doesn't seem possible that the new-looking house, top, once was the ramshackle shanty, bottom, but it's true. Modern construction materials helped its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomas, of Modoc, Ind., make the transformation. Among these were the asphalt shingle roof for exterior color and mineral wool insulation for all-season comfort.

Frequently, when an aging house is up for sale, it has such a weathered ramshackle look that is seems no amount of remodeling could make it habitable.

This was the feeling experienced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomas when they caught their first glimpse of a farm house on 40 acres of land near their home town of Modoc, Ind.

But Thomas, a building materials dealer in Modoc, knew that modern construction materials and techniques can work miracles with almost any old house. He also knew that a sturdy, old house usually can be purchased and remodeled for much less money per square foot of living space than it would cost to build a new home.

After an inspection revealed the house and barn were solidly built, the Thomases bought the property and set to work. In choosing products for the remodeling, Thomas called upon all his experience with building materials to be sure of getting the longest and most satisfactory service.

For example, after a 36 by 12 foot addition was completed, he specified that a colorful new roof of fire-resistant asphalt shingles be applied on the entire house. On the old portion, time and labor were saved by applying the new shingles directly over the old roofing.

Thomas also chose thick batts of mineral wool insulation for the walls and ceilings of the addition, and installed them himself. The mineral wool, he knew, would make his family more comfortable in winter and summer by blocking the passage of heat, and probably would pay for itself within a few years in savings on fuel.

Their remodeling completed, the Thomases have a modern room home with three bedrooms, a living and dining room, bath, up-to-date kitchen with snack bar and breakfast nook, a recreation room in the attic, and a utility room.

The entire family agrees that moving to the country was a good idea. The surrounding land not only offers the three Thomas children the advantages of lots of fresh air and freedom, but helps provide food for the table, plus extra income from raising chickens and hogs.

MINNESOTANS JUST KEEP ON CARRYING ON

Newspapers hold the lead in this week's Minnesota age marathon. For instance, for 30 busy colorful years Mrs. H. H. Higher Values Make Up For Higher Home Costs

Labor costs are up. Materials costs are up. In most areas, selling prices on new homes are up five per cent over a year ago. Yet this is the biggest increase in the past five years. Prices generally are only slightly higher than they were five years ago.

Those slight increases are not enough to cover the cost of the built-in oven and range you'll find in the kitchen. They weren't there five years ago. The higher cost doesn't seem enough to cover the second bathroom or half bathroom that is now standard equipment in any new home.

What's happened? Many builders have reduced profit margins as the rush to buy new homes has slowed down. But it's also true that despite inflationary pressure, they're providing more value than ever before.

Better Techniques

Some of the improvements are due to better assembly techniques . . . use of pre-fabricated roof trusses, building sidewalls on the ground and tilting them into place. Dimensioning has been standarized through the modular system of construction, reducing cost because there are fewer sizes needed for such units as windows and doors.

Every material that goes into the home is carefully scrutinized to make sure it contributes its full share to the value. A material like insulating siding that insulates, decorates and strengthens sidewalls in addition to several other protective functions becomes especially attractive to the builder because it enables him to save time on the job. Fortunately, the same insulating siding constitutes a good selling feature when he offers the home to the buying public.

Tighter Insulation

The past five years have seen many changes in heating and insulating practices. Houses are built tighter with insulation in both ceiling and sidewalls. Important savings for both builder and home owner have resulted. Smaller heating and air conditioning plants are required. Operating costs are lower, but living comfort has increased.

It all points to the conclusion that though home prices may be slightly higher than they were five years ago, increases in value have more than offset the higher prices, making housing one of today's best bargains.

Soft Floor Coverings Suit All Living Areas

Carpet is probably the most versatile furnishing found in the home. Traditionally accepted as the natural floor-covering to make a living room more "livable," carpet's multiple benefits and new built-in performance make it ideal for every room in the house.

Carpet warms and quiets and provides safe footing. It adds beauty in color and pattern and texture. There is no room that will not benefit from all of these qualities. Best of all, carpet makes housekeeping easy.

So check your house for "orphan" rooms without carpet. Perhaps you can shift the present dining room rug to a needy bedroom and get one of the new beautiful designs available today for downstairs. Or link the first floor rooms in a modern open plan scheme with wall-to-wall carpet throughout.

Today's new "family" room is a living area where the whole family can relax. As a place to watch TV and where children romp on the floor, the family room needs the quiet, skid-free safety and physical warmth on the floor that only carpet can deliver.

Children's rooms particularly deserve carpet, since the small ones spend so much time close to the floor. Carpet protects them with its warmth and softness. Keeps them quiet, too.

Truly all through the house, carpet is for the enjoyment of the whole family.

Pitched Roof Trims Costs Of Cooling

Air conditioning is more effective and less expensive to operate in a home with a pitched roof, according to a leading research engineer in the field of home coling.

"The larger the air space in a well-ventilated attic, the greater the protection from outside heat," says Prof. John R. Watt of the mechanical engineering department of the University of Texas. "Flat or shed roofs have virtually no protective air space."

Professor Watt told an audience of air conditioning engineers and members of the National Association of Home Builders that:

"Doubling the amount of air space in the attic reduces heat absorption into the living areas by 75 per cent."

This air space, combined with thick mineral wool insulation in the attic floor, reduces penetration of overhead heat so efficiently, Professor Watt says, that smaller Air-conditioning units can be used and cooling costs are reduced as by much as half. For complete protection against summer heat, mineral wool also should be installed in walls and living area floors.

Professor Watt based his recommendations on research conducted at the Air conditioned Village, Austin, Tex., where the operation of air-conditioning equipment in various types of homes was studied under actual living conditions.

A properly ventilated air space under a pitched roof acts to reduce heat reradiated from the roof to ceilings below by wiping off surface heat to carry it outdoors through the vent openings.

Many architects and cooling engineers advise light-color asphalt shingles for the roofs of air-conditioned homes, since a light surface reflects more of the sun's rays. Asphalt shingles are available in many light colors to satisfy the individual tastes of most home owners.

The combination of a pitched roof, light-color asphalt shingles, ventilation and thick mineral wool insulation is effective in reducing overhead heat in any house, air-conditioned or not.

Tricks to Beat Heat Help Family Weather 'Dog Days'

Any home-owner can make his house more comfortable in summer without air conditioning. The steps he can take now toward greater hot weather comfort for his family also will make a cooling system more efficient and economical if he ever decides to have one installed.

Proper shading for example, keeps direct sun off the house, making it cooler even without air conditioning. Thick insulation minimizes the passage of heat through walls and ceilings, making the house without a cooling system more comfortable, and easing the load on the system after it is installed.

Here are the major things a home-owners can do for more immediate summer comfort and more efficient and economical air conditioning in the future:

1. Insulation. Owners of existing houses can have thick mineral wool blown into walls and ceilings. Areas which are easily accessible can be insulated with thick batts or blankets by the home-owner himself. The thicker the insulation, the more heat is kept out of the house.

2. Shading. Tall and medium height trees on the east, south and west sides of the house are the most effective means of shade. Equally important on these sides are awnings, reflective screens, trellises, garden walls and high fences.

3. Ventilation. Heat and moisture should be expelled from kitchens with a wall or ceiling fan, and automatic clothes dryers vented outside. Attics need louver openings in gable ends of the roof. With air conditioning, attic fans should be installed to expel air only from the attic, and not from living areas.

4. Roof. With a relatively high pitched roof, less heat enters living areas, since much of the warm air is expelled through louvers. Light-color asphalt shingles will keep much of the sun's heat from being absorbed.

Asphalt Protects Posts From Moisture Damage

Wood posts that will rest on concrete, masonary, or other wood can be protected from dampness by cementing a piece of asphalt roofing to the bottom of the post.

The asphalt, best waterproofing agent known to man, keeps water from being absorbed by the porous end grain of the wood.

Another "waterproofing" problem—condensation on the floors of houses built over crawl spaces—has been eliminated by the heavier asphalt wool roofings. This material is laid on the ground beneath the crawl space and prevents moisture from rising out of the ground into the house.

Remove Wax To Brighten Floor

A complete refinishing is not always necessary when limited areas of floors become dingy. Often the smudge is caused by dirt imbedded in the wax. The floor boards may be in good shape.

In this case, the wax and dirt can be removed by a petroleum base solvent. A fresh coat of wax will be needed after cleaning.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—Can holes be drilled in glass with an ordinary metal drilling bit?

A—Yes, if you surround the spot to be drilled with a little dam of putty filled with light oil. Use a high speed drill and keep the dam filled with oil. Stop occasionally to let the bit cool when it gets too hot to touch.

Q—Can insulation be installed in an old house?

A—Any house, old or new, can be insulated. Mineral wool engineers have developed a method of blowing insulation into walls and ceilings of older homes. It's done with air pressure, which forces the mineral wool into all cracks and crevices and around invisible wires and bracing. The finished job leaves the house in its original condition except for the complete insulation seal, which makes it more comfortable in all seasons and helps save fuel in winter.

Q—We're building a Colonial-style house which we plan to furnish as authentically as possible in early American. Can we obtain authentic reproductions of early American pine panel doors?

A—Building material dealers carry panel doors of ponderosa pine which are authentic copies of doors made by Colonial craftsmen. An example is a six-panel door identified by the U. S. Department of Commerce as N. D. 108 a standard identifying number that all manufacturers recognize. Its clear ponderosa pine is ideal for staining in the natural warm tones of early American decorators.

Q—What type of screw can I use to attach a cabinet to a brick wall in our kitchen?

A—Most any type of screw will do if you drill holes first and insert plastic, fiber or lead plugs made for this purpose. These will expand as the screw goes in, gripping the threads as tightly as wood.

BUILDINGS GET UNITY

Many farmers who take pride in the appearance of their farms have re-roofed their barns, livestock sheds and other buildings with asphalt shingles in a color to match the roofs of their homes. The matching roofs help give the buildings unity, keeping them from looking scattered.

Panel Doors Put Interiors 'In the Mood'

An interior decorator worth his commission knows how to coordinate furniture, carpeting, draperies, woodwork and accessories to create a mood or atmosphere.

For example, a fireplace hung with shiny pewter pots, plus a spinning wheel and a few early American knick-knacks, create the illusion of a fine, old Colonial room. Add a Colonial-style panel door and the impression is strengthened.

Most interior decorators like to work with wood panel doors when designing a room. The versatile wood doors are available in a wide variety of styles and they can be decorated in many different ways to harmonize with the rest of a room or to provide highlights.

Here are just a few ideas for decorating panel doors of ponderosa pine:

1. Painting. Pine panel doors of all designs may be painted attractively in one, two or three colors. One plan is to outline the panels in a dark, shadow-line color, paint the frame of the door in a lighter, harmonizing shade and finish the panels in a third accenting color.

2. Appliques and cutouts. The wood panels are natural frames for all kinds of imaginative appliques. Maps or colorful magazine illustrations add charm to a den. Cartoons or sheets of music pep up a recreation room. All types of cutouts can be cemented to the panels with thinned shelac and coated with clear laquer for permanency.

3. Decals. The technique of using the door panels as frames is especially adaptable to decals. They lend themselves to children's rooms, kitchens, playrooms and dens.

4. Staining. The beauty of clear ponderosa pine's natural grain adds warmth and richness to any room. Pine panel doors can be stained in tones ranging from blond to deep mohogany.

A variety of stock ponderosa pine panel doors that can be converted to Dutch doors is available from lumber dealers. With a counter on top of the lower section, the Dutch door can be used for serving snacks or refreshments.

OUT, VILE SPOT

A few drops of camphorated oil on a soft cloth usually will remove white marks caused by placing hot objects on furniture tops. Rub lightly, then remove oil with a soft, dry cloth and wax liberally.

Civil Defense Director Named

The Pennington Cou[illegible] and the Thief River Fa[illegible] Council, acting on a jo[illegible] olution, established a P[illegible] ton county civil defense co[illegible] tee and appointed a direc[illegible] civil defense at meetings [illegible] day.

Bruce Reski was named to position of director. He is instructor at Lincoln High Scho[illegible] and will serve as full time civil defense director for the three months summer period and then will go on a part time basis as coordinator. He is establishing headquarters at the court house.

The Minnesota Statutes of 1951 and as amended by laws of 1955 made a civil defense unit mandatory for each political subdivision. Those laws also gave permission for a municipality and county to act jointly. Reski is now working with preliminary plans to get a operating organization underway.

He pointed out that the civil defense unit will have many missions including the activation of a county-wide air warning alert system, the activation of fixed support services and preparation for reception of medical and non-medical evacuees from any disaster area, the mobilization of county civil defense mobile support services, the coordination of municipal and rural services for the benefit of all, and planning and carrying out evacuation and shelter protection, in the event of radio-active fallout.

In the handling of evacuees estimates place the number of people to be assisted at 14,700 with medical casualties numbering an estimated 6,500.

It was stressed that civil defense must start at the local level for truly effective use. Present facilities must be expanded and all facilities must be available for mutual use.

National estimates point to the fact that with Russia only 6½ hours away great care must be taken to improve detection facilities. Military authorities state that an estimated 30 per cent of all attacking planes will get thru present defenses to carry out their missions.

Military authorities believe that target areas in this area which would add to the load of casualties that must be cared for here would include Minneapolis, Duluth, Superior, Fargo-Moorhead, Grand Forks and Rapid City.

Any person who is willing to assist in the civil defense work in this county is invited to contact county director Bruce Reski at the Pennington County Court House.

Herman A. Kjos Named Head of History Group

Elected at Annual Meeting Tuesday to Succeed Kay Barzen

Herman A. Kjos was elected president of the Pennington County Historical Society Tuesday at the annual meeting of the organization, held at the court house.

Kjos succeeds Miss Katherine Barzen in the presidency. Other officers elected were B. J. Bendickson, vice-president; and carry-over officers, Mrs. Frank Clinton, secretary, and Paul Roy, treasurer.

Before the election the group heard a report on the locomotive donated by the Soo Line, read by C. E. Hellquist, and the treasurer's report.

Arch Grahn, field director of the Minnesota Historical Society, gave the main address at the meeting. He gave a report on progress of county historical society organization in the state and said only 11 counties do not have such organizations at present.

He said progress thus far is very encouraging and that historical interest is mounting in Minnesota as well as over the nation as a whole.

Grahn deplored the fact that so many items of historical value have been destroyed but stated that this is probably because people in the state have been so busy building the state the past

Acreage Reserve Payments for '57 Start This Month

Field Compliance Check and Necessary Office Work Now in Progress

Some 1957 acreage reserve payments are expected to be made during June in Pennington county, according to Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

All payments cannot be made during June since the field compliance checking and necessary office work cannot be completed on all participating farms, Houske stated. Farms on which only one allotment crop is produced will be the first ones on which acreage reserve payments will be made.

Houske explained that the major items to be checked include: (1) Compliance within all acreage allotments on the farm; (2) the kind of crop, if any, which is growing on the designated acreage reserve; (3) measurement of the number of acres in the reserve; and (4) measurement of the acreage of the allotment crop remaining for harvest.

The acreage reserve agreements provide for an "acreage permitted for harvest" for the allotment crop placed in the reserve, the chairman explained. The acreage of a crop permitted for harvest is the farm allotment less the number of acres in the acreage reserve.

All farmers who do not have allotments but who have seeded wheat on their farms this year are urged to report their seeded acreage to the County ASC Office at their very earliest convenience.

Legion Officers Inducted Tuesday

Robert Bredeson Takes over as Post Commander

The regular meeting of the American Legion post was held Tuesday evening in the club rooms. Members attending were served a free supper. The main business of the evening was the installation of officers for the coming year.

Conductor of the ceremonies was ninth district commander, Don Fish of East Grand Forks. Officers installed were Bob Bredeson, commander; Wallace Jordet, Vernon Thorstad, Ormond Johnson, and John Holzinger as the four vice commanders; Alvin Anderson, chaplin.

In turning over the gavel to the new commander, outgoing Legion head, Elsworth Jorgenson complimented the post committees for the work accomplished this year.

Other business was the hearing of reports of committees. Convention committees submitted final reports of the Ninth District Convention held here last week.

Guard Company F to Leave June 15 for Camp Ripley

A total of 115 officers and men of Company F of the National Guard in Thief River Falls will leave with their equipment Saturday morning, June 15, for Camp Ripley near Little Falls, where they will spend two weeks on maneuvers, along with members of other units. School Board Studies '57-8 School Budget

Approves Purchase of 2 School Buses From Forkenbrock

The board of education of Thief River Falls School District 18, at its June session Monday evening, approved a preliminary budget for the 1957-58 school year which will entail a mill rate estimated to total about 78 mills for city property owners, up about five mills from this year, and 57 mills on rural property, an increase of about two mills. Definite action on the budget will not be taken until next fall.

The proposed budget, exclusive of capital outlay, building and debt retirement, calls for estimated receipts of $793,000, of which special state aids will supply $520,000, compared to $410,000 this year.

Disbursements are estimated at $786,000, of which the major item is $532,000 for instruction. The proposed levy of 78 mills for the city of Thief River Falls is divided as follows: Debt service, 27 mills; county levy, one mill; capital outlay, eight mills; and maintenance, 42 mills.

The board also adopted a statement of policy for the school administration, which will be published at a later date in the official minutes in the Times.

The bid of Forkenbrock Motor Co., lowest of four received for supplying the district with two school buses, was accepted in the amount of $10,906, including the trade-in of one old bus.

Ten bids on various items of equipment for the commercial department of the area vocational school were considered, and the bids were laid over until a later date for analysis.

The board officially accepted parts of Districts 17 and 84 in Marshall county for inclusion in the Thief River Falls district. Of the area of the two districts, 78 per cent will be added to School District 18, with the remaining 22 per cent added to the Holt district.

Supt. J. A. Sater reported that all but three teachers of the 110-member faculty for the coming year have now been secured. Remaining to be named are a girls' physical education instructor and two grade teachers.

Co. Board Asks State to Deny S. D. Petitions

Majority of Board Opposes Mavie Area Dists. Joining TRF

With the three rural members of the board voting in favor of the motion and the two Thief River Falls members abstaining, the Pennington county board at its June session Tuesday adopted a resolution asking that the state department of education deny the petition of three school districts in the Mavie area for annexation to the Thief River Falls district 18. Affected are Districts 15 and 46 in Pennington county and District 76 in Marshall county.

Commissioner Don L. Olson of this city then introduced a resolution pointing out the gravity of the situation and asking that the state department of education conduct a public hearing on the matter in Thief River Falls; urging also that additional state financial support be made available to the Goodridge school district, No. 8; and stating that the three districts affected should have the right of self-determination. The motion failed of passage, the vote being 2 to 2, with chairman Glen Tasa abstaining.

Taking action similar to that of the city council, which met Tuesday evening, the board voted to set up jointly with the city a county-wide civil defense agency under the provisions of a state law. Bruce Reski, Lincoln high school teacher, was engaged to direct the organization work at a salary of $250 per month for June, July and August, and $50 per month for the remainder of the year, with the county and city dividing the cost.

Commissioners Merle Lindberg and Odin Hanson were named to serve on a civil defense board along with members to be named by the council.

The board accepted the resignation of Harold Dietz as equipment maintenance foreman for the county highway department, and is now seeking a successor. Applications for the post of motor patrol operator to replace

Minnkota Manager Discusses Bringing Power to T. R. Falls

Addressing a joint meeting of the Rotary and Lions clubs Monday noon, Andrew L. Freeman, manager of the Minnkota Power Cooperative at Grand Forks, discussed the steady growth of the huge co-op and told of plans to supply Thief River Falls with needed electric power starting next fall.

Introduced by W. E. Dahlquist, Freeman stated that Minnkota has grown from a small beginning in 1940 to a point where today it supplies current to 12 rural electric co-ops including the Red Lake Electric co-op, serving this area.

He said that Minnkota now provides current for 45,000 members spread over 35,000 square miles in Eastern North Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota. The system, he added, embraces 27,000 miles of rural lines and 1,450 miles of transmission lines.

Freeman stated that the Garrison dam project is now supplying Minnkota with virtually all of its power, but that when the water supply declines later in the year it will be necessary to put Minnkota's generating plant back into use.

He told of the decision of the Thief River Falls city council to bring Garrison dam power to this city. Minnkota, he said, will install the necessary transmission lines, and will supply the city's power needs until firm power is available from Garrison dam, probably in 1959.

Firm power, Freeman said, will cost this city 5½ mills per kilowatt plus two mills to Minnkota, or a total of 7½ mills, while dump power will cost a total of 5 mills. Minnkota power will be made available to the city at a cost of one cent per kilowatt. He added that it costs the average municipal power plant about two cents a kilowatt to produce current with diesel engines.

He said that it would be necessary for some years to come to maintain the Thief River Falls plant on a standby basis.

Plant Switch Gear Bought for $159,508

Mankato Firm Low Bidder on Power Plant Apparatus

After considering eight bids on new switch-gear equipment for the municipal power plant necessary in connection with distribution of the greatly increased demand for electric current by consumers in Thief River Falls, the city council at an adjourned session Tuesday afternoon and resuming in the evening, accepted low bids for the equipment as well as for an addition to the power plant building to house it.

Awarded the contract to supply Westinghouse switch-gear apparatus and other items was the Draper Electric Co. of Mankato, which submitted a base bid of $159,508. Second low was Lawrence W. Best of this city, whose lowest base bid was $159,613. Other bids ranged up to $190,000.

What was the apparent low bid of $140,000 was entered by the Commonwealth Electric Co. of St. Paul, but this was eliminated when a representative of the firm convinced the council, City Engineer Douglas Stewart and City Attorney Robert Wurst that he had made an error in interpreting the specifications, and that the bid should have been $176,765.

The council awarded to Prichard Bros. Co. the contract to erect an addition to the power plant building at its quoted price of $11,192, the lowest of three bids received.

Also discussed at the meeting was the bond issue which must be sold to finance the project. Amount of the issue was tentatively set at $185,000 to cover cost of the switch-gear, building, engineering fees and services of a bond consultant.

Social Security Man to Be in TRF Tuesday

Frank Chalupsky, field representative of the Grand Forks Social Security Office will be at the City Auditorium, Thief River Falls on Tuesday, June 11, at 10 a.m. Individuals who have questions regarding social security may contact him on that date.

What's a social security card? It is just a little card with a blue border, a social security account number and a name. This is a question that Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the Social Security Office in Grand Forks has heard many times.

The social security account number is the number of the individual account, he said, to which the employer, employee and the self-employed make regular contributions. These contributions pay for old-age and survivors insurance.

Actually, he said, the card is the key to your social security account since the benefits payable to a worker and his family upon retirement or death are figured from the earnings credited to his social security account.

Kistler also stated that with school letting out many students will be taking summer jobs for the first time. It is important, he added, that these students obtain social security cards. Also if an individual changes their name by marriage or for any other reason the name on the social security card must be changed.

These cards may be obtained from any social security office. Application blanks for original or duplicate social security account number cards may be also be obtained at any post office.

Explains Flashy Looks of N. Dak. Group in Parade

For the benefit of the many persons who were puzzled and dazzled—by the brilliance of the lone North Dakota delegation in the Legion parade herelast Saturday, Wally Jordet explained the purpose of the chin foliage and bright orange and blue uniforms.

The whiskers, Jordet said, were grown to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of Portland, N. D. The big to-do will take place July 4 at Portland.

The uniforms? They're just the regular outfits worn by the Portland legionnaires and have no special significance, said Jordet, who hails from Portland, originally.

They really were flushy, weren't they?

Since the gold rush turned San Franciso into a booming city, fill dumped into the harbor has pushed the waterfront many blocks seaward and increased the actual physical size of California.

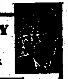
FARMING TODAY

by your County Agent

Paul Steimaschuk



Packing the Silo

Before long it will be time to put up silage again. Good feed is a must for good production and silage properly put up is good feed.

Horizontal "bunker" silos can give a farmer cheap storage space for his silage.

But research shows that silage needs to be uniformly packed at filling time to keep well in one of these above-ground structures.

In tests at the University of Minnesota's North Central Experiment Station, Grand Rapids, research workers found in 1955, that silage spoiled along the walls when the silage wasn't well packed in that area.

But last summer, workers at the Grand Rapids station packed the silage along the walls as well as all the rest and covered with 6 inches of sawdust. This winter there is no spoilage at all except for about an inch under the sawdust on tip. Horizontal silos also need drainage. In one silo at the Grand Rapids station, the concrete slab floor has a 2-inch crown in the center. That way, the liquid can drain to the sides and out. The side walls are raised 1 inch off the floor to insure side drain.

University reseach workers at present are testing two horizontal silos at the Grand Rapids station. Both are 62' x 16', with 6' walls. One silo had posts set in concrete and spacedevery 4 feet, and the other has posts outside concrete slabs, braced and set 6 feet apart. After two seasons of use, Aakre and Briggs say there is a definite advantage in having the posts for the sidewalls set in concrete, and spaced just 4 feet apart. More years of trial will be necessary, though, to tell for certain just what spacing and type of post are best.

Grass Silage

Always use a preservative when you make grass silage; it's the best insurance you have against spoilage.

Preservatives are needed for legume silage much more than for corn, says Rodney Briggs, agronomist at the University of Minnesota. That's because legumes, unlike corn, are low in sugars and are high in protein. Silage fermentation calls for plenty of sugars and other carbohydrates, so it's often necessary to add something to legumes to aid this fermentation process.

There are several preservatives that you can use.

Ground corn and cob meal, ground grain, beet pulp and liquid molasses are preservatives that will add carbohydrates and aid the fermentation process. They will also help absorb moisture and cut down feed value loss through juice flow from silage. Dry molasses is a good preservative but it's expensive.

Another preservative you can use is sodium metabisulfite. This material contains no carbohydrates, but inhabits fermentation.

Rates for adding dry preservatives legume silage are; corn and cob meal, 200-250 pounds per ton; ground grain, 150-200 pounds; beet pulp, 150 pounds per ton. Add liquid molasses at 80-100 pounds per ton and if you use sodium metabisulfite, use 8-10 pounds.

Dry preservatives can be spread over the load before unloading or then can be added at the blower. Liquid molasses need to be pumped to the top of the silo for best results, but may be added at the blower, and sodium metabisulfite must be added with a hopper or metering device on the chopper or blower. No matter how it's done, it's important to get sodium metabisulfite mixed well with the silage.

Flies on Cattle

Automatic treadle sprayers and cable-type "backrubbers" are both good tools for keeping biting insects away from beef cattle in the summer, recent research at the University of Minnesota shows.

But make treadle sprayers work, cattle must be coaxed through the device twice a day.

Backrubbers will work most anywhere. They're nothing more than a chain wrapped with burlap and canvas, and soaked with insecticide. The affair is suspended between two posts so that when cattle walk under it to rub their backs—which they just naturally like to do—they rub off some insecticide.

A treadle sprayer is an archway equipped with an automatic insecticide sprayer. As the animal walks through, it steps on a platform and the platform works a pump that sprays chemical insecticide on the animal's back and legs.

No Car Accidents Reported in Area

Juveniles Reminded of Law on Night Driving

No accidents on city streets or county and trunk highways were reported during the week by local law enforcemen agencies and the heads of all agencies involved were pleased that area drivers seem to be driving fairly conservatively, or at least have managed to keep the record clean.

All three agencies, highway patrol, city police and the county sheriff, reminded juveniles that a new law, Chapter 542 of the 1957 Minnesota legislature, makes it a misdemeanor for a person under 17 years of age to drive a motor vehicle on a public highway between the hours of midnight and 5 a.m. unless accompanied by an adult or in case of an emergency.

The punishment provided under Chapter 542 provides that a person convicted the first time shall have his drivers license suspended for a period of 30 days; upon second conviction the drivers license shall be suspended 60 days; upon a third conviction the license shall be revoked and a person whose license has been revoked shall not be issued a new license until he is 17.

According to the law "emergency" will not be strictly defined but it should be remembered that the primary purpose of the act is to combat juvenile delinquency.

All law enforcement agencies in Thief River Falls said enforcement procedure is now in effect and that violators will be apprehended.

.25 Inch More Rain Comes This Week

Temperature Continues Moderately Cool in Area

It has been said history repeats itself and Thursday, June 6, in northwest Minnesota is almost the same kind of cool, breezy, threatening day that June 6, 1944 was over the Normandy beaches.

If you'll remember, the weather threatened for a time to postpone the invasion of Europe. It may seem irrelevant . . . but weather, at times, has changed the course of history.

Moderately cool temperatures continue to dominate the northwest Minnesota weather picture as frequent showers fall on the area. The high temperature registered here since Monday was Wednesday's pleasant 75 and the low was 41 Monday.

Precipitation here totalled .25 inches of rainfall Tuesday and Wednesday, when .21 and .04 inches, respectively, fell.

The forecast is for partly cloudy skies and cooler temperatures today and tonight, with widely scattered thundershowers. Friday it will be partly cloudy with showers south. Highs will be 70 to 80 and the low between 45 and 52.

Light north to northeasterly winds will prevail and there will be moderate humidity. Little change is expected Saturday.

Herman A. Kjos Is Named President of History Group

100 years they didn't stop to realize they were actually making very important history.

He emphasized the importance of letting the state historical society examine all old papers, documents, etc., to determine their historical value. He said many new museums are being started in the state as a result of the increased interest in history and named several of the cities where museums have been installed recently.

Grahn also brought the attention of the local historical society to the enabling bill passed during the last legislative session, which removes all limits from the amount of money a county board may set aside for historical societies.

He also mentioned the bill enabling county boards to raise funds via levies, etc., for museums and other such historical displays.

Considerable interest in drawings of museum cases and display method materials brought by Grahn was evinced by the group. Grahn said the collection of historical articles is very important to children, the future citizens of the state. It helps instill pride in their state, he said, as well as curbing vandalism by teaching them respect for other's property.

Following Grahn's address several items to be added to the county society's collection were shown, which included old magazines, Indian medicine bag, needlework, etc.

Before refreshments were served to those in attendance at the meeting, President Kjos, who is also head of the Pennington county state centennial group, outlined several projects he hoped the society could accomplish within the next few years, including the erection of a plaque, roadside display; and other items of county historical significance.

TRF Flying Club to Meet Friday Night

Important Business Matters to Be Discussed

Members of the Thief River Flying Club were again reminded this week of the general meeting to be held at the airport Friday, evening June 7, by club president Kenneth Wendel.

Notices have been mailed to club members and an excellent turnout is hoped for because of the important discussions which will take place concerning the future of the club.

Inactive club members are especially urged to attend the meeting and bring themselves up to date on developments. It is inactivity by a large number of club members that is largely responsible for a minor crisis which faces the club, according to club officers.

The club's Flight Breakfast, scheduled June 16, will also be in the final planning stages at the meeting and all committee members are requested to attend and give progress reports, Wendel said.

Red Lake Falls Man Gets Suspended Jail Sentence

Frank Berg of Red Lake Falls pleaded guilty in justice court on Monday, June 3rd, to a charge of having illegally collected unemployment compensation benefits at the same time that he was also employed.

Berg was brought before Justice of the Peace Glen Fellman on complaint filed with Red Lake County Attorney, Charles E. Boughton, by R. S. Eldevik, manager of the Thief River Falls office of the Minnesota state employment service.

Eldevik charged that between January 24, 1956 and May 8, 1956 the defendant illegally collected a total of $131.00 in unemployment benefits during which period of time he was also employed.

Judge Fellman pronounced sentence of 30 days in the county jail, suspended on condition that Berg repay the total amount illegally drawn within 60 days, plus court costs.

Prowler Ball Club Dist. 31 Champion

Stout-hearted two-hit pitching by righthander Harlie Drees gave coach Ralph Skjod's Prowler a 6 to 0 win over the Red Lake Falls Eagles in a 31st district high school baseball tournament finals game played on the Fair Grounds diamond here Wednesday night. The game had originally been scheduled for the Warren park (where the tournament's previous games had been played) but a supper-hour downpour forced the shifting of the game to the Fair Grounds diamond here.

The Prowlers, winning their fifth successive district title, will enter the regional tournament at Fertile next Tuesday and Wednesday. According to the pairings, the Prowlers will meet the Baudette Burbots, champions of the 32nd district, in a first round game on Tuesday.

Although the Prowlers were held to but two hits, both singles, and of the scratch variety (Dean Bergland looped a single into short right field in the 1st inning, and Harlie Drees beat out a trickler down the third base line in the 5th inning), the locals took advantage of loose control by the Red Lake Falls' starter, Charley Kankel. Kankel, in the 4⅓ innings that he hurled, gave up but one hit, but issued nine walks, hit three batsmen, and uncorked four wild pitches.

In the 1st inning, Drees walked, moved to second on a wild pitch; Jery Jorgenson struck out on a wild pitch, but scampered to first base before the pitch could be retrieved, with Drees advancing to third. Jorgenson moved to second. Dave Berg lofted a fly ball to center, with Drees scoring after the catch. Bergland sent a looper into right field, with Jorgenson coming around from second with a run.

The Eagles made a threat in the 2nd inning when Kankel opened with a double to left-center; Gary Kulper walked, and a passed ball advanced the runners to third and second. Drees struck out Curt Demarais, Jim LaCoursiere, and Dennis Peterson to retire the side.

A hit batsman and four balls gave the Prowlers a pair of runs in the 3rd inning. And in the 5th inning, a walk, a hit batsman, and three wild pitches gave the Prowlers another two-run cluster.

Red Lake Falls made their second run to enter the scoring column in the 4th inning when, with one out, Demarais lined a double down the left field foul line. LaCoursiere followed with a base on balls; but Peterson lofted an infield fly to Jorgenson, and Harmoning whiffed for the third out.

Favorites were victorious in 31st district high school baseball tournament games played at Warren on Monday, with Climax, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls and Alvarado registering first round wins.

The Climax Vikings, with a six-run flurry in the 5th inning, pulled away from an ever-dangerous Goodridge team to defeat the Huskies, 9 to 3, in a tourney-opening game on Monday afternoon.

Coach Ralph Skjod's defending champion Prowlers, trailing the Warren Ponies by a 3 to 1 score entering the 5th inning, tallied six runs in the last half of the frame with two men out to defeat Warren. The Prowlers won the game by an 8 to 4 score.

Sophomore righthander Mickey Hanson hurled the first five innings for the Prowlers, with righthander Harlie Drees coming on to finish the game from the 5th frame. Drees was tagged for a home run by Dewey Sedlacek in the top of the 6th, but otherwise the stocky hurler held the Ponies in check.

In the best-played game of the opening round, the Red Lake Falls Eagles, behind the two-hit pitching of righthander Curt Demarais, defeated the Crookston Pirates, 2 to 1. Southpaw Bill Taylor pitched a fine game for the Pirates, limiting the Eagles to but two hits.

In the wind-up game of Monday's slate, the Alvarado Indians, with a four-run outburst in the 1st inning, defeated Oslo, 5 to 2.

In one of the finest pitching duels ever exhibited in 31st district high school baseball tournament history, the Prowlers' young Arlan Hjelle outpitched the Climax Viking's Myron Brataager to give coach Skjod's club a 3 to 0 win in thirteen innings in a tournament semi-finals game at Warren on Tuesday night.

Hjelle, in fashioning his shutout, gave up but four hits, whiffed nineteen batters, hit one batsman, and did not issue a walk.

The Prowlers threatened to score a number of times, leaving seventeen men stranded on the bases, but it was not until the 13th inning that they were able to break the scoreless deadlock.

Hjelle opened the game-winning 13th inning by drawing a walk. A wild pitch advanced Hjelle to second base; on an attempted sacrifice, Ross Sloan was safe when his fly bunt dropped over the pitcher's mound for a hit. A wild pitch moved the runners around to third and second. Harlie Drees sent a ground ball to second base, and Hjelle beat the throw to the plate to score what proved to be the game-winning run. With Sloan on third and Drees on second, Jerry Jorgenson banged out a single to left field to score the two Prowlers and give the locals their 3 to 0 margin.

Hjelle retired the Vikings in order in the last half of the 13th, getting Brataager and Randy Rognes to ground out to first base, and Kent Peterson lofted a foul pop fly to catcher Dave Berg.

In the second game of the semi-finals, the Red Lake Falls Eagles defeated the Alvarado Indians, 12 to 2. By previous agreement it was announced that whenever a team gained a ten run lead after five innings of play had expired, that game could be called. With two runs across the plate, a runner on base and one out, the Eagles had a ten-run lead, and the game was called.

Calling All Golphers

Calling all golphers who are prospective members of the city's golf league, that is. And John Moum and Milt Reirson hope that they have many answers.

According to present plans, the league, teams will be composed of five players. Volunteer captains will select their own teams. The success of the league will depend largely on the captains that offer their services, and Moum and Reirson hope that these dedicated golfers will make their services available.

In the team play, four of the five scores will be used. Total number of strokes, less handicap, will determine the winner in each week's play. And the aggregate stroke total, less handicap, will also determine the season's winner.

In the individual play, the same system will be employed, with the golfer recording the lowest stroke total, less handicap, being the week's winner. And likewise, the season's winner will be determined on a total strokes, less handicap, basis.

Any golfer wishing to captain a team, and the committee hopes that a number of boys will volunteer, should make their wishes known to Milt Reirson or John Moum.

The city golf league, the past several seasons has provided much fun and entertainment for the golfers, but if it is to maintain that level, the league must have the cooperation of all the golfers.

Extending an Invitation

The officers and members of the Thief River Trap Shoot club have extended invitations to all shooters interested in the "clay bird" game. And the invitations isn't limited to men, either, for the club hopes to get the ladies interested in trap shooting. It's a fact, you know, that one of the finest trap shooters in the nation is a lady, Mrs. Carola Mandel of Chicago.

The club holds its league shoots on alternate Thursdays. There will be a shoot this Thursday, but that will be for the team members who were unable to be present at last week's regular shoot.

The next regularly scheduled shoot will be on Thursday, June 13th. So make it a point to drive out highway 59, north, and turn in at the trap shoot grounds. You can't miss it.

And speaking of the femine shooters, Mrs. Roy Peterson made her first try at trapshooting last Thursday, and she broke over half the birds. Of course Mrs. Peterson isn't entirely inexperienced at gun-handling for she has done considerable upland game-bird hunting.

A Record Breaker

Only one athlete from the eighth region was able to garner any points in the state high school track and field tournament held in the University of in Minneapolis on Tuesday. And those points were gained by Bemidji's high-jumping Jim Patten.

Patten, who was the defending champion in the event, made a leap of 6 feet, 2⅜ inches. That was a new record, bettering the old mark of 6 feet, 2 inches which had been on the books since 1910.

We still stubbornly maintain that had Patten been able to play basketball with the Lumberjacks in the state tournament this spring (he was sidelined by an ankle injury) that the Jacks would have beaten the Minneapolis Roosevelt team. As it was, coach Bun Fortier's team lost in an overtime.

Here's Our Dime

We haven't been able to obtain verification of the report that Garf Benson, Red Hoppe, Frank and Rog Tunberg, Bob Carlson, Shorty Perkins and others, have formed a committee to accept contributions from fans to help those six New York Yankees pay their $1,000 fines.

We know a couple of fair-minded fans who would gladly contribute to a fund, if they knew that the money being collected would be used to buy a poison-ivy wreath for manager Casey Stengel!

Sandy's a Prospect

Several of the city's trapshooters participated in the first annual 500-bird marathon trap shoot that was held at Grafton, No. Dak. on Sunday.

The shoot was held at the Walsh County Gun Club grounds, and attracted some of northwesterns Minnesota's and northeastern North Dakota's top-flight trapshooters.

Sandy Wilson, the local club's sharpshooting junior trapshooter, gained runner-up honors in the Class B division. Sandy, breaking 454 x 500, was second to the Class B winner, Matt Brandenberber of Rosholt, So. Dak. who scored 455 x 500.

The high over all gun was John Bergman of Grafton, with 478 x 500. The Class winner was C. C. Hullinger of Grand Forks, with 477 x 500, and the runner-up, Mort Aakrann of Minot, with 476 x 500. In the Class C, Gust Hoberg of Fargo was winner with a 438 x 500, and Bob Fair of Grafton runner-up with 432 x 500.

Gifford Retires from Soo June 30

District Sales Manager Giving up Duties Friday

O. D. Gifford, Soo Line general agent here since 1952, and district sales manager since last January, is giving up his duties Friday, preliminary to his official retirement June 30 after having served the company for 42 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford plan to move next week to Hamilton, Montana, in which four of their nine children are living. During his residence here, Gifford has been a member of the Rotary club, Elks lodge and Chamber of Commerce, and served last year as president of the Pennington County Sportmen's club.

After being employed by the Great Northern railway, Gifford began work with the Soo Line as a yard clerk at Drake, No. Dak., then transferred to Paynesville, Minn., and Hankinson, No. Dak., as cashier, followed by 24 years at Minot, No. Dak., in various capacities, including traveling freight agent, until coming to Thief River Falls in October, 1952.

VIKING . . .

Alton Sackett together with Maynard Peters of Thief River Falls spent Memorial Day at Pine Lake fishing.

Rev. Justin Dokken returned Friday from Minneapolis where he had spent a few days at the University hospital having had a minor ear surgery on Tuesday.

Winnipeg Rifle Shooters Win Top Honors in Tourney

Many N.W. Communities Participated in Event on Range North of City

Twenty-three riflemen, representing rifle clubs from Winnipeg, Manitoba, Fargo and Grand Forks, North Dakota, and Crosby, Moorhead Cummings, Halstad, Lancaster, Thief River Falls, and Outing, in Minnesota, participated in the annual summer tournament sponsored by the Red River Valley Rifle league and which was held on the local club's outdoor small-bore range on Magnuson's addition north of town.

Winnipeg riflemen monopolized individual and team honors. Arnold Park was the match winner in the Master class with an aggregate of 994; with Leo Vilz of Fargo runner-up with a 990. In the Expert class, John Sinclair of Winnipeg was the match winner with an aggregate of 988. Jack Craig, also of Winnipeg, won runner-up honors with a 987 aggregate.

Miller Falaas of Halstad broke the monopoly of the Canadian shooters by taking the match honors in the Sharpshooter class with an aggregate of 979. Beulah Craig of Winnipeg earned runner up honors with a 978.

In the Marksman class, Dennis Coulter of Grand Forks was the winner, having an aggregate of 961.

In the team event, the Winnipeg quintet of Lloyd Bunting, Arnold Park, John Sinclair, Jack Craig, and Jim Manson, totaled an aggregate of 3955, having a 27-point margin over the runner-up Grand Forks team.

Thieves Schedule 3 Week-end Games

Play Erskine Merchants at Erskine This Evening

The senior baseball Thieves, a member of the Northern Minny league, will face a busy week end. On Thursday night, on the lighted playing field at Erskine, manager Gene Sack's club will meet the Erskine Merchants.

On Sunday the locals will play a doubleheader, meeting the Winger Tigers at Winger in an afternoon game, and then playing off a postponed game against the Bagely Merchants at Fosston in the evening.

To bolster the local club's roster, general manager Harold Johnson, this week, signed veterans Bill Hallameck and Jesse DuChamp to player contracts. While Hallameck and DuChamp are experienced infielders, the two players are capable pitchers, too. Bill Hallameck intends to remain on the Thieves roster until his young son Bob, who has been sidelined by a fractured collar-bone, is able to return to action.

To Plan on Friday for Horticultural Convention Here

Committees to handle details of the annual convention of the Minnesota State Horticultural society in Thief River Falls August 15 and 16 will be appointed at a meeting Friday evening, June 7, at 8:30 in the court house, it was announced today by Mrs. I. B. Geving, president of the TRF Garden club.

Members of that club as well as the Wabagensin Garden club, she added, are urged to attend the meeting.

Meeting recently with the executive boards of the local garden clubs were E. M. Hunt, secretary of the state society and editor of the Minnesota Horticulturist, and A. E. Hutchins, assistant editor and program chairman for the state convention.

The two officials expressed satisfaction with tentative plans made by the local committee for the convention.

Thank You

Speed Control Urged for Drivers in June

"Speed control is for your protection. Cooperate with your enforcement officers." This was the advice given to motorists today by the Minnesota highway department. Safety officials urged everyone to support a stepped up speed control program which is the June traffic theme of the department and the Minnesota Safety Council.

The program is part of the nationwide "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign, which has as its summer theme "Slow Down and Live."

Speed regulations are adopted for the protection of everyone, the department explained. The rules represent the combined thinking of traffic engineers and enforcement officers. Before a speed limit is established for a given area, studies are made dealing with engineering conditions of intersections and curves; type of areas such as residential, commercial or schools; amount of traffic; and varying volumes of traffic.

Drivers who disregard posted speed regulations based on such careful studies have little respect for their own safety, the department pointed out. It is the endeavor of traffic engineers to move vehicles as fast as possible yet be consistent with safety. Speed zones provide a means of moving traffic smoothly with little inconvenience.

Posted speed limits give the speed that is safe under ideal conditions of weather, road traffic, driver and vehicle. If any one of these conditions is not up to par the driver must compensate by reducing his speed, the department emphasized.

"Common sense determines a safe speed under various varying conditions," said the Highway department. "The wise driver is his own traffic officer and does his own policing. By adapting his speed to road conditions, the driver moves in the best possible time and in the safest manner. That is why the June theme of Speed Control urges everyone to drive at reasonable, not top speeds."

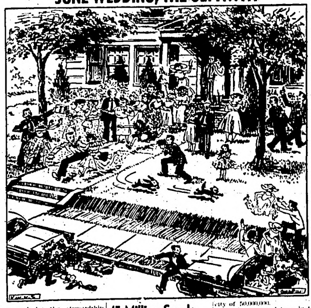
Pastor from Holt Shares in School for Luth. Laymen

Rev. James R. Peterson of Holt participated in a special training school for Lutheran laymen in Detroit Lakes last week end sponsored by the stewardship department of the Evangelical Lutheran Church (ELC), with headquarters in Minneapolis.

The sessions were held at the Graystone Hotel with the Rev. Orval A. Schmidt and Tillman S. Stevens, ELC stewardship counselors, both of Minneapolis, conducting the training school—part of a series of sessions being conducted throughout the ELC's ten districts in Canada and the United States.

Purpose of the school was to instruct laymen from the ELC's Northern Minnesota district including 128, 124 members in 378 congregations in techniques of the "Every Member Visit" (EMV), a planned program for developing stewardship practices among individual members of local congregations.

JUNE WEDDING, THE GET-AWAY



45 Million Seeds Being Planted in State Nurseries

Expected to Produce 40 Million Seedlings to Plant in Future

As the last bundles of seedling trees are shipped for planting this spring, foresters at the three state tree nurseries have started planting 45,000,000 seeds to produce seedlings for next spring and years in the future. The seeds will probably start about 40,000,000 seedlings and when the trees are dug in two or four years, the number may have been reduced to 35,000,000 trees, due to infertile seed, animal destruction, winter conditions and other hazards of nursery operations.

Ray Clement, forester in charge of nurseries and planting, state division of forestery, said that about 16,500,000 trees were planted this spring. In spite of the dry soil conditions over most of the state for the first weeks of the planting season, the late rains have benefited most of the plantations and he anticipates a good survival for 1957.

The three nurseries are located at Carlos Avery Game Refuge, where a considerable amount of game food and cover stock is produced, the Willow River nursery near Willow River with a capacity of 50,000,000 trees, and the Badoura nursery, south of Akeley, which also has a capacity of 50,000,000.

The inventory of trees in the nursery are from one to four years old. The deciduous trees, such as elm, ash and maple are one or two years old, while the coniferous pines, spruce and cedar are three or four years when dug and shipped for field planting.

The total in the three nurseries increases each year with the demands for planting stock. Planting on private lands for woodlots, windbreaks, erosion prevention, and game protection is increasing each year as landowners become aware of the opportunity to secure trees.

Detailed information and forms for ordering trees may be secured from the county agricultural agents, the field foresters and offices of farm agencies. It is suggested that requests for trees be sent in after September 1 next fall, and they will be filled in the order received.

Women Invited to Join U. S. Army Corps Contingent

Only one more week remains for interested young women between the ages of 18 and 34 to see Sergeant L. T. Clemenson of the Thief River Falls Army recruiting station and make application to join the Women's Army Corps and leave with the group of young women on the 20th of June.

This time limit has been set for this special group as the time necessary for the processing of applications will not allow anyone to leave with the group who applies after the 12th of June.

Anyone desiring information on this group is asked to contact Sgt. Clemenson at the Auditorium as soon as possible.

Good or Evil

The Nautilus, our first atomic-powered submarine, recently set a new long distance underwater record. In seven days it traveled more than 3,000 miles without surfacing, moving at an average depth of 200 feet.

Such a performance, revealing the tremendous potential for good in atomic energy, offsets to some extent our fear of it as a destructive force. Whether it proves to be good or evil will depend upon the success of our efforts to control its uses.

In atomic energy, as in so many other things, a great power has within itself the capacity for both great good and great evil. The forces of good and evil are closely related.

How They Grow

The United States Information Agency is a propaganda organization established by our government to convince foreigners that we really are nice people and that they should like us. Like most government agencies, U.S.I.A. has had a tendency to expand, and, as has been aptly pointed out, as these agencies become more expansive they also become more expensive.

For the year 1956 Congress appropriated $87 million for this service. For 1957 the agency was authorized to spend $113 million. And for 1958 the administration requested that $140 million to be made available. This is one of the items in the budget that properly has received considerable attention.

A Senate and House conference committee has recommended a cut-back to $96.2 million. That is still a ten per cent increase over what was allowed for 1956 and appears to be a very liberal compromise.

Considering the developments of recent weeks maybe it would be a good idea to back up and figure out a new approach to this national problem of making friends and influencing people.

Soil Bank Here at Home

How is the Soil Bank program working out here at home? For information on that controversial subject we spent a coffee hour with Pat Culkins, keeper of the records for the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. From him we learned the following facts.

Uncle Sam will pay more than half a million dollars this year to participating Pennington County farmers.

There are two parts to the program. There is the Soil Bank itself which applies only to basic crops, and the only basic crop grown in our county is wheat. And there is what is called the Conservation Reserve, which includes all other lands eligible to be included in the program.

Wheat acreage in the county will be cut about 50 per cent this year. For taking 5,101 wheat acres out of production 305 farmers will receive an estimated $96,000, the per acre payments ranging from $14.20 to $24.40.

Under the Conservation Reserve program 31,217 acres will be taken out of production, for which 278 farmers will receive about $285,000 plus another $140,000 for seeding some of these acres to "permanent vegetative" crops. Payments for crop land put into the Conservation Reserve range from $7 to $10 per acre.

The total payments add up to $520,000.

There is some duplication in the number of farmers participating in these programs so the actual number would be less than the sum of both groups. In terms of total acreage taken out of production, it represents a little more than ten per cent of the crop acreage in the county, the total being 327,000 acres.

Reports that many farmers have put all of their land into this program apparently do not apply to Pennington County. Only 25 land owners in this county participated 100 per cent. Nor is it true that only the poorer lands were included. All lands must measure up to a minimum standard to qualify.

These are the facts and from these figures almost any kind of a conclusion can be drawn.

Mr. Culkins thinks that some of the criticism of the program is justified. Because of the late authorization little was accomplished last year and mistakes were made. He is satisfied that the liklihood of errors or fraud this year has been greatly reduced. He thinks the program is meeting with more favorable acceptance as its provisions, and purposes, are understood. He believes some changes in the law are essential to its success.

Obviously not all farm operations can be adjusted to a program of this kind and 100 per cent participation is not expected. Nationaly the participation is far less than the total hoped for, and because of this the program this year will fall far short of the objective that was set for it in reduced production and surplus disposal.

With the overall facts as we understand them to be, we are satisfied that the program is basically sound and should be given a fair trial. It appears to be fair to the farmers who are able and willing to participate. And assuming that surplus disposal is a necessary preliminary to fair market prices, the program is also operating in the best interests of those farmers who are unable or unwilling to participate.

Sponsored, as it has been, by both Democrats and Republicans, we would guess that of all the farm programs this one should be voted the one most likely to succeed.

We Must Be Prepared

There are wide differences of opinion, even among authorities, as to the effects of the tests of nuclear weapons. It is not strange therefore that those of us who have no understanding of such things become confused by the conflicting statements that are made.

Under the circumstances, if there is a reasonable doubt as to whether or not such explosions are a menace to health, why are they continued?

In a recent issue of the New York Times, William E. Laurence gave a plausible answer to this reasonable question.

The main purpose of the tests is to find out exactly what does happen, and what are the dangers, and what can be done to protect us from these dangers. While the tests are conducted to further the development of nuclear weapons, they also are made "to yield knowledge making such weapons ineffective", Mr. Laurence reports.

"The pending series of nuclear weapons tests are aimed to reveal much more than how to produce 'the maximum bang for a buck'" he says.

Referring to the program now under way he states:

"The scheduled series of fifteen or more detonations, scientists in charge of the Nevada tests report, is designed to advance thirty-three major research programs of five agencies, involving 145 key experiments. Each shot involves on an average upward of five major experiments and seventy-five or more secondary ones.

"The Civil Effects Division of the Atomic Energy Commission, in Washington, deals with both civil defense data and basic scientific knowledge. It has ten nuclear research programs and fifty-five major experiments pending in the current test series.

"These involve broad studies of radiation fallout phenomena; behavior of nuclear particles emitted in explosions; blast effects on structures and living things; radiological counter-measures and training procedures and design of instruments for obtaining new data.

"As in previous tests, this research involves the use of a variety of animals—monkeys, pigs, dogs, mice and guinea pigs. One of the questions to which an answer is being sought is how closely the effects of radiation on animals are comparable to the effects on humans.

"The speculative apprehension voiced internationally about radiation dangers, is based largely on laboratory experiments with such subjects as fruit flies and mice.

"The initial bomb shelter research by the Federal Civil Defense Administration was based on the assumption that human beings would have to stay in the shelters for only short periods. With the development of the hydrogen bomb with its vastly increased fallout, the agency is approaching the question of shelter from the standpoint of possible extended occupancy, a situation involving problems of sanitation, food and water supply, and air filtration."

We are unanimous in the hope that the knowledge being gained will never be needed. If we should be attacked however, and we cannot write off the possibility of a Pearl Harbor sneak attack on our great industrial centers, then the knowledge obtained through these tests will improve our chances for survival.

Until nuclear weapons are outlawed, and an enforcement agency in which we have confidence is created, our self interest will require us to be prepared for the worst.

Less Taxes

(Montevedio American)

We see by the papers that the house education committee in Washington has cut by half a billion dollars the school construction bill, figuring that the cut might make the bill more acceptable to an economy-minded congress.

There is only one way to cut expenses and that is to stop expanding big government. And certainly now is not the time for the federal government to go off on a spending spree with a new program of federal "aid" to schools.

The average voter is intelligent enough to know that expanded federal spending is a political trick designed to make a good impression on the voters some time between now and the 1958 elections. It is amazing to think that the scheme still works with some of the voters.

It would seem to us that if they are anxious to make an impression upon the voters, both parties would try to do something about cutting down on the mamoth income tax take.

And about the only way in which that can be accomplished is for both parties to live up to the campaign promises of "efficiency" in government," stopping "waste and extravagance," taking a "more realistic" approach to almost confiscatory taxes.

In case you don't know the reason for that ten-minute hiatus in the middle of the Legion convention parade here Saturday, we hasten to inform you that a long Soo Line freight won the argument over the right-of-way.

Incidentally, Legionnaires must be getting more sedate as they advance in years. They held a convention in Thief River Falls last week-end, and the town's old landmarks still stand.

The Family Auto Magazine
THE ABOVE brief clipping tells you worlds about the '57 Buick.
It tells you we went all out to make this car completely new—yet we didn't sacrifice a single Buick virtue.
So you still get that unmistakable Buick styling.
You still get that big-car room and comfort and that solid Buick quality.
But you also get so complete a change in the vitals of this car that the driving of it is a wondrous new experience.
You get a brilliant brand of performance that's different from anything else that goes on four wheels.
Words won't describe it. Telling you there's an all-new engine, an instant new Dynaflow,* a completely new power train—none of that will convey this news to you.
What you have to do is get in this car and drive it. Drive it around the block, through town, out on the highway. Actually feel what happens when you press the gas pedal, turn the steering wheel, touch those powerful new brakes.
Then—and not till then—will you know why folks call this "the dream car to drive."
The best advice we can give you, by far, is this: Ask your dealer for a trial run today.

Good telephone manners are just as important as choosing the right spoon for the soup. If you're on a party line, listen briefly before you begin a phone call—hang up quickly and quietly if the line's in use. Other tips for good party-line service: space out your calls, replace the receiver carefully, give up the line for emergency calls. Remember, party-line courtesy is catching. Is It Really Important To Drain Your Car's Anti-freeze Every Spring?

A Frank Report from the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers *

Every fall and winter, you're bombarded with warnings to install anti-freeze. You're urged to use "permanent" type for extra protection. You are told that special inhibitors in the anti-freeze will protect against acid, rust, and corrosion.

So why drain out all this protection in the spring?

The answer lies in correctly understanding the word "permanent" in anti-freeze. It really means winter long or seasonal, not year after year. All "permanent" anti-freezes can turn acid after one season's use. Air and exhaust gases, seeping into the cooling system form harmful acids. Special inhibitors neutralize these acids as they form. After a full season's use, however, the inhibitors can become depleted—and the solution dangerously corrosive.

Corrosive solutions eat away at cooling system metals, sometimes forming several pounds of rust in a single season. When rust clogs the radiator and narrow engine water passages, the result is a steaming, overheated engine. And you also risk:

A Cracked Block
A "Seized" Motor
Wasting Oil
Serious Valve Trouble
Warped Cylinder Heads
A Ruined Automatic Shift

So, play it safe! Drain out winter-worn anti-freeze now—and you'll be money ahead. Replacing a rusted-out radiator, for example, costs ten times as much as fresh anti-freeze. Add fresh water and a good rust inhibitor—and you're all set for trouble-free, summer driving.

America's favorite convertible is one of 21 Ford models for 1957

There's no need to pay a "fancy price" to enjoy fine-car luxury. Ford is lowest priced of the low-price three, yet offers values you'd expect only in cars costing far more!*

To start with, you can easily pay twice the money, and not find lines that can hold a candle to Ford's for lowness, loveliness, or just plain good taste.

But step inside. That's when you'll find the real evidence of Ford's quality!

And, on the way in, note that Ford offers door checks that hold doors open in either of two positions for easy entrance or exit. A little thing. But, in a fine car, why not? Then, inside, notice how comfortable those plush, foam-rubber seats are. They'll stay that way. And on long trips. For they're scientifically contoured over non-sag springs. Your rear-seat passengers are treated extra kindly, too—with spring assists to help them open and close the doors—with the most leg room in Ford's field!

Fine cars are smooth—and that's another place Ford really shows its stuff!

Ford delivers its famous V-8 power smooth as a whisper. That's because only Ford takes the pains to electronically balance each engine while running under its own power. Not even the makers of the most expensive automobiles go this far to bring you super-smooth performance.

Ford rides fine-car smooth and quiet, too. You can thank the new "Inner Ford" for that. Ford, for instance, has a swept-back front suspension that actually "rolls with the punch" of every road bump.

Ford's rear springs automatically adjust to give the right ride for every road. And Ford keeps things quiet, with the most sound insulation in its field.

Fine cars are built to stay solid. So's Ford!

Ford has the only frame in its field to make use of rugged tubular steel beams. No car at the price offers so many roof-strengthening beams. Expensive cars aren't built of thicker body steel or with sounder engineering skill. Then, of course, in Ford you can have all the power assists and other conveniences found in fine cars. And they cost far less in Ford.* Yes sir! In every feature, every part, Ford is the fine car at half the fine-car price. Come in and see!

Upon arrival the scouts pitched their tents and set up camp. About 200 scouts from 13 troops throughout the area attended the Camporee.

Flying Club to Map Project Plans at Session on Friday

Meeting at Airport to Seek Increased Flying Activity by Members

Members of the Thief River Falls Flying Club were reminded today by Kenneth Wendell, club president, of a highly important meeting to be held Friday evening at the airport.

In addition to completing plans for the club's flight breakfast to be held at the airport, Sunday, June 16, the group will discuss matters pertaining to maintenance of the club airplanes and club finances.

All members are urged to attend the meeting since ways and means of increasing club revenues will be one of the most important topics on the agenda.

Of the approximately 70 club members, a relatively small number have been flying regularly. It was pointed out that members should use the club planes more frequently since the club does not charge dues other than the initial membership fee and revenue from use of the planes is the primary source of club income.

An alternative to charging dues in the form of a spelial assessment has been suggested by several of the club members. Under the proposed assessment, inactive members would be faced with paying the assessment or, after a reasonable time lapse, be declared members not in good standing, and eventually may possibly be taken off the club's membership roster. All non-active club members who intend to resume their flying activities at a later date should attend Friday's meeting and make hemselves heard in this matter, Wendell said. He added that every effort will be made to increase club activity in order to avoid a special assessment.

The Friday meeting will chiefly center around possible by-law changes to make assessments possible if such become necessary, Wendell stated.

IKE GETS HOLSTEIN CALF FROM MINNESOTA DAIRY INDUSTRY

Minnesota's lovely Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Barbara Jean Bossus of Brainerd, is shown here in Washington, D. C., with President Eisenhower and Senator Thye (R., Minn.) and a picture of a registered Holstein heifer calf, Minnesota's Gypsy Kay, which was presented to Ike at his Gettysburg farm as the kickoff to June Dairy Month in Minnesota. Given to President Eisenhower by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, the group which Princess Kay represents, the calf was purchased from Art Jergens & Son Farm, Hutchinson, and donated to MDIC by the Minnesota Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association.

Trapping Seasons for '57 Listed by Game Department

To Open November 2d; Seasons on Beaver and Otter Announced Later

The opening dates for the 1957 trapping seasons, except beaver and otter, were announced today in St. Paul by James W. Kimball, director, division of game and fish.

In announcing the permanent opening dates and the dates on which they fall in 1957, Kimball ephasized that just as in the vase of the small game and deer seasons, the department reserves the right to close any trapping season completely even though the opening date had been established if it was later learned that a trapping season on any species was not warranted.

This plan of announcing fixed opening dates is in the nature of a trial run at first, but if it becomes established, trappers could plan on the same opening dates year after year.

"The season length and the number of fur animals that can be taken, said Kimball, will be established later in the year when detailed census information is made available to us by our field personnel. This will permit setting harvest regulations on the basis ofthe latest field data available.

"We are not announcing the opening dates of the beaver and otter seasons at this time", said Kimball, "because we are in the process of gathering information which has an important bearing on the selection of a fixed date. When we are satisfied that we are in possession of the necessary data on the subject, these dates will be released."

In the prepared statement both the fixed opening date and the date on which it falls in 1957 are shown Mink (Northern Zone) First Sat. in Nov., Nov. 2; raccoon (trapping), Nov. 2; badger, Nov. 2; and muskrat, Nov. 2.

District 'Share the Fun' Festival at Ada June 27th

Four district 4-H "Share the Fun" festivals have been scheduled for June in Minnesota, Earl Bergerud, district state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, announced today.

They will be held in Redwood Falls in the high school June 20; Faribault, high school, June 21; Aitkin, high school, June 26; and Ada, fair grounds, June 27 beginning at 8 p.m. In case of rain, the festival in Ada will be held in the high school.

The University of Minnesota agricultural extension service and Cargill, Inc., are sponsoring the "Share the Fun" program, which replaces the former 4-H Search for Talent contests.

Acts will be selected from the district festivals for the state wide festival to be held during the Minnesota State Fair.

2 IFYE's Going to Sweden & Holland

Genevieve Carter of Bemidji Awarded Trip

Two International Farm Youth Exchange delegates from Minnesota will sail from New York June 13 to spend the summer as International Farm Youth Exchange delegates to Sweden and the Netherlands.

Genevieve Carter, 21, Bemidji, and Dualn Vierow, 21, North St. Paul, will leave the Twin Cities June 9 by plane for Washington, D.C., where they will receive several days' orientation before leaving the country as grass roots ambassadors.

Miss Carter will live and work with farm families in Sweden until the last of October. Vierow will spend approximately five months living with farm people in the Netherlands.

Both young people have been active 4-H club members. Miss Carter was a 4-H club member for 12 years in Beltrami county. She holds a bachelor of science degree from Bemidji State Teachers' college and has taught second grade in the Hibbing schools this past year.

During the nine years Vierow has been a 4-H member, he has held many offices in his local club and has been president of the Minnesota State 4-H Club Federation, of 18,000 members. He received his B.S. degree from Hamline university June 3.

The two young people are the first of five Minnesota farm youth to leave for foreign countries under this year's IFYE program. Others who will be leaving in August and October are Margaret Mallak, Winsted, to India; Iver Aal, Starbuck, to Honduras; Donavan Johnson, Atwater, to Guatemala.

Minnesota will be host to 15 rural young people from 11 foreign countries this summer, in the return phase of the two-way IFYE program, according to Stanley Meinen, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota.

Purpose of the exchange is to increase international understanding at the grass roots level. The program is conducted by the National 4-H Foundation in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service.

Planting Dahlias

The dahlia is rapidly becoming one of America's number one flowers. For years it has been an old favorite, but with the development of new, beautiful varieties it has become more popular.

Dahlias like a well-drained, loose soil for best growth. A soil that is slightly sandy is satisfactory. They do not require a high level of nutrients as do many of our other plants. A soil that is rich in organic matter is usually satisfactory.

In dividing dahlia clumps, it is most important that a portion of the old stem be taken with each root that is to be planted. This is to insure that there will be buds on the root which is planted. Don't break the roots off the stem, but rather take a knife and split the stem apart and in this way divide the roots into groups for planting.

Dig the hole for each tuberous root 4 to 6 inches deep, depending on size of the root. The buds should be just below the soil line, so that they will develop early.

Control of insects is essential for good dahlias. Regular spraying or dusting with 5 percent DDT will control the harmful insects.

Removal of side buds will produce larger flowers in the formal decorative type of dahlia. However, don't remove the side buds if you want many blooms rather than a few maximum-size flowers.

A Masterpiece in the Flower Kingdom

The orchid is a flower of great beauty! It is recognized by horticulturists as a masterpiece in the flower kingdom, and reaches maturity only after seven years cultivation.

Physical beauty is the only requirement the orchid must fulfill to assume its place in the world. It is otherwise a soulless botanical specimen.

The botanist who cultivated this flower also possessed a son, and as the orchid approached maturity so also grew the child. The flower and the child were the objects of his greatest pride and affection. While his success with the orchid was certain, he failed in the greatest responsibility of his life—the training of his son.

The father's failure was caused by his inability to see the all important difference between the soulless flower and the immortal soul of his son. He thought only of the physical and mental prowess of his boy and thus neglected the child's greatest potential heritage—spiritual development. He had forgotten there was a Church! He had forgotten God!

The Church offers guidance and help to parents in the training of their children. Every parent and every child needs the sustaining strength of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

AT MURRAY'S RESTAURANT and all fine eating places
Butter makes good food better
Minnesota's lovely dairy princess at Murray's restaurant. This restaurant last year used 31,796 lbs. of Minnesota butter.
"BUTTER ADDS SO MUCH," says Princess Kay of the Milky Way as she's about to enjoy a "Silver Butter Knife Steak" at Murray's, well-known Minneapolis restaurant.
Art Murray, genial owner of Murray's, knows the importance of using real butter both as a spread and as a cooking ingredient. Murray's is one of the largest users of butter in the northwest,—over thirty pounds are used every day just on the popular little garlic toasts that are served with every dinner. In fact, butter is used in practically everything,—in soups, sauces, on lobster tails, and on top of his nationally famous sirloins. Last year, over thirty thousand pounds of butter were used in preparing delicious foods for the thousands of Murray's customers.
Every month is Dairy month at Murray's and it should be at your house, too. For butter contributes the gourmet taste that improves everything!
BUTTER SECRETS AT MURRAY'S:
Butter-garlic toasts: slices of French bread spread with garlic butter; then baked.
Silver Butter Knife Steak: spread top of broiled steak generously with butter, sprinkle with seasoning salt.
Minnesota's Dairy farmers remind you
June's best buys are dairy foods!
WHEN DINING OUT, LOOK FOR DAIRY FOODS ON THE MENU!

200 Calves and 30 Princess Aspirants to Compete in Event

Numerous committees are busily engaged today in completing final arragements for the eighth annual Northwest Dairy Day to be staged in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 11. Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee, again will serve as master of ceremonies.

4-H and FFA exhibitors will bring in 200 calves from ten counties for registration early Tuesday morning, following which they will be stationed for judging on Second St. between Main and Knight Aves.

Breed champions will be named, and the youth showing the grand champion grade animal will be presented at the 1958 show with a purebred calf, while the exhibitor of the top purebred calf will receive a free trip to the Waterloo, Iowa, Dairy Cattle Congress next fall.

Also competing Tuesday will be 30 attractive candidates from the ten counties for the honor of being chosen as Northwest Dairy Princess. The girl chosen will go on to compete at the state fair in August for the title of state dairy princess, otherwise known as Princess Kay of the Milky Way, who will be given full-time employment for a year to promote the dairy industry.

Judges of the princess contest will be Mrs. George Pederson and Jim Ball of Minneapolis and Ray Wolf of the University of Minnesota. Judges of the calf show are H. W. Filk, president of the Minnesota Holstein Breeders assn. and Dale Blank, young Waseca dairyman.

Judging of the calves will be completed early in the afternoon, and will be followed by a showmanship contest and the presentation of awards, including a prize calf to Synneva Rasagen of Fertile, who showed the grand champion grade animal at the 1956 show.

Following the conferring of awards, the young lady selected as Northwest Dairy Princess will be introduced to the assemblage, along with her attendants, and she will don her royal robe and crown.

The day's events will conclude with a parade thru the business district of all calves entered in the show, as well as the Dairy Princess candidates riding on floats and in convertibles.

Before leaving for their homes, the exhibitors will be presented with box lunches, replacing the smorgasboard held the past few years in Riverside park.

Girl from Fertile Gets Prize Calf Dairy Day Tuesday in T. R. Falls

Dairy Day Emcee

LEW CONLON
Manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee and originator of Northwest Dairy Day, who will serve again as master of ceremonies at the eighth annual Dairy Day Tuesday in Thief River Falls. Possessing a dynamic personality, Conlon will "put the show on the road" as he has in each of the seven preceding Dairy Days.

Among visitors in Thief River Falls on Northwest Dairy Day Tuesday will be the Paul Pierson family of Lake Elmo, Minnesota, from whose farm comes the choice purebred Holstein calf that will be presented to Synneva Roragen of Fertile, exhibitor of the grand champion grade animal in the 1956 Dairy Day show.

Joan, the Pierson's 15-year-old daughter, bought a purebred Holstein calf late last year and had been grooming it carefully for the Minnesota state fair. However, when William Moscrip, chairman of the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, and one of the outstanding judges of Holstein cattle in the country, saw Joan's calf he persuaded her to sell it to be given away at Thief River Falls.

It takes a great deal of courage to give up a calf with such an impressive pedigree and potential, but Joan felt it would be worth the sacrifice to create more interest in the dairy calf 4-H program. The calf, Supa Ska Connie Ormsby Regent, is to be the foundation of an entire purebred Holstein herd.

The Pierson's interest in 4-H seems to have passed on twofold

Flight Breakfast Planned for Local Airport on Sunday

Flying Club Approves New Arrangement for Assessment of Members

Final plans for the Thief River Falls Flying Club's annual flight breakfast was one of several topics discussed at a general meeting of the club held Friday evening at the airport cafe.

Eighteen persons were present at the meeting, which lasted several hours due to the many questions under consideration. Members of the various flight breakfast committees reported arrangements were being made to feed several hundred persons at the breakfast Sunday, June 16, to which invitations are extended to the general public in the Thief River Falls area.

Chief accomplishment at the meeting was a motion offered by Wm. Disse, empowering the club board of directors to amend the club by-laws so that separate assessments may be levied against club members if such become necessary, pending the approval of all the club members at a later meeting.

Disse also moved that the directors be empowered to add a part to the amendment to provide appropriate collection of any assesment that may be set later, along with penalties for non-payment. Both motions were passed by decisive majorities.

Also discussed were maintenance problems pertaining to the two club airplanes and ways and means of gaining new club members, as well as promoting increased activity among present members.

The flying club's flight breakfast will start next Sunday at 8 p.m. and last until 12, although anyone who arrives earlier than 8 will probably be fed on arrival. Facilities have been arranged so that those attending the breakfast will be served promptly. Other attractions will be offered the public and prizes offered visiting pilots.

All flying club members are urged to come to the airport the morning of the breakfast in order to help make the affair a success.

Patrol Promotes John Oven to Sgt.

Is Assigned to St. Paul Central Office of Patrol

The appointment of five new sergeants in the Minnesota highway patrol supervisory force was announced today by Chief Patrol Office Paul R. Martz. The promotions were made possible through recent legislation which increased the number of authorized supervisors by five. Included in the group is John L. Oven of Thief River Falls.

All promotions were made on the basis of merit, Martz pointed out, as determined by oral and written examinations administered by the state civil service department, and an evaluation board rating held earlier in the year.

John Oven, stationed at Thief River Falls, was assigned the St. Paul central office. He joined the patrol on March 16, 1948. A graduate of the Eveleth high school, Oven served in World War II and the Korean campaign, and served as commanding officer of Company F, Minnesota National Guard.

In four out of five fatal traffic accidents, one or more driver violations are involved, according to state accident records.

Arthritis Victims to Be Aided by Drive

The Minnesota Chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, has listed ten steps that arthritis specialists recommend to prevent arthritis. They are: 1. Try not to get tense and worried; 2 Don't push your body beyond its physical limitations; 3. Get sufficient rest and sleep; 4. Avoid excessive exposure to dampness and cold; 5. Avoid sudden and repeated strains on the joints; 6. If you must work hard, warm up your muscles first; 7. Avoid excessive body strain; 8. If you injure a joint get proper medical care; 9. Have all infections treated by a doctor; 10. Keep well nourished but not overweight.

This information is particularly appropriate because 23% of all farmers and farm workers suffer from arthritis. Also this is the time for the annual appeal for funds to "Conquer the Cripper." The Minnesota goal is $100,000 according to Chairman Roy W. Larson, Minneapolis.

There will be no direct solicitation of funds outside of the Twin Cities and Duluth. Mr. Larsen urges those people not being solicited to mail a donation to Arthritis, % Postmaster, Minneapolis, Minn. The funds will be used to further research as to the cause and cure of the diseases.

Arthritis is the name for the rheumatic diseases which cause inflammation of the body's joints. The two most common forms are rheumatoid and osteo-arthritis.

Rheumatoid arthritis is a generalized disease of the entire body that produces an inflammation of the joints. In its most common form it is slowly progressive, often leading to crippling. It attacks persons of any age, even children. It strikes three women for every man.

Osteo-arthritis is associated with aging and usually attacks those joints that undergo the greatest wear and tear.

Time will be allowed for questions from the forum at the conclusion of the session.

KEEP THY PROMISES

By Allen Wishert

WHENEVER J. C. Pennington pledged his word or gave a promise, nothing short of disaster could break it. Constantly, he impressed this distinctive mark upon his wife and daughter.

Mary, his daughter, whose wedding was to be solemnized the following evening, appeared apprehensive.

"Father," she was saying. "May I postpone my wedding a few weeks?"

"Why, Mary," replied J. C. "You have given your promise; a Pennington pledge is never broken."

Further argument was useless. Mary prepared herself for the final rehearsal. She viewed the entire procedure as a silly gesture; why cling to her father's arm while hitch-stepping down the aisle, keeping time with a pipe-organ striving to blow the steeple off the church?

Upon reaching a certain destination the other half of the act emerges from hiding through a secret door. He, too, is hitch-stepping, dragging one foot back of the other. The two lame-ducks make it an even-stephen race to the alter, and afterwards neither contestant ever wins in the long run.

They are told to kneel. The organ has lowered its tone, the steeple is still intact, someone is talking, the pillow on which they are kneeling has become as hard as concrete, knee-joints are tingling, lumbago and all its cohorts are leaping up and down their spines.

Finally, the wedding rehearsal has reached its finale. The stars are assisted to their feet, the director informs them that the main, the mammouth production, complete with effects and necessary accessories is billed for the following evening.

Upon reaching home, Mary flung herself across the bed, realizing why church weddings endure longer than simple home affairs. No woman is anxious to undergo such torture the second time.

Her mother entered the room. Her lips parted, but words failed to materialize, instead, tears splashed.

"Why the explosion, mother. I am the one who will be riding in the ambulance."

"My child," sobbed her mother. "It is quite unbecoming to make light of such a serious affair."

"You smacked that old proverbial head with the word: serious. Tomorrow evening I will resort to the identical tactics I suffered this afternoon."

The stillness that followed was ripped asunder by jangling of the front door bell.

"I'll answer it, mother," said Mary. "If whoever it is notes your expression, they'll begin looking for the crepé hanging to the door knob."

The caller was Bennie Lewis, a childhood playmate. In spite of intervening years, Mary recognized him instantly. Her first impulse was to embrace and kiss him. However, the thought of her betrothal stayed the desire.

"Where have you been all these years, Bennie?" asked Mary.

"Upon leaving when I was eight, I managed high-school, finished college, joined the marines, served two hitches. Now, I have decided to settle down."

"Intend marrying?"

"Yes, when will you be ready?"

"Ready? I, for—what?

"To marry me, of course."

"I am contemplating marriage tomorrow evening."

"Rather soon," said Bennie. "But—I can make it."

"Bennie, I am marrying Clyde Crawford."

He arose, went to the window, looked upon the street.

"Evidently," he said. "You have forgotten your promise."

"Promise?"

"The day I left we kissed for the first time and vowed to become man and wife when grown."

Canadian Truck Transport Driver Is Facing Charges

Ontario Man Charged by Crookston Authorities In Case Involving Girl

Joseph Lockes, 25, Oshawa, Ont., Canada, auto transport driver, was arrested in Crookston Sunday on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, according to Crookston Police Chief Dale Reagen.

Lockes' arrest came after he picked up a 17-year old girl in Crookston June 2 and drove her through Wisconsin and Michigan to Windsor, Ont., where he picked up a load of cars. The girl was reported missing by her parents and after investigation by state and local authorities it was discovered she had hitched a ride with Lockes.

Chief Reagan said Lockes was spotted by the highway patrol as soon as he entered Minnesota, enroute to Winnipeg. The the patrol trailed Lockes from Cass Lake to Crookston where Reagan made the arrest.

Reagen stated the FBI will question Lockes this afternoon about possible violation of the Mann Act during the time the girl was with him. The Mann Act is a federal statute dealing with transportation of women across state boundaries for immoral purposes.

If convicted Lockes would be turned over to the border patrol for further action.

Requests GI's Not to Pay Insurance on Monthly Basis

Holders of GI insurance policies who pay their premiums on a monthly basis were urged today by the Veterans Administration to elect an annual, semiannual or quarterly payment plan.

W. R. Carroll, manager Fargo VA Center, said the risk of policy lapses, due to oversight by those who pay their premiums 12 times a year, would be greatly reduced if the veteran has to remember paying only once, twice or four times yearly.

Not only will the policyholder enjoy greater convenience and savings in cost but also, he said, an economy in VA's operation of the vast GI insurance program would be effected through the smaller volume of bookkeeping that would result from multiple month payments.

Although a 30-day grace period for payment of the premium is in effect on each policy Mr. Carroll said, policy lapses among those who pay monthly are high.

Information on how to change to premium payments plans other than monthly can be obtained at any VA office or by writing the VA District Office Fort Snelling, St. Paul 11, Minnesota.

Cloudy Skies Are Prevalent in Area

.31 Inch of Rainfall Was Recorded in City Sunday

The opinion of area residents this gloomy Monday morning reflected by several persons who made the wisecrack that when nastier weather is brewed it'll be brewed in northwest Minnesota over a week-end.

The weatherman frowned on bass fishing addicts, especially those who fish only on Sundays, by opening the skies and dumping rainfall profusely. That is one "open sky policy" that's proving mighty unpopular with week-end sportsmen in these parts.

Temperatures since last Thursday ranged from a high of 75 Saturday and Sunday, to Friday's brisk 40-degree low. Rainfall measured .31 inch here Sunday, according to KTRF.

The Monday low in Thief River Falls was 49.

The forecast is for mostly cloudy skies and cooler temperatures today and tonight. There will be little temperature change tonight and Tuesday, with highs today ranging from 60 to 70 and lows tonight from 40 to 50.

The T & S Implement recorded their victory by outlasting a short-handed Cliff's team on Wednesday evening, winning by a 15 to 11 score. Gordy Kaushagen, the veteran righthander, coming in as a reliefer, gained credit for the victory.

Jaycees Discuss Details of Water Carnival July 21

Carnival Chairman Urges Water Skiers of Are to Share in Annual Event

Plans for the annual Thief River Falls Jaycee water carnival Sunday, July 21, were further developed at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce last Thursday evening in the Legion club rooms.

In submitting progress reports, Glenn Peterson, general chairman, and Stan Gibson urged the participation of all local water skiers.

Charles Samuelson, who with Mrs. Samuelson accompanied the two winners of TRF Teenage Road-E-O to the state meet at Edina, told of the good time enjoyed by the local participants.

Bill Penning, chairman of the bicycle Scotchliting project, reported that more than 600 bicycles had been treated, and he added that a small amount of material remaining had been turned over to the police department, which is prepared to Scotchlite additional bikes as long as the supply lasts.

N. H. Kortuem, Jaycee president, stated that the next meeting of the chapter Thursday evening, June 20, will take the form of a picnic supper in Riverside park.

BOYS WOUND TWO COWS ON MARSHALL COUNTY FARM

Cows are not to be used as targets for boys using rifles, Marshall county Sheriff Oscar C. Erickson warned last week. Two purebred Brown Swiss cows, owned by Isadore Wesalowski of McCrea township are still living, although they have been hit by bullets fired from .22 calibre rifles or revolvers. The cows were in pasture and one has four bullet holes in the neck while the other has one. Both are still living.

to their attractive, 15-year-old daughter, whose activities in that organization staggers the imagination. A freshman in Stillwater high school, Joan started her 4-H work with the Lake Elmo "Gopher Diggers" group in 1953.

In 1954 Joan bought a purebred Holstein calf at the state sale in New Ulm. This calf was the champion Holstein at both the Washington county and state fairs. In 1955 she showed the champion Holstein calf, but never took the animal to the state fair because it was consigned to the State Holstein sale.

Back into state fair competition in 1956, the daughter of the cow she had purchased as a calf in New Ulm won the reserve championship. Out of 55 animals in the blue ribbon class last year, Joan placed sixth.

Late last year Joan sold her 2-year-old and replaced it with the calf which she had been grooming for the state fair but which she sold to the Northwest Dairy Day Committee. This calf, as pointed out, has an impressive background indeed. Her sire was Peltz Monvic Bonheur Regent and her dam was Sapa Ska Nancy Ormsby Chipper.

The dam holds three DHIA records. As a 4-year-old she produced 13,210 pounds of milk and 521 pounds of fat. At four years and 10 months she produced 12,600 pounds of milk and 512 of fat. At five years and 11 months she produced 14,370 pounds of milk and 578 pounds of fat. As a two-year-old she produced 14,730 pounds of milk and 642 pounds of fat. The dam of the sire made 500 pounds of fat as a two-year old.

One thing for sure—all of the Piersons are going to take in Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls to see Joan's calf presented to Synneva Roragen.

"I hope I don't cry when they give my calf away," Joan said.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

It's almost here . . . another Northwest Dairy Day, that is. All that remains to be seen is, will the weatherman smile on us again? So far, they tell us, it has never rained on that day. Well, there's always a first time for everything but let's hope it isn't Tuesday!

Sold everything! We made a mistake in the date when we wrote that item about the colorful Legionnaires from Portland, N. D. That burg is having its celebration July 1-2, not on the 4th as we said. Heck, why not run a 4-day shindig, then declare the rest of the week a holiday in which to recuperate?

That's the whole trouble with short vacations, as we see it. You run, work and play like heck to crowd all the fun you can into a few short days—then when it's over you're more tired than when you started. The problem is bad enough with two weeks . . . some plutocrats get that much time off, you know.

A month would be ideal . . . three weeks to play in, one for recovery. Three weeks wouldn't be bad either—18 days play, 3 to rest. (Trouble is, we'd knock ourselves out right up to the end even if we got six months vacation!)

Don't get us wrong, we aren't griping . . . but it does seem odd this is the first city we've seen where one-week vacations are the rule, rather than the exception. Suppose we'll ever catch up with the rest of the world in this respect?

Talk about tough breaks . . . Ronald Ebbighausen catches a 12 lb. 8 oz. Northern Pike in the river across from the beach. Do you suppose he got top honors for the biggest fish caught in the river near here this year? No Siree. . . . A feller name of Jim Battleson topped Ron with a 15-pounder last week.

There's some consolation, tho . . . Jim's lunker won him a good cash prize last week and if no one tops Ron this week he'll do the same. We'd say that's good fishin' for a mere 15-year-old!

Seems odd to us . . . last week was the anniversary of the Normandy Invasion (June 6) and the battle of Midway Island. Well, comparatively little was said about what was the largest mass of men and machines of war ever gathered for an invasion before . . . (and such a force probably will never be seen again now that the A-and-H bombs have been invented) but the battle of Midway was hailed as one of the most decisive battles of all time.

To the fellows who hit the beaches and lived after June 6, 1944, any other battle would probably seem like a mere skirmish in proportion, no matter what the desk strategists in the magazine editorial offices say!

We won't take anything away from the heroes of Midway but we'd be inclined to say the Normandy fracas was pretty decisive, too. The Germans said we couldn't, we said we could . . . and we proved our point. The war ended less than a year later. Just how decisive can you get?

SO LONG!

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Oat Silage Value

By putting his oats up as silage, Winifred Gleitser, Gibbon, says he gets much more feed value per acre than he would by harvesting ripe oats. He put up oats as silage for the first time last year, is sold on the idea now. He harvested the oats in the dough stage, reports Duane Wilson, Sibley county agent.

Plant A Million Trees

Farmers in Benton county have signed up to plant more than a million trees under the Soil Bank program, according to Leonard Connelly of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Many of these farmers will plant trees in strips of 6 rods of trees, with 14-strips cropped nearby. This system will help control wind erosion and provide an ideal wildlife area.

Tops County Corn Contest

A conservation plan helped Joe Cannon in the Swift county soil conservation district to win the X-Tra corn yield contest there in 1956. Edwin G. Johnson, U. S. soil conservationist, says Cannon won by plowing under 300 pounds of 5-20-20 per acre and using 150 pounds of the same fertilizer as a starter. Cannon had an increase of 53 bushels per acre, compared to a check field.

Managed Forests Yield Well

In a well-managed natural forest at the University of Minnesota's North Central School and Experiment station, Grand Rapids, annual growth varied from 1.3 to 1.6 cords per acre at 60 years of age from seed. D. P. Duncan, University forester, says this is about three times what would be expected on unmanaged natural stands. Based on current stumpage prices, this growth would mean about $12 per acre if sold as lumber, Duncan says.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor of the Times:

Now that some more than three weeks have passed since I left Thief River Falls, I shall send this bit of brief greeting. I am getting the Times and it is of special interest to read it.

Just now the mayoralty contest is a live political subject here—I have known one of the candidates, P. Kenneth Peterson, over a period of some years—I plan this afternoon to attend open house when his parents note their 60th wedding anniversary—Pastor and Mrs. K. E. Peterson. He was pastor in Roseau more than 60 years ago.

Lord permitting, I leave June 25 for the North Pacific coast and I plan to return to this area in August. I have visited and spoken in various places during past weeks. I hope to attend sessions of the Mission Covenant annual meeting in Minneapolis, June 18-23, at which time several from the Valley area also, in all likelihood, will be on hand.

Thanking you for many kindnesses across many years, I remain,

2 Minor Traffic Mishaps in Area over the Weekend

Neither the city police nor county sheriff had serious traffic accidents to report over the past week-end, although each law enforcement agency reported a minor collision to mar an otherwise perfect week-end.

City police said Napoleon Bruneau, Goodridge, driving south on LaBree, 9:30 a.m. Saturday collided with a car driven by Gaston Ward, city, who was leaving a parked position

Only about $10 damage was reported to the Bruneau car, none to the Ward car.

The sheriff's office reported a car was "bumped" at Highlanding Saturday night but damage, not estimated, was very slight and no injuries were reported. No details were available.

Thieves Take Winger, Lose Two Past Week

It was a win and pair of losses for coach Gene Sack's senior baseball Thieves in their "road" campaign this week. Playing at Erskine on Thursday night, the locals dropped a high-scoring 14 to 11 decision to the Merchants. Playing at Winger on Sunday afternoon, the Thieves, piling up a 12-run first inning, defeated the Winger Tigers, 17 to 8. And in the best played game of the three-game series, playing the Bagley Merchants in the play-off of a postponed game, the Thieves lost to the league-leading Merchants, 6 to 3, at Fosston on Sunday night.

The Thieves will continue to play away from home on Wednesday, meeting the Red Lake Falls Lakers at Red Lake Falls. The first home game (the season opener which was to have been played here was postponed because of wet grounds) will be next Sunday, June 16th, when the Fosston team will meet the Thieves in a league tilt on the Fair Grounds diamond.

Sunday night's game at Fosston, against Bagley, was an exhibition of good league baseball. Righthander Jesse DuChamp, pitching for the Thieves, and Lefty Ken Severud, hurling for Bagley, were in a scoreless duel for three innings.

In the top of the 4th inning, Gene Sack opened with a line single, advanced to second on an error, moved to third on an infield hit, and scored when Sid Vraa laid down a "squeeze play" bunt.

That 1 to 0 was short lived as Bagley, on singles by Earl Erickson and Ken Severud, plus a double by Pitt Prestemoen, tallied twice in the bottom half of the 4th frame.

Four base hits and a Thieves error accounted for a three run Bagley cluster in the 6th inning, giving the Merchants a 5 to 1 lead.

The Thieves threatened to "get back into the game" in the 7th inning when, with Vern Nolting pitching for the Merchants, they loaded the bases with none out. Vraa scored on a DuChamp's trickler down the third base line; Gene Sack hit into a force play; Sloan walked, forcing in Duane Glass with a tally; and then with two out, Nolting whiffed Joey Poole.

Earl Erickson's triple into left field and Ken Severud's infield hit accounted for Bagley's final run in the last half of the 8th inning.

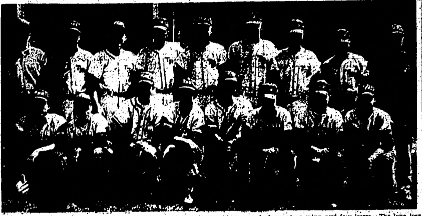
Here's District 31 Champion Prowler Baseball Club



Here they are! Coach Ralph Skjod and his baseball Prowlers who won the 31st district high school championship on Wednesday night by defeating the Red Lake Falls Eagles, 6 to 0, in a finals game played at Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers, winners of the district title for five successive years, will enter the regional tournament which will be played at Fertile on Tuesday and Wednesday. The first-round opponent for the locals on Tuesday will be the Baudette Burbots of district 32.

During the season, to date, the Prowlers have compiled a won-and-lost record of seventeen wins and four losses. The lone loss in district play was administered by the Climax Vikings, who defeated the Prowlers, 6 to 4, in a scheduled game played here early in May.

Catches Lunker In River Here

Ronald Ebbighausen, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ebbighausen, city, caught this 12-lb., 8-oz. Northern Pike across the river from the Tindolph Park pool last Tuesday.

Ron said he was casting with Daredevil lure when the whopper struck and it took him about 10 or 15 minutes to land the fish.

Ronald said his brother, Harvey, 12, who was also along, has caught two walleyes weighing about 4 lbs. each from about the same spot on the river bank.

An even larger northern was caught the week before by James Battleson near the Neptune bridge. Battleson's fish weighed over 15 lbs.

Pass The Ketchup

Our diet this week consists mostly of generous portions of parboiled crow. And all because of our predictions on the high school baseball campaign. While we named the two finalists, Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls, for the 31st district tournament, we had Rusty Miller's Eagles defeating the Prowlers. The score, of course was 6 to 0 for the Prowlers in a game played here last Wednesday night.

We had reasons for our choice of the Eagles, and chiefly we rode with Coach Miller's club because we believed that righthander Chuck Kankel would overpower the weak-hitting Prowlers. Especially since the Prowlers most consistent power hitter, Fred Dablow, was out of action because of a pulled muscle. The Prowlers did garner but two hits of Kankel's delivery, but the wildness of the Eagles' hurler proved disastrous.

That was quite a job that the Prowlers did this season, in winning their fifth consecutive district title. Congratulations.

On the regional level, we had named Chuck Johnson's Fertile Falcons to win the regional championship, and they were eliminated in the 30th district finals when they dropped a 5 to 4 decision to the Ada Vikings. Regardless of their loss to Ada, we still maintain that Fertile is a "solid" ball club. During the season they racked up a pair of wins over the Prowlers, and in both games the Falcons showed to advantage.

Don't forget, the regional tournament will be played at Fertile on Tuesday and Wednesday. The highway, number 32, down there is in excellent condition, the playing field is top-notch, and the seating capacity of the Fertile park is ample. Why not make the short drive down there?

To UMD

Jimmy Hall and Freddy Dablow accompanied Prowler hockey coach John Matchefts to Duluth last Thursday. According to present plans Jim and Fred will be employed this summer on the ore boats in Duluth harbor. And then next fall they intend to enroll at Duluth branch of the University of Minnesota.

Jim and Fred, two of the finest competitors ever to participate in Prowler athletics, will enter Duluth branch with the intention of playing hockey. Coach Matchefts expressed the opinion that Jim and Fred were highly-regarded candidates, but that the two boys would face plenty of player competition. Matchefts added that the time would come, within the next couple of years, when the Duluth school would be given a berth in the Western Hockey league.

Of course Jim and Fred have the best wishes of all the fans here. We're hoping, too, that Fred has become rid of the injury jinx that plagued him this past season.

Don The Sailorman

As an inland waterways sailor, Donovan Narverud must be down rated to an apprentice, or lower. And for cause.

Several years ago, during a duck hunting expedition, Don managed to sink a duck boat in a muskeg slough north of Grygla. And this past week, while on a canoe trip in the Superior National Forest, Don maneuvered his craft into a jagged rock. The canoe was so badly damaged that he had to buy the canoe from the outfitter. Some white-water sailor!

Except for Don's mishap, the group—Al Steenerson, Milan and Loren Bornheim, Gail Anderson, Jimmy Olson, Keith Rosengren and Don—had a fine time. Fishing wasn't too good but the party managed to catch a few lake trout so that they were able to have fish on the dinner menu.

Memo To The Golfers

The season's first shortstop tournament, sponsored by the local club, will be played here next Sunday, June 16th. The recent rains have proved excellent conditioners for the fairways and the greens.

And John Moum makes a request that all golfers, or prospective captains, intending to participate in the city golf league, make their wishes known.

Girls Softball Play

The city girl's softball league played its first game of the season last Tuesday evening on the Lincoln high school field, and Luverne Larson's "Medics", with Marge Dunham pitching, defeated Arlene Thune's "Dodgers" by a 21 to 18 score.

Mrs. Jim (Addie) Oveson sparked the hitting for the winners, for she clubbed the offerings of the Dodgers' Ardis Anderson for a home run, a double, and a single in three trips to the plate.

Tuesday evening schedule will find the Dodgers playing Gloria Lunsetter's "Gophers", with play-ball time set for 6:45 p.m.

Named as coordinator and commissioner of girl's softball, and the upholder of the law and the interpreter of the rules and the breaker-up of fights is none other than Lowell (Muckets) Collins. Lowell is also manager of the Bjorkman's team in the men's city league, but that team, he says, can be run by push buttons, and he can afford to expend some time with the girls.

Well, last Thursday evening he must have pushed the wrong buttons, for the Len's Tire Service team, by an 8 to 7 score, defeated the Bjorkman's!

Region 8 Baseball Tourney Opens at Fertile Tuesday

Thief River Falls, Ada Baudette and Bemidji Are Competing in Event

The eighth region high school baseball tournament, with Thief River Falls, Baudette, Bemidji, and Ada competing, will be held on the Fair Grounds diamond at Fertile on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 11th and 12th.

In the semi-finals games on Tuesday evening, coach Ralph Skjod's Prowlers, champions of the 31st district, will meet the Baudette Burbots of district 32, with game time at 6:30 P. M. At 8:30 P. M. the defending regional champion Bemidji Lumberjacks, from district 29, will meet the Ada Vikings of district 30. Ada gained a berth in the regional by turning in an upset 5 to 4 win over the highly-rated Fertile Falcons, in the 30th district finals on Friday evening.

On Wednesday night, with game time at 8:00 P. M., the regional finals game will be played.

State School Taxes up 140 Pct. Since '47

Minnesota's school district taxes have increased 140% in the period 1947 to 1956, the largest increase of any of the taxing units in the ten-year period, according to Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

Total school district taxes levied against real and personal property in the state jumped from $51,923,699 in 1947 to $124,733,407 in 1946, according to the latest annual state auditor's abstract of real and personal property taxes levied. This is an increase of almost $73 million in ten years, Mr. Borgen pointed out, and an increase of 16½ million in just this last one-year period.

Taxes for state purposes jumped from $8,606,106 in 1947 to $15,552,697 in 1956, an increase of almost $7 million.

County taxes went up almost $38 million in the ten-year period, from $49,731,095 in 1947 to $87,606,226 in 1956.

City and village taxes zoomed up from $46,481,674 in 1947 to $92,176,076 in 1956, an increase of over $45½ million.

Township taxes, on the other hand, have increased only a little over $3 million since 1947, from $9,416,094 to $12,661,345.

Total real and personal property taxes levied for all units of government have doubled in the last 10 years, Borgen said. The increase amounts to over $166½ million, from $166,158,670 in 1947 to $332,729,752 in 1956. This is an average increase of $1,388,092 per month over the ten-year period.

The taxpayers association cautions against the rapid growth of governmental expenditures which make these tax increases necessary.

500 Handicapped Children to Go to Easter Seal Camps

Five Periods of Camping Are Scheduled at Camp Courage Near Annandale

More than 500 handicapped children and adults are expected to attend the two Easter Seal camps in Minnesota this summer, which open their gates on Sunday, June 16.

Camp Courage, the special camp designed for the physically handicapped, is expected to serve up to 450 crippled youngsters and adults during five two-week periods. Located on the shores of Cedar Lake between the communities of Annandale and Maple, the camp begins its third year with programs of supervised recreation, care and treatment. Physical and speech therapists will work with many campers and the arts of crafts program will be under the direction of an occupational therapist.

Camp Kiwanis, owned by the St. Paul Kiwanis Club and located about 10 miles north of Stillwater on the St. Croix River, will be used by the Easter Seal Society for a new experimental speech camp. It will serve up to 80 youngsters with speech and hearing problems. The children will be grouped in two 25-day sessions, receiving concentrated speech therapy supplemented by the recreational program.

Ambulatory youngsters with speech and hearing handicaps will attend Camp Kiwanis, while those with accompanying physical handicaps will receive speech therapy at Camp Courage, as in the past.

A wide range of diagnostic groups are served at Camp Courage, including such cases as youngsters and adults with polio, cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, arthritis, congenital deformitories, spinal fifida, those who are amputees and the visually handicapped, among them some children totally blind.

Lightweight braces of titanium as strong as steel but only half as heavy, are now being used by polio victims.

Group Has Music Scholarship Plan

Open to Students Who Belong to Concert Group

Lillian and Norman Wendt, directors of Allied Concert Services, in Minneapolis this week announced the list of schools and colleges in the Upper Midwest which will participate in the Allied Concert Services music scholarship plan for the coming year: State Teachers Colleges at Bemidji, St. Cloud, Minot and Dickinson, North Dakota; Wisconsin State College at LaCrosse or Stevens Point; South Dakota State College (Brookings) or University of South Dakota (Vermillion); Waldorf College, Forest City, Iowa.

With one exception these scholarships provide for the cost of one year of private instrumental or vocal instruction at any of the above schools. The purpose of the scholarships is to provide an interest and appreciation in listening to and performing good music.

Any student who is attending or planning to enter one of the above schools may apply for a scholarship with the one qualification that the students must have been a member of the local concert association. Ten scholarships will be awarded.

A letter of application for a scholarship should be addressed to Allied Concert Services, 4390 Coolidge Ave., Minneapolis 24, Minnesota, accompanied by a letter of recommendation from the student's music instructor. All applications must be received by July 1, 1957.

Crookston Man Is Given Prison Term

Judge Paul A. Lundgren Sentences B. Turnquist

Budd Turnquist, 35 Crookston, was sentenced in district court in that city Thursday to not more than five years in the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

Turnquist admitted embezzling $2,800 from his former employer, Sanders Plumbing and Heating Co. of Crookston.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Paul A. Lundgren recommended Turnquist receive hospital treatment at the prison for varicose veins and ulcers. Judge Lundgren recommended confinement be limited to one year.

If Lundgren's recommendation is followed, Turnquist would, with good behavior, be eligible for parole at the end of a year. Due to the nature of the offense, which Judge Lundgren said involved repeated thefts of small amounts, a plea for probation by Turnquist's attorney, Leonard Erickson, was denied.

Delinquency Is up in State Cities

31 Pct. More Juveniles in Trouble in 1956 Than 1955

A 31 per cent increase in juvenile delinquency in Minnesota in 1956 over the previous year was reported Thursday by A. Whittier Day, chairman and director of the state youth conservation commission.

Police statistics from 36 Minnesota communities of more than 5,000 population, representing police services to 45 per cent of the state's total population, showed this increase. The figure covered police contacts with youngsters of ages 7 through 17 years.

A total of 20,400 boys and girls were contacted by police in 1956 as compared with 15,533 in 1955 from the 36 communities, Day said.

In Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, as a group, there was an increase of 23 per cent while a 52 per cent increase was reflected for the other 33 cities reporting.

Dairy Day

While Northwest Dairy Day is getting to be an old and established institution, it still has all of the vigor of youth. Prospects for the eighth annual event are excellent, and with the old maestro, Lew Conlon, on hand to keep things moving, we are sure this year's contest will be up to the established high standard in every respect.

Dairy Day costs a lot of dollars, and a lot of hard work by a lot of leaders, and if all of this money, and energy, were expended for just one day's effort it probably would not be worth while. But Dairy Day does not represent just one day's effort.

Behind each youngster entered in this contest are hundreds of hours of preparation. That preparation means work, but not just work alone. That preparation, besides labor, means study and planning.

And behind these youngsters there are hundreds of Mas and Pas, and sisters and brothers who have guided and counselled. And there are neighbors, too, who have made important contributions in the interests of an enthusiastic young competitor.

Dairy Day is a one-day show, but behind it are hundreds of days of preparation, by many more hundreds of people than those who will march in the parade. It is these days of preparation, of planning and studying and working by hundreds of people, young and old, that make Dairy Day worthwhile.

Dairy Day means the distribution of prizes to the youngsters who participate, and these prizes are important to them. The really important thing about this Dairy Day program, however, is the bigger prize we all share in, the progress of the industry itself. And there is evidence to prove that Dairy Days have contributed much to the progress of the industry in the eleven sponsoring counties of Northwestern Minnesota.

We are happy to salute the hundreds of good people of these eleven counties who have contributed by their work and by their dollars toward the success of this worthwhile program.

Corporal Girard

The question as to whether the American soldier who fired a shot that killed a Japanese woman should be tried by a Japanese court is not to be dismissed lightly as a matter of no great consequence. The manner in which a relatively unimportant case of this kind is disposed of could involve the lives of millions of people. Out of such incidents wars are born.

It is not difficult to understand the position of those Americans who argue that an American soldier should not be tried by a court of a foreign nation. But it is easy, too, to understand the position of the citizens of Japan, now a free nation.

Our government has entered into an agreement with the Japanese as to how incidents of this kind shall be handled. Under a Status of Forces treaty a joint United States-Japan committee was created to settle conflicting claims of jurisdiction. In this instance the committee has decided that the American soldier should be tried in a Japanese court.

Possibly our government should not have entered into such an agreement with a foreign nation. But that is not the question now. Having agreed to such an arrangement we now have a moral obligation to accept the consequences, providing that the proper procedures have been followed.

Maybe the incident will have the good result of bringing into sharper focus the question as to why we must have American soldiers stationed in so many countries thru out the world. We know they are there with the approval of the governments of the countries in which they are stationed. We also know that their presence is resented by many of the people.

Our own history provides a good example of possible consequences. The stationing of British soldiers in the American colonies was responsible in a large measure for the hatred that brought on the American revolution.

But let's keep in mind the fact that hundreds of American soldiers have already been tried in Japanese courts, and presumably have been given fair treatment. We can see no good reason why the established procedure should not be followed in the case of William Girard.

He Isn't Vote Hungry

If a vote-hungry congress is afraid to charge

(Sleepy Eye Herald Dispatch)

Editor Carl Weicht of the Northfield Independent finds Postmaster General Summerfield's action arbitrary in reducing mail service until Congress agreed to an appropriation large enough to cover the cost of operations. He asks,

"Would someone mind telling us just why it is that our public servants can never think of any way to reduce taxes, cut expenses, or live within their budgets except by threatened or actual reduction of service to the public?"

That isn't quite fair to the Postmaster General. Congress increased salaries for postal employees, but refused to "up" rates to cover the increased cost. If private business did that it would go bankrupt. Summerfield is a businessman who didn't seek public office, but insists on running his department like a business.

If a vote-hungary congress is afraid to charge us enough to cover postage costs someone should "bring them up short." Summerfield did just that.

He's Right

(Mankato Free Press)

Associate Justice Frank T. Gallagher, the Waseca member of Minnesota's supreme court, probably never gave better advice then when he told a class of new lawyers this week that it isn't "necessary to win your cases at cost or sacrifice of principles."

Justice Gallagher went on to say that integrity, fairness and knowledge of the law are attributes which belong to any good lawyer.

But Mr. Gallagher's words of advice don't belong only to the legal profession. If every commencement speaker this spring delivered similar words of admonition to every graduating class, the young men and women going out into the business and professional world would be sent on their way with sound advice.

It probably is no more true of 1957 than any other year, yet young people everywhere must come to realize that honesty, fairness and sound preparation are the key to success in any field. The young person coming out of college must know first that real success is built upon hard work. It is also built upon a sense of fair play and consistent integrity.

There is always a place at the top for an honest and conscientious man.

(Montevideo American)

Because of the unfavorable reaction some people have shown toward teenagers due to a few cases of hoodlumism in Minneapolis, it is interesting to hear some of the many nice things that pertain to teen-agers. These newspapers continually carry stories of wholesome activities engaged in by young folks.

A Montevidean, George Frommell, tells of a situation in Watertown, S. D., with which he came into contact recently.

George had car trouble. His automatic transmission was stuck and he couldn't move his car. Along came four young men in a car. They were wearing black leather jackets, and probably had sideburns.

They stopped their car beside George, and, about that time George was a little nervous, having read the Minneapolis papers. The young men asked if he was in trouble, to which George replied that his transmission was stuck. The young men then took hold of the front bumper of George's car, lifted it and let it drop a few inches. The transmission became unstuck.

When George tried to pay the young men for their help, they would have none of it. They explained that they were members of a club, the Watertown "Drifters," and they made it a point to help motorists in trouble.

Rather pleasant reading, isn't it?

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

The State Department of Aeronautics is of great importance in Minnesota, and aviation is one of the fastest growing parts of our economy. Last year more than 600,000 passengers boarded the airlines at airports in Minnesota,—double the number for 1951.

On June 17 the first commercial turbo-jet airplane will visit Minnesota when the Caravelle stops at Wold-Chamberlain field on its nation wide tour. In two or three years jet transports will be making regular stops in Minnesota. New airline routs and larger and faster transports are making air travel more attractive.

By far the fastest growing segment of aviation is the business use of private aircraft. There were more than 10,000,000 miles of business flying in Minnesota in 1956. Over $1,000,000 is spent each year in the purchase of new airplanes.

Most Minnesota cities are aware that companies locating new branch plants ask whether the town they are considering has a good airport. Busy executives want to travel by air, either on an airline or in a company-owned plane.

The State Department of Aeronautics has an important role in this development. More than 8 million dollars in state and federal aid for municipal airport improvement will be processed through the department during the next two years. This summer, major projects will be carried at Wilmar, Rochester, Park Rapids, Eveleth-Virginia, Fergus Falls, Flying Cloud, Crystal, Duluth, Winona, and Hibbing airports. New landing strips are being developed at Sandstone, Two Harbors, Beaver Bay, and Brooten.

The Minnesota Department of Aeronautics appears before the Civil Aeronautics Board to promote new air service for our state. Cases now pending could give new service from Minnesota to Phoenix, Mexico City, and Miami, and nonstop service from Duluth to Chicago. Another case now before the CAB involves requests for new service to 700,000 Minnesotans who are not now within easy reach of scheduled airline service.

The entire program of the department is financed from user taxes on aviation. These include an aviation gasoline tax, aircraft registration tax, and airline flight property tax. These tax receipts are keeping pace with the expanding program of the Department.

Good transportation services are important to the development of Minnesota. The state must continue to help bring improved airports and airline service, and to make travel by air safe and convenient.

TRAIL . . .

Lois Ann Eck Orville Peterson Married May 11

Lois Ann Eck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eck of Trail, became the bride of Orville Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peterson also of Trail, at a 2 p.m. cermonoy performed Saturday, May 11, at the home of Rev. Halvord Lie of Trail with Pastor Lie officiating at the single ring ceremony. For her wedding, the bride chose a white linen dress with white accessories, an orchid and pink roses were in her bridal corsage. She wore matching rhinestone necklace and earings, a gift of the groom. Olive Wilson, close friend of the bride, was her bridesmaid. She wore a light aqua nylon dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses and asters. She also wore matching rhinestone necklace and earings, gift of the bride. Buddy Bjornaraa, close friend of the groom, served as best man. Mrs. Eck chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue dress. Mrs. Peterson, the groom's mother also wore a navy blue dress. They both had white accessories and corsages of pink roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the brides parents for close relatives. A three tiered wedding cake, topped with a minature bridal couple centered the table. Mrs. Led Thompson, aunt of the bride, cut the wedding cake and Mrs. Ted Slettvedt, also an aunt of the bride, poured. Mrs. Lorenzo Eck and Mrs. Ronald Eck, sister-in-laws of the bride were in charge of the gift table.

U. S. Senator Ed Thye Reports

June Observed As Dairy Month

Minnesota's participation in June Dairy Month activities actually began amidst an official atmosphere in Washington on May 27. Highlights of this Minnesota visit to the Nation's Capitol were the presentation of a purebred registered Holstein calf to President Eisenhower by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee and the visit President Eisenhower had with Minnesota's dairy princess, Barbara Jean Bossus, Brainerd.—The Holstein calf, selected from the herd of A. H. and Donald H. Jergens, Hutchinson, Minn. was delivered to the President's Gettysburg farm by Dale Blank, a senior at the University of Minnesota. Delivery was made on Saturday, May 25.—President Eisenhower showed the calf to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany on Sunday.—Monday morning the President met with Barbara Jean Bossus to formalize the presentation and acceptance. I can report that the President was extremely happy and in good spirits as he discussed the important part the dairy industry plays in our economy. He talked about his own plans for a small dairy herd and expressed his pleasure that the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee had honored him by the presentation of the Holstein calf.—The Dairy Princess met with Vice President Nixon, made numerous recordings for NBC Monitor, and saw many of the historic sites in Washington.—The Minnesota Congressional delegation attended a luncheon in the Capitol and received picture plaques of the dairy princess and the President's calf.—The Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee is to be complimented for the splendid work being done to advertise its dairy products not only in Minnesota but to the entire nation. This publicity program will help to increase the dairy farmers income.

Thye Bill Up For Hearing

This week the Senate Banking and Currency Committee will hold hearings on legislation affecting the future of the Small Business Administration.—The main question this year is whether the agency's life should be extended and for what term of years.—I will support a permanent status for this agency which has performed effectively during the past four years in an attempt to assist small business financially and in the areas of procurement, technological development, and managerical services. I have received strong bipartisan support for a bill I have introduced to make the agency permanent. The Administration is now also in support of this proposal.

Minnesotan Honored

Minnesota was honored by the appointment of George J. Reed as Chairman of the United States Board of Parole. Budget Action Picks Up

Both House and Senate are speeding up actions on Appropriations and the proposed budget.—It is becoming more and more apparent that the budget will be reduced, but that the President will receive support for a sound and realistic foreign aid and defense program. There are many items which can be cut without doing damage to the nation's security or defenses.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I applied to VA for an increase in my disability compensation rating. I was supposed to report for a physical examination, and completely forgot about it. What do I do now?

A—Since you failed to appear for your physical examination, VA has no choice but to consider your claim "abandoned." You will have to file another application if you still believe you're entitled to an increased rating.

Q—I am working for my master's degree under the Korean GI Bill. One of my required graduate courses calls for an undergraduate course as a prerequisite, but my school does not offer this undergraduate course. Would I be allowed to take this course in another school?

A—Yes, so long as your school specifically designates to VA the course which is to be taken at the second school, and will accept its credits at full value in partial fulfillment of your degree program.

Q—I am a disabled veteran receiving vocational rehabilitation training. I've had some particularly heavy expenses in the last months, and I am hard pressed for cash. Is there any provision under which VA can lend me the money?

A—Yes. There is a special loan fund for disabled veteran-trainees. You may borrow up to $100 from this fund, at no interest.

Q—I am receiving a VA pension for a nonservice-connected disability. I've been able to get a small part-time job that I can perform in spite of my handicap. In computing my annual income for pension purposes, must I include my gross income or my take-home pay after deductions?

A—Your gross income must be included, not your take-home pay.

Q—I have a permanent World War II GI insurance on the endowment plan. At the end of the endowment period, how will VA pay me the money?

A—You have a choice. You may receive the proceeds in a lump sum or in monthly installments which may range from 36 to 240 months.

Q—Would any compensable service-connected disability qualify a veteran for vocational rehabilitation training under Public Law 894?

A—No. The disability must be of such a nature that the veteran needs training to overcome his handicap.

Q—If I file an application for Korean GI training within three years from my discharge would that be considered as my official entrance into training and meeting the deadline for starting training.

A—No. Filing of an application is not sufficient. You actually must be in training before your deadline of three years from discharge.

Q—Under the War Orphans Education program, do the monthly VA allowance checks go to the student or to his living parent?

A—If the student is under 21, the payments go to his living parent. If over 21, he may receive them himself.

The story of better dairy products is mostly a cooperative story

Pure milk, healthy children, and dairy cooperatives go together.

For years, farm cooperatives, organized by the dairy farmers themselves, have led in setting higher standards of quality for milk, butter, cheese, ice cream . . . and the many other products made from milk. They have established sanitary regulations, encouraged the use of modern milk-handling equipment, and pioneered in efficient distribution of dairy products.

Because cooperatives have shown the way . . . they are important in all parts of the dairy industry. Today, most dairymen belong to cooperatives. A cooperative creamery picks up milk from the farm. A cooperative delivers it to the bottling plant. Often, a cooperative delivers it to homes and stores. Other cooperatives manufacture butter, cheese, dried milk, ice cream and other products.

The abundance of dairy foods available today, their purity and flavor, their price in relation to other foods, is another American achievement.

The choir from the Catholic church at Bagley furnished the music. The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of net with insertions of lace over luminous bridal satin, softened with a lace basque bodice. Her fingertip veil fell from a cloche of lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses on a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a gold cross, belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Lloyd Pladsen. Sharon and Geraldine Pladsen, sisters of the bride served as bridesmaids. They wore identically styled gowns of blue net over taffeta. Off-the-Floor Design Has Down-to-Earth Fashion

There is a great trend to off-the-floor designing in today's new furniture styles which the homemaker will not only welcome as a fashion-beat, but a function-beat for her home. Such designing lends a smart, clean fashion flair to furniture and is seen in many of the new groups just introduced. A straight, tapered, or even arced leg holds a dresser, chest, cabinet and even footboards, well above the floor, and if the legs are slightly recessed, a suspended imparted.

Quite often in the design, attractive ribbon-like stretchers of brass reach across from leg to leg, and occasionally around the side as far as the rear legs to give a sleek, finished look to this new off-the-floor trend. Sometimes a wood stretcher of matching finish is used for these stretchers.

Elevating dressers, chests and other such items in this manner presents an aspect of comfort too. The lowest drawer is thus brought within easier reaching range.

In very practical terms, this smart new elevation greatly simplifies the cleaning problem. Thorough cleaning can be accomplished with less ado. The new style allows greater access to areas formerly inaccessible, unless the furniture was moved completely out of position.

This new look is also noted in upholstered pieces. More and more frequently sofas, even the dual purpose sleep sofas, are seen with the off-the-floor treatment.

The smart homemaker will certainly want to consider this wonderful new design feature.

Color Big Force In Creating Family Harmony

"Show me the colors a family has in its home, and without seeing the family, I can give you a fair estimate of how well it is adjusted to modern living."

That's the opinion voiced by Sylvia Harmon, color consultant for the Insulating Siding Association.

"Color plays a more important part in people's lives than they realize," Miss Harmon said. "Certainly no one claims it can alter a normal person's personality, but it can be a source of irritation or tranquilizing influence that affects his enjoyment of life.

People Like Color

"People like harmonizing colors. They colors in sponges. They like them in electrical appliances. They like them in automobiles. I'm glad we've at last freed ourselves from the old-fashioned idea that almost everything had to be black and white.

"The best thing you can do with color you don't like, is to get rid of it. A Chinese red on the walls of a small room, for example, might be all wrong. It may cause a subconscious irritation that will plague you as long as you are in the room. So paint the walls a different color," Miss Harmon advised.

She pointed out that the proper use of color brings psychological benefit by adding variety to day-to-day living. In the city, liberal use of green paint in decorating makes up for the lack of foliage on the outside. But in the country, a little red on the house or barn provides relief from the green surroundings.

Pastel Shades Popular

"In outside decorating, I especially like the pastel shades developed by the manufacturers of insulating siding. When I see a house finished with this siding in one of those pleasant green buff, gray or coal shades, I get the feeling that there is contentment and harmony on the inside. A home that presents a warm, colorful face to the world can't help but house friendly people." Miss Harmon said.

So look at the colors in your life. Perhaps they're a bigger influence than you realize. Even if you like the colors you now have on your walls, you might like a change even better.

Brief Facts On Carpet

If you mend damaged areas as soon as they appear in a favorite rug, you can give that rug a longer life, according to a new Cornell University Extension Bulletin on care of rugs and carpets. The bulletin reminds homemakers that frayed ends of a rug should be bound.

The fluffy pile construction of carpet encloses much of the still air that actually insulates the floor and prevents chilly drafts. You can sit on a rug to your heart's content, knowing that you are protected against cold.

National Safety Council reports that many accidents in the home are due to slippings on floors and stairs. Carpet gives sure footing and helps to prevent bruises, and even injury if you happen to fall.

According to a recent nationwide survey conducted by the National Homemakers' Council, 25 percent of the housewives who now have rugs said that their next purchases will be for wall-to-wall carpeting.

The United States is the biggest consumer of soft floor coverings. In 1956, the U. S. carpet industry produced and sold over one billion square feet of carpet —an all-time record.

In West Virginia, America's leading bituminous coal producing state, 117 separate and distinct coal seams have been identified, each of different composition.

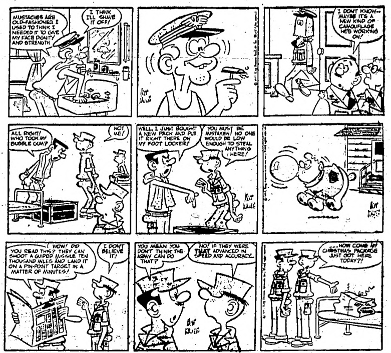
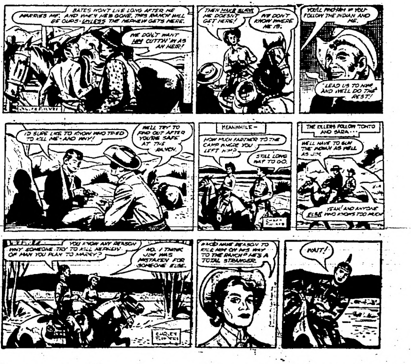
BEETLE BAILEY By Mort Walker



MUSTACHES ARE OLD-FASHIONED. I USED TO THINK I NEEDED IT TO GIVE MY FACE DIGNITY AND STRENGTH
I THINK I'LL SHAVE IT OFF!
I DON'T KNOW--MAYBE IT'S A NEW KIND OF CAMOUFLAGE HE'S WORKING ON!
ALL RIGHT! WHO TOOK MY BUBBLE GUM?
NOT ME!
WELL, I JUST BOUGHT A NEW PACK AND PUT IT RIGHT THERE ON MY FOOT LOCKER!
YOU MUST BE MISTAKEN! NO ONE WOULD BE LOW ENOUGH TO STEAL ANYTHING HERE!
WOW! DID YOU READ THIS? THEY CAN SHOOT A GUIDED MISSILE TEN THOUSAND MILES AND LAND IT ON A PIN-POINT TARGET IN A MATTER OF MINUTES!
I DON'T BELIEVE IT!
YOU MEAN YOU DON'T THINK THE ARMY CAN DO THAT?
NO! IF THEY WERE THAT ADVANCED IN SPEED AND ACCURACY...
...HOW COME MY CHRISTMAS PACKAGE JUST GOT HERE TODAY?!

THE LONE RANGER By Fran Striker



BATES WON'T LIVE LONG AFTER HE MARRIES ME. AND WHEN HE'S GONE, THIS RANCH WILL BE OURS--UNLESS THE NEPHEW GETS HERE.
WE DON'T WANT HIM CUTTIN' IN AS AN HEIR!
THEN MAKE SURE HE DOESN'T GET HERE!
WE DON'T KNOW WHERE HE IS.
YOU'LL FIND HIM IF YOU FOLLOW THE INDIAN AND ME.
LEAD US TO HIM AND WE'LL DO THE REST!
I'D SURE LIKE TO KNOW WHO TRIED TO KILL ME--AND WHY!
WE'LL TRY TO FIND OUT AFTER YOU'RE SAFE AT THE RANCH.
MEANWHILE--
HOW MUCH FARTHER TO THE CAMP WHERE YOU LEFT HIM?
STILL LONG WAY TO GO.
THE KILLERS FOLLOW TONTO AND SARA...
WE'LL HAVE TO GUN THE INDIAN AS WELL AS JIM.
YEAH! AND ANYONE ELSE WHO KNOWS TOO MUCH!
YOU KNOW ANY REASON WHY SOMEONE TRY TO KILL NEPHEW OF MAN YOU PLAN TO MARRY?
NO. I THINK JIM WAS MISTAKEN FOR SOMEONE ELSE.
WHO'D HAVE REASON TO KILL HIM ON HIS WAY TO THE RANCH? HE'S A TOTAL STRANGER.
WAIT!

New Sofas Offer Wide Variety of Arrangements

Whatever happened to the one piece sofa? It is still around and making news, but it's offspring the sectional sofa seems to be creating the biggest news. News in styling, in design, in utility and news in custom arrangement, are the selling point of the new sofas on the market.

The need for more seating space, the smaller homes of today, and television have brought about the demand for the sectional sofa.

The trend is to the sofa that will fit into any home. This means that many manufacturers offer a very extensive line of sectional items ranging in size from bumper ends to ends with arms or without arms, and chair size sections Generally, the story is that once you decide on a particular style, you can select just the right piece to fit into your home.

The off-the-floor version is especially favored. Exposed wood frames too, are becoming more popular. Both of these trends give designers further opportunity to identify a sofa or arm chair with a particular period of furniture. Too, it gives an airy feeling to an otherwise bulky item.

Covering the new sofas you will see most often the heavy textured fabrics, such as tweeds, Novelty modern friezes, and boucles. Your top colors are the tans, beige, the green-blues, light green, and off-white. Many metallic fabrics are used.

News in the one piece sofa is on the back. Many room arrangements require that certain items of furniture stand alone in a room, so they can be viewed from all sides. Three new sofas that have fashion news all pay particular attention to back styling. One has the back and sides covered in walnut veneer, instead of fabric. It is a distinctive item of furniture, and one that becomes a focal point in the room. It's so easy to clean, too.

Another sofa is upholstered all around and the back has been angled so that there is as much style to the rear as to the front. A third outstanding sofa uses woven cane on the back and sides. The cane is in natural finish, and contrasts with a black frame.

Loose cushions are the style note on the newer sofas. Many of these loose cushions are smaller than the seat cushions to give a space between each back cushion. The effect is a less bulky look. Too, many of the covers on the loose cushions zip off for easy cleaning.

Of particular interest to the budget-minded homemaker is the cost of many of the newer sofas. They are actually less expensive than having an old sofa recovered. Modern production methods, and designers know-how have given the homemaker superb style, and at a fraction of cost.

Lamps Accent Decor, Beauty

From more than a standpoint of necessity, lamps should be included in any good home furnishings plan. Aside from function, it adds beauty to a home and will accent the general decor in any manner desired.

A lamp as such, will light up a room with the necessary wattage when the sun has set, but other than that, if selected with taste and care, it will light up your home by either blending with or accenting your furnishings. As an accessory, it is as vital for a well finished home, as it is for the well-apparalled individual.

Where the furniture is on the dramatic side, a lamp with simple styling will lend elegance without detracting from the furniture.

On the other hand, furniture simply styled offers the prerogative of changing style moods from time to time. Lamps for such furniture may be highly colorful and dramatic. Lamp bases or shades are ideal for carrying a color accent for as far throughout your home as desired. Let them beautify while they function.

For Clean Windows:

Lift-out Sash Beats Gadgets

Inventors are constantly racking their brains to think up new gadgets to make household chores easier. One of their pet projects is window washing.

The latest gadget to make window cleaning easier is a combination sponge and squeegee attached to an extendable rod bent in the shape of a lopsided U. With this the housewife can stand inside and swipe at the outside of her windows by opening them slightly and extending the thing out and upward.

Gadgets like this will come and go, but most housewives agree that until a type of glass is invented that won't get dirty, the lift-out window is the best invention yet to make window washing easier.

Double-hung and sliding windows of ponderosa pine are designed so that the entire sash can be lifted out of the frame, from inside the house, cleaned on both sides, and replaced. This makes window washing not only easier but danger-free, since it eliminates precarious window sill perching.

Other window styles available in ponderosa pine also are designed to simplify washing. Among them are the awning style, the hopper window and the casement type. Both sides of the glass in these windows can be reached for cleaning from inside the house.

Don't Paint Too Often, Warns Expert

How often should a house receive a new coat of exterior paint or finish?

A general rule is, paint only after most of the paint film has weathered away, says C. H. Christopherson farm buildings specialist at the University of Minnesota.

If you paint too frequently, a thick coating may build up and cause trouble, he says.

Normally, you shouldn't need to repaint more often than every 4 or 5 years for one coat or every six years for 2 coats of white or tinted paints. For dark colored paints, one coat every six years should be enough, Chistopherson says.

Wood stains and paint should last 4-5 years, but clear finishes need to be renewed every year or two. With stain or clear finish, put a fresh coat over the old. But glossy clear finishes don't wear evenly, so avoid building up excessive layers of this finish on protected areas. Put fresh finish only on the weather-beaten areas blending over unworn areas to give a uniform appearance.

Carpets Will Complete And Unify Decor

June brides—or brides any time of the year—will find the purchase of a carpet one of their best first investments. It immediately adds a feeling of warmth, of "home" to a brand new living situation. A carpet unifies the basic pieces of furniture, flatters them, gives a sense of completeness to unfinished decoration. This allows the new couple to add new pieces of furniture gradually, as they develop and share their tastes. No one expects the newly married to have everything at once.

Carpeting is a foundation for decoration. If it is patterned, it will have a color-scheme built in. Rely on the skill of the carpet designer and choose drapery and upholstery fabrics to blend and accent. If a plain color is your choice, or a textured one-tone, choose a hue that you like to live with, and that enhances you personally. A carpet is long-liver, and what you use in the first one-room apartment may end up in a bedroom later on.

A good buying rule for the bride is to seek flexibility in first furnishings. Jobs may change, husbands in the service may be transferred, families may grow. There are apt to be several moving days in the first few years. A carpet or rug travels well, and easily disguises imperfect floors.

Furniture that is simple in line, that can look as right in the dinning or living room as in the bedroom are good first choices. Many of today's pieces are designed specically for families on the go.

Todays carpets and rugs are just as versatile. There is a wide range of choice in what might be called the "go-with-everything" category. But more than simple neutrals, this includes carpet with individual character—textures, multi-colored tweeds, subtle patterns.

In a small apartment, traffic is concentrated so it is practical to choose a texture or gentle pattern that will disguise foot-prints and signs of soil. There are many designs that blend equally well with modern or traditional pieces, and for a first carpet, it is wise to select one that is not too stylized.

As important as carpet is to decoration, it has other merits which you will find as you live with it. It adds warmth to the floor, significant if temporary quarters are cold and drafty, and particularly when a baby comes along. It has sound-stopping qualities, guaranteeing you more privacy. It is easy to care for and keep looking fresh. But most of all, a carpet spells comfort, and helps to create the magic mood that a bride and groom should enjoy during their first month together.

Mellow "Natural Look" in Wood Is New Furniture Finish Fashion

There's a "custom" look to much of the reasonably priced hardwood furniture in the stores today, as manufacturers concentrate on emphasizing the beauty of genuine hardwoods with beautiful new finishes that reveal the wood.

Fine cabinetry has become important, with many furniture pieces sculputured, pegged or inlaid with contrasting woods. Today's furniture often looks as if it has been lovingly made and hand-finished by skilled craftsmen.

New finishes are generally warm in mood, and usually have a soft, dulled patina like fine old sterling silver. The glassy, hard-on-the-eyes finishes are rapidly disappearing.

In their place are open-pore, in-the-wood finishes with a casual, natural look . . . mellow rubbed, waxed finishes . . . satiny semi-glossy lacquers . . . oil finishes . . . and durable new finishes that stimulate costly hand-rubbed finishes. The new finishes all concentrate on revealing the ever-interesting natural patterns of wood. Many of these new finishes also have surprising resistance to various forms of abuse, such as scratches, alchol and nail polish, and actually grow lovlier and more durable as they mellow with age.

Finish colors are usually in natural wood tones, appearing in a whole wonderful range of browns from the warm, golden to darker nut brown shades. The warm friendly middle tones are perhaps the most popular. Even when achieved by lightly staining the wood, most of these finishes appear natural, revealing the interesting contrasts of the wood's own color variations as surface decoration to avoid monotony.

A "bonus" advantage of this new natural wood look is that such natural finishes are slow to show nicks and scratches, and are easily retouched should they become badly scarred—one of the major benefits of genuine woods as opposed to imitation grains that are only surface patterns.

Dark, concealing stains and heavy "painted-looking" pigmented finishes that disguise natural grain patterns and color shadings have virtually disappeared.

In their place are a range of transparent stains that reveal the wood's pattern and three dimensional depth . . . and color pigments used sparringly, with a "rubbed-down" look that highlights grain and adds interesting second colors to the natural wood tones.

Among the lighter pigmented colors shown this fall, the warm beige or grey-beige tones are most popular. Greyed tones are also in evidence in stains and pigments. This is especially a trend on the new French and Italian Provincial groupings, which are usually in cherry or walnut in soft greyed effects or warm fruitwood finishes.

Carpet Makes Older Homes Act Like New

If a family is thinking about modernizing an older home, carpet should lead off the renovating list. Besides being one of the most important decorative furnishings in a home, carpet also does triple duty as a building material.

Three Roles for Carpet

First of all, it provides the best finished floor attainable for comfort and beauty. Second, it acts as an effective insulator against heat loss and cold drafts, so common in an older house. Third, carpet's sound-conditioning ability is equal to many standard, acoustical materials, and helps to quiet household activity.

Using carpet as a finished floor means that a minimum of attention and expense need to be paid to old floors, and the money saved can be applied to other major alterations.

Many floor faults can be concealed by covering with carpet where more extensive repairs and finishing would be necessary if the floor were left bare or covered by other materials—which would then need a rug over them.

Touch up major faults, by filling cracks or sanding ridges. Then use a rug cushion in all cases to counteract minor imperfections.

Keeps House Warm

Carpet's insulating qualities will prevent heat from being lost to the cold air or ground beneath the floor, saving fuel. And its acoustical properties will in most cases eliminate the need for installing expensive sound-conditioning materials.

Glamorizing the old front hall and staircase is one major remodeling job that carpet can do effectively and inexpensively. Worn stairs and floor boards can be quickly covered with colorful carpet, that is much easier to care for than bare surfaces requiring constant polishing.

Install Own Door Mirror — It's Easy!

Full-lenght Venetian door mirrors have achieved a definite place and function, both utilitarian and decorative, which has created a greater demand for them than ever before in the average home.

In the few minutes it takes to install a door mirror, economy-minded homeowners can realize a savings in their budget. Also, the dividends a good full-length mirror pays in good grooming for the family, as well as in home decor, far exceed the modes original cost.

For best service a full-length door mirror should be at least five and one half feet tall and from 18 to 24 inches wide. Five standard size Venetian door mirrors, which are designed to fit approximately 90 per cent of all interior millwork doors, have been developed by the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company.

First measure the distance from edge to edge of the door itself. The overall width determines which of the standard door mirror sizes will cover the recessed door panel. You can simplify installation by removing the door from its hinges and placing it in a horizontal position over hooks placed at each corner.

After centering the mirror carefully on the door so that it completely covers the recessed panel, attach plastic clips to the door with a screw driver. A small hand drill will make the application of the screws much easier.

All Venetian door mirrors are individually packaged complete with six plastic clips, screws and an instruction sheet for easy installation by the home handyman.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

TOURISTS 100 YEARS AGO

Minnesota's tourist business is well over a hundred years old. George Catlin, the famous painter of American Indian life, who visited Fort Snelling in 1835, is credited with suggesting a "Fashionable Tour," a trip by steamer up the Mississippi from Rock Island or Galena to the Falls of St. Anthony. The idea caught on quickly, and in the next twenty-five years a stream of visitors made the novel pilgrimage up the river to Minnesota.

"Travel in that period was limited to steamboats and stagecoaches, so tourists did not range over much of what is now Minnesota. Before the Civil War the Falls of St. Anthony at Minneapolis were the chief tourist attraction in the Minnesota country. Minnehaha Falls, also now in Minneapolis, ranked second and Fort Snelling was third in capturing the tourists' attention. Stages met the excursion boats and took tourists overland to see these scenic attractions.

In 1854 the strong appeal of the upper Mississippi country was demonstrated when aproximately a thousand members of the Rock Island excursion, celebrating the completion of the first railroad to reach the Mississippi, arrived at the St. Paul levee in a flotilla of steamboats. "No sooner had the boats landed," reported the "St. Anthony Express" of Jnue 10, 1854, "than every vehicle of every kind, description, shape or age . . . was at once seized by the impatient crowd, anxious to visit the great points of interest and attraction, the Falls, Minnehaha, and the Fort."

THE CARDIFF GIANT

The Cardiff Giant, one of the most famous hoaxes of the nineteenth century, once visited Minnesota. On June 26, 1871, P. A. Older's Museum Circus and Menagerie came to Stillwater. Among the many curiosities of the "Instructive Museum and Gigantic Menagerie" and sharing equal billing with the "Living Horned Horse" and a "Wild, Uncouth Sea Cow," was none other than the Cardiff Giant.

According to the "Stillwater Messenger," it was the "identical petrification which caused so much journalistic speculation at the time of its discovery—come and see it," the paper advised, "and judge for yourself what it is."

A large stone statue over ten feet in height and weighing 2,990 pounds, the Giant was "discovered" on a farm near Cardiff, New York in 1869. Carved in Chicago from gypsum obtained in Iowa, the statue was shipped to New York, where it was buried in 1868 and dug up by prearrangement a year later.

Many people believed it to be a petrified man, a giant who once inhabited the region. Although the Giant was a highly profitable practical joke perpetrated by a man named George Hull, it was the talk of the country from October to December, 1869, when Hull revealed that it was a fake. It is now preserved in the collections of the New York Historical Association.

OLD-FASHIONED HUCKSTER

Advertising copy seems to have changed surprisingly little over the years. The following ad for Fuller Brothers' general store in St. Paul appeared in the first issue of the first newspaper printed in Minnesota, the "Minnesota Pioneer" of April 28, 1849.

It read: "Examine if you please, Ladies and Gentlemen, the prime staple and firm texture of these woolen goods! Here is a 'jam up' article of sheep's gray, for pantaloons;—or if you want something finer, look at this Kerseymere. Here are Santenetts which are warranteed to wear like buckskin, and which we could sell for all wool, if we were not too honest.

"My dear sir, if you want a FASHIONABLE CAP, there is the article for you! And do not forget to bring your wife and daughters in with you next time; we engage to show them something they have not seen, in the way of chap and FASHIONABLE DREESES, of some new styles, for which names are not yet invented."

NAMES FROM IRELAND

Many place namse reminiscent of the "Emerald Isle" may be found on the map of Minnesota.

The villages of Lismore in Nobles county; Avoca in Murray County, and Cashle and Clontarf in Swift county are all named for villages in Ireland. Lismore in Ireland's County Waterford is distinguished for its unusually beautiful old castle; the valley of the river Avoca in Ireland was celebrated by Thomas Moore in one of his poems as "the sweet Vale of Avoca", Cashel is an ancient city in Tipperary; and Clontarf is a popular seaside resort near Dublin.

Croke township in Traverse country was named for Thomas W. Croke, Catholic bishop of Aistralia from 1870 to 1874 later archbishop of Cashel, Ireland, who was generous in helping many Irish settlers to go to Minnesota.

Parnell township in Traverse county was named in 1881 for Charles S. Parnell, a prominent Irish statesman, who visited the United States in 1879 and 1880.

Erin township in Rice county Dublin, Kildare and Tara townships in Swift county, and Derrynane township in LeSueur county are among the many places in Minnesota whose lilting and musical names betray their Irish origins.

A MILD SUMMER BEVERAGE

The following humorous recipe for "a mild summer beverage" appeared in the "St. Paul Pioneer and Democrat" of July 18, 1860: "Take one pint of whiskey; add one pint of whiskey and beat well with spoon." If this did not suit the reader's palate, the editor suggested: "Flavor with whiskey to suit your taste." Then he advised that the reader take "a gallon of water and have a servant carry it away beyond your reach."

If this drink was not entirely consumed at one sitting, the editor recommended that the leftover portion be preserved by adding "sufficient spirit to prevent souring."

Eagles Slate Big Parade Saturday

Well over 100 units, including 15 musical groups, will participate in an impressive parade that will get under way Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock as the outstanding feature of the state convention of the Minnesota aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and its auxiliary in Thief River Falls this week end.

Alex Cloutier, parade marshall, announced that the various units will assemble starting at 3 o'clock on the [illegible] streets east of the Third St. bridge, and that the parade will proceed along the following route:

West across the Third St. bridge to Horace Ave., south to Second St., west to LaBree Ave., north to Third St., west to Main Ave., south on Main Ave. to the Great Northern tracks, and then west to the Lincoln high school area, where the parade will break up.

Headed by cars bearing officers of the Eagles and auxiliary and city officials, the musical groups in the parade will include the Grafton, No. Dak. marching band of Rose Bowl fame; Crookston drum and bugle corps, Austin drum and bugle corps, Fertile school band, East Grand Forks school band, the Hallock, Ada, Argyle, Karlstad, Lake Bronson, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls high school bands, Bridgeman Half-pints drum and bugle corps, and the Thief River Falls Legion municipal band.

Also included will be marching units from Rochester, Minneapolis, Duluth, Cloquet, Grand Rapids, Park Rapids, Warren, Middle River, together with a large variety of floats as well as army units, mounted horsemen and added entries.

Cloutier announced that as an added attraction a Soo Line box car will carry a representative of the I.W.W. of bygone days, and that the first person to correctly identify the stranger at Eagles headquarters will receive a $5 award.

Tax Collections Rise Sharply for Period to May 31

Collections of real and personal property taxes in Pennington county for the five months period ending May 31 aggregated $531,724.04 in 1957, a substantial increase over the $472,779.42 for the same period in 1956, County Treasurer A. R. Johnsrud announced this week. The rise is accounted for in part by higher tax levies in effect, and this year's total also included a considerable number of payments on special assessments in Thief River Falls.

Cost Estimate on Street Jobs Is Announced

Committee Lists Tentative Figures on Assessments

Tentative figures on costs to affected property owners of the projected street improvement program on the east side, as recommended to the city council, were announced today by the street advisory committee in advance of the hearing on the matter to be conducted by the council at its session Tuesday evening, June 18.

The surfacing work contemplated is of a permanent type, it was explained, calling for an eight-inch gravel base with a heavy coating of asphalt.

Should the council act favorably on the project after the hearing June 18, it is estimated by the committee that construction bids could be received the latter part of August. While it is not probable that the entire project could be completed this year, sufficient preparatory work could be done so that it could be completed early in 1958.

Following are the figures on costs as supplied by the committee and City Engineer Douglas Stewart:

Frontage Assessments

30 ft. wide street with street surface only $3.00 per front ft. of property. Total assesment for 50 ft. lot, $150.00.

30 ft. wide street with surface and curb and gutter $5.54 per fron ft. Total assessment for 50 ft. lot, $272.00.

36 ft. wide street with street surface only $3.67 per front ft. Total assessment for 50 ft. lot, $183.00.

36 ft. wide street with surface and curb and gutter $6.21 per front ft. Total assessment for 50 ft. lot, $310.00.

Synneva Roragen Receives Calf

Daughter of Andy Ericksons Rejects Prize Calf Award

Lois Erickson, daughter of the Andy Ericksons of Badger, showed the grand champion grade calf at the eighth annual Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday, but rejected the prize purebred calf she was entitled to.

In refusing the prize, Lois emulated the action of her brother Gary in 1955 when he turned down the award because two of their brothers, Sheldon in 1950 and Russell in 1951 had previously won calves after winning grand championships. Lois accepted a Clipmaster instead.

The prize calf, therefore, will be awarded at the 1958 show to Tommy Peterson of Plummer, whose entry won the reserve grade championship. Tommy, a participant in Dairy Day since its inception, had failed to win a championship in the preceding seven shows, but his entries always were in the blue ribbon class.

Jerry Krueger, 15, of Warren, showing a Brown Swiss calf, won the grand championship purebred award, a trip to Waterloo, Iowa, Dairy Cattle Congress next fall. He has competed the past three years.

Dairy Day again this year was blessed by favorable weather, with no rain falling, although the skies were partly overcast with a cool wind. Lew Conlon, impresario of the show since its inception, again directed the program in his usual effective manner, and held the interest of the large crowds in attendance.

Winners of the various breeds were:

Holstein—Lois Erickson, Badger.

Milking Shorthorn—Jerald LaVol, Fosston.

Guernsey—Bernard [illegible], Clearbrook.

Brown Swiss—Jerry [illegible], Warren.

Jersey—Marvin Peterson, Lockhart.

Ayrshire—Kathryn Dalengel, Kennedy.

The showmanship contest, featured by the usual keen competition, was won by Nelda Mattson of Fertile, with Sheldon Erickson of Badger placing second and Larry J. Kresl of Angus, third.

Plaques recognizing participation in Dairy Day for eight years were presented to Sheldon Erickson, Badger; Tommy Peterson, Plummer; Marlin Rue, Fosston; Harvey Baker, Lake Bronson; Emilie Miller, Roseau; and Wallace Olson, Wannaska.

Seven-year plaques were given to Jerome Botko, Warren; Larry Kresl, Angus; and Wayne Hasz of Ada.

H. W. Filk, president of the Minnesota Holstein Breeders association, who served as a judge of the calves for the second year, commented on a noticeable improvement in the quality of the entries this year, resulting in a

Clark has long been an advocate of Minnesota's efforts to lift itself by its own "economic boot straps." Since creation of the Department of Business Development in 1947, he has acted in the capacity of a secretary of commerce at the state level.

He was appointed the department's commissioner by Gov. Luther Youngdahl, and was reappointed by Gov. Freeman in 1955. Before starting in his present position Clark was executive secretary of the Minnesota resources commission by appointment of Gov. Edward J. Thye.

At the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon, President Wendell Olson reported on the annual Lions district convention which he attended in Winnipeg early this week. He stated that Henry Espe of Crookston was elected district governor, and that St. Paul was selected as the scene of the 1958 convention.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

TOURISTS 100 YEARS AGO

Minnesota's tourist business is well over a hundred years old. George Catlin, the famous painter of American Indian life, who visited Fort Snelling in 1835, is credited with suggesting a "Fashionable Tour," a trip by steamer up the Mississippi from Rock Island or Galena to the Falls of St. Anthony. The idea caught on quickly, and in the next twenty-five years a stream of visitors made the novel pilgrimage up the river to Minnesota.

Travel in that period was limited to steamboats and stagecoaches, so tourists did not range over much of what is now Minnesota. Before the Civil War the Falls of St. Anthony at Minneapolis were the chief tourist attraction in the Minnesota country. Minnehaha Falls, also now in Minneapolis, ranked second and Fort Snelling was third in capturing the tourists' attention. Stages met the excursion boats and took tourists overland to see these scenic attractions.

In 1854 the strong appeal of the upper Mississippi country was demonstrated when aproximately a thousand members of the Rock Island excursion, celebrating the completion of the first railroad to reach the Mississippi, arrived at the St. Paul levee in a flotilla of steamboats. "No sooner had the boats landed," reported the "St. Anthony Express" of Jnue 10, 1854, "than every vehicle of every kind, description, shape or age . . . was at once seized by the impatient crowd, anxious to visit the great points of interest and attraction, the Falls, Minnehaha, and the Fort."

THE CARDIFF GIANT

The Cardiff Giant, one of the most famous hoaxes of the nineteenth century, once visited Minnesota. On June 26, 1871, P. A. Older's Museum Circus and Menagerie came to Stillwater. Among the many curiosities of the "Instructive Museum and Gigantic Menagerie" and sharing equal billing with the "Living Horned Horse" and a "Wild, Uncouth Sea Cow," was none other than the Cardiff Giant.

According to the "Stillwater Messenger," it was the "identical petrification which caused so much journalistic speculation at the time of its discovery—come and see it," the paper advised, "and judge for yourself what it is."

A large stone statue over ten feet in height and weighing 2,990 pounds, the Giant was "discovered" on a farm near Cardiff, New York in 1869. Carved in Chicago from gypsum obtained in Iowa, the statue was shipped to New York, where it was buried in 1868 and dug up by prearrangement a year later.

Many people believed it to be a petrified man, a giant who once inhabited the region. Although the Giant was a highly profitable practical joke perpetrated by a man named George Hull, it was the talk of the country from October to December, 1869, when Hull revealed that it was a fake. It is now preserved in the collections of the New York Historical Association.

OLD-FASHIONED HUCKSTER

Advertising copy seems to have changed surprisingly little over the years. The following ad for Fuller Brothers' general store in St. Paul appeared in the first issue of the first newspaper printed in Minnesota, the "Minnesota Pioneer" of April 28, 1849.

It read: "Examine if you please, Ladies and Gentlemen, the prime staple and firm texture of these woolen goods! Here is a 'jam up' article of sheep's gray, for pantaloons;—or if you want something finer, look at this Kerseymere. Here are Santenetts which are warranted to wear like buckskin, and which we could sell for all wool, if we were not too honest.

"My dear sir, if you want a FASHIONABLE CAP, there is the article for you! And do not forget to bring your wife and daughters in with you next time; we engage to show them something they have not seen, in the way of chap and FASHIONABLE DREESES, of some new styles, for which names are not yet invented."

NAMES FROM IRELAND

Many place namse reminiscent of the "Emerald Isle" may be found on the map of Minnesota.

The villages of Lismore in Nobles county, Avoca in Murray County, and Cashle and Clontarf in Swift county are all named for villages in Ireland. Lismore in Ireland's County Waterford is distinguished for its unusually beautiful old castle; the valley of the river Avoca in Ireland was celebrated by Thomas Moore in one of his poems as "the sweet Vale of Avoca". Cashel is an ancient city in Tipperary; and Clontarf is a popular seaside resort near Dublin.

Croke township in Traverse country was named for Thomas W. Croke, Catholic bishop of Australia from 1870 to 1874 later archbishop of Cashel, Ireland, who was generous in helping many Irish settlers to go to Minnesota.

Parnell township in Traverse county was named in 1881 for Charles S. Parnell, a prominent Irish statesman, who visited the United States in 1879 and 1880.

Erin township in Rice county Dublin, Kildare and Tara townships in Swift county, and Derrynane township in LeSueur county are among the many places in Minnesota whose lilting and musical names betray their Irish origins.

A MILD SUMMER BEVERAGE

The following humorous recipe for "a mild summer beverage" appeared in the "St. Paul Pioneer and Democrat" of July 18, 1860: "Take one pint of whiskey; add one pint of whiskey and beat well with spoon." If this did not suit the reader's palate, the editor suggested: "Flavor with whiskey to suit your taste." Then he advised that the reader take "a gallon of water and have a servant carry it away beyond your reach."

If this drink was not entirely consumed at one sitting, the editor recommended that the leftover portion be preserved by adding "sufficient spirit to prevent souring."

Tax Collections Rise Sharply for Period to May 31

Collections of real and personal property taxes in Pennington county for the five-months period ending May 31 aggregated $237,724.01 in 1957, a substantial increase over the $172,779.42 for the same period in 1956, County Treasurer A. R. Johnsrud announced this week. The rise is accounted for in part by higher tax levies in effect, and this year's total also included a considerable number of payments on special assessments in Thief River Falls.

Cost Estimate on Street Jobs Is Announced

Committee Lists Tentative Figures on Assessments

Tentative figures on costs to affected property owners of the projected street improvement program on the east side, as recommended to the city council, were announced today by the street advisory committee in advance of the hearing on the matter to be conducted by the council at its session Tuesday evening, June 18.

Should the council act favorably on the project after the hearing June 18, it is estimated by the committee that construction bids could be received the latter part of August. While it is not probable that the entire project could be completed this year, sufficient preparatory work could be done so that it could be completed early in 1958.

8th Annual Dairy Day Outstanding Success

Synneva Roragen Receives Calf

Daughter of Andy Ericksons Rejects Prize Calf Award

Lois Erickson, daughter of the Andy Ericksons of Badger, showed the grand champion grade calf at the eighth annual Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday, but rejected the prize purebred calf she was entitled to.

In refusing the prize, Lois emulated the action of her brother Gary in 1953 when he turned down the award because two of their brothers, Sheldon in 1950 and Russell in 1951 had previously won calves after winning grand championships. Lois accepted a Clipmaster instead.

The prize calf, therefore, will be awarded at the 1958 show to Tommy Peterson of Plummer, whose entry won the reserve grade championship. Tommy, a participant in Dairy Day since its inception, had failed to win a championship in the preceding seven shows, but his entries always were in the blue ribbon class.

Jerry Krueger, 15, of Warren, showing a Brown Swiss calf, won the grand championship purebred award, a trip to Waterloo, Iowa, Dairy Cattle Congress next fall. He has competed the past three years.

Dairy Day again this year was blessed by favorable weather, with no rain falling, although the skies were partly overcast with a cool wind. Lew Conlon, impresario of the show since its inception, again directed the program in his usual effective manner, and held the interest of the large crowds in attendance.

Winners of the various breeds were:

Holstein—Lois Erickson, Badger.

Milking Shorthorn—Jerald LaVoi, Fosston.

Guernsey—Bernard Makee, Clearbrook.

Brown Swiss—Jerry Krueger, Warren.

Jersey—Marvin Peterson, Lockhart.

Ayrshire—Kathryn Dalengol, Kennedy.

The showmanship contest, featured by the usual keen competition, was won by Nelda Mattson of Fertile, with Sheldon Erickson of Badger placing second and Larry J. Kresl of Angus, third.

Plaques recognizing participation in Dairy Day for eight years were presented to Sheldon Erickson, Badger; Tommy Peterson, Plummer; Marlin Rue, Fosston; Harvey Baker, Lake Bronson; Emilie Miller, Roseau; and Wallace Olson, Wannaska.

Seven-year plaques were given to Jerome Batko, Warren; Larry Kresl, Angus; and Wayne Hasz of Ada.

H. W. Filk, president of the Minnesota Holstein Breeders association, who served as a judge of the calves for the second year, commented on a noticeable improvement in the quality of the entries this year, resulting in a

Farmers Union Heads Urge Favorable Vote in Wheat Referendum

Addressing an audience of several hundred persons in the city Auditorium Monday evening, two top Farmers Union officials urged their hearers to vote "Yes" in the wheat referendum to be held Thurs., June 20.

Speakers were James G. Patton, national president of the Farmers Union, and Edwin Christianson, president of the Minnesota FU.

Discussing the farmers' stake in the June 20 vote, Christianson said Pennington county farmers will receive $120,000 more in 1958 if they vote "Yes", while it means $500,000 to Marshall county farmers and $2,500,000 to those in Polk county. He added that about 215 Pennington county wheat growers are eligible to vote in the referendum.

James Patton, who also advocated an affirmative vote, declared that the present national administration is not sympathetic toward agriculture, and he saw no hope for favorable farm legislation during the present session of Congress. He stated that it is necessary for farmers to increase their bargaining power as labor and business have done.

Also introduced to the audience were Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee, and Miss Barbara Jean Bossus of Brainerd, currently reigning as Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

Miss Bossus said the past year had been a wonderful experience for her, and that she felt her service to the dairy industry had been very much worth while. She also expressed her pleasure at being able to participate in Northwest Dairy Day in this city.

Ask Grand Jury to Probe Slaying of Gonvick Teacher

Clearwater Co. Attorney Asks District Judge to Call Jury Into Session

Aurel Ekval, county attorney of Clearwater county, announced at Bagley Tuesday he had petitioned District Judge J. J. Hadler of International Falls to call a grand jury July 2 to consider the case of a farm woman who admitted shooting a Gonvick high school teacher who was secretly married to her teen-age daughter.

The woman, Mrs. Henry Sylstad, 40, of Gonvick refused to give any reason for shooting Dean Olson, 23, May 17. She has been held in the Beltrami county jail at Bemidji since the week after the shooting.

Olson and Shirley Sylstad, 17, a senior at Gonvick high school, where Olson was a music instructor, were secretly married in Moorhead April 5, her father told authorities after the shooting.

Ekval, who left on his honeymoon the day after the slaying and arrived back at Bagley only last week, said the jury will determine if a 2nd-degree murder indictment is to be returned, as he requested.

Ekval also said he also asked Judge Hadler to arrange for a psychiatric diagnosis of Mrs. Sylstad.

East Polk Girl Is Dairy Princess

A pretty farm miss from Fertile, Minn., Angie Refling, 17, representing Polk county, was named Northwest Dairy Princess at the annual Northwest Dairy Day festivities Tuesday, from a field of 28 contestants representing ten northwest Minnesota counties.

Named as her attendants were Miss Joyce Helgeland, 18, a Concordia College sophomore from Thief River Falls, and Miss Doris Hedlund, 17, a 1957 Roseau high school graduate who plans to attend University of Minnesota next fall.

All three girls are from dairy farms in this area. Miss Refling, a striking brown-haired girl, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Refling, who operates a dairy farm near Fertile. Miss Helgeland, a very personable blonde girl, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Helgeland, who farm southeast of Thief River Falls and is a member of the Smiley 4-H club. Miss Hedlund, also a blonde, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Hedlund who have a dairy farm near Roseau.

A brisk wind riffled formal skirts and blew coiffures awry as Angie was crowned Dairy Princess by Varlene Peterson, a Roseau county girl, who was the 1956 titlist, while Barbara Jean Bossus, Minnesota's Princess Kay of the Milky Way beamed approvingly.

Judges for the princess contest were Mrs. George Pederson, whose husband is manager of the Twin City Milk Producers Association; Jim Hill, from WCCO in Minneapolis, and Ray Wolf of the University of Minnesota.

The girls and members of the Northwest Minnesota Dairy Improvement association were guests at a noon luncheon at the Elks club. Also attending the luncheon were the contest judges and several Thief River Falls businessmen.

Before the luncheon Miss Bossus, who was the winner of the 1956 Princess Kay of the Milky Way contest at the Minnesota state fair last fall, told the princess contestants that winning the title called for more than being pretty and having a good personality.

She said the state winner has a big job to sell Minnesota dairy products during her tenure as Princess Kay. She reminded the girls to be themselves—and be sincere.

The coronation of the new Northwest Minnesota Dairy Princess was the semi-windup of the Dairy Day festivities here. After the coronation the new princess and her attendants passed in review on floats in the parade which also featured several area high school bands and a "parade of champions" composed of winning dairy cattle and their youthful owners who participated in the calf show earlier.

higher percentage of blue ribbons being awarded.

A highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of a purebred Holstein calf from the outstanding herd of Paul Pierson at Lake Elmo, Minnesota, to Synneva Roragen of Fertile, who showed the grand champion grade animal at the 1956 show. The presentation was made by Joan Pierson. Also introduced were her parents and other members of the family.

Barbara Jean Bossus of Brainerd, reigning as Princess Kay of the Milky Way, also was introduced, and commented on the quantity and quality of the entries in the Dairy Day show.

Cost Estimates on Street Work Are Announced

by the proposed improvement north of Third Street, the following formula was tentatively agreed upon:

That the entire drainage costs would be spread uniformly over the entire area north of Third Street and from Kendall Avenue to Maple Avenue.

That the corner lots would pay 25 per cent of the base and surfacing cost on the side street and 50 per cent of the curb and gutter cost on the side street.

That the entire area would then pay 75% of the surfacing cost on the side street and 50 per cent of the curb and gutter costs.

Drainage Costs

It is estimated that there are 7178 front feet of property in the subject area. The drainage cost is estimated at $3,000.00, giving an area cost for the drainage improvement of $.42 per front ft. or $21.00 for a 50 ft. lot. After subtracting from the total cost of improving Taft Street the portion of the improvement where direct assessment would apply, it is estimated the balance of the cost would be spread on an area basis to be $5,785.00.

Of the 7178 front feet in the area and assuming fourteen corner increments at 50 ft., the balance of front footage to be applied to this estimated cost is $6,478.00, giving a cost of $.88 per front ft. for the side street improvement. Combing this with the area assessment for drainage would give a proposed assessment of $65.00 on all interior lots.

The corner lot assessments without curb and gutter, including the drainage and the 25 per cent of the side street assessment would amount to $117.00. The proposed assessment for a corner lot with curb and gutter on the side street would be approximately $280.

Here's How To PREVENT STOLEN WHEEL DISCS!

Stolen wheel discs are a problem to all motorists whether they are insured or not. In cooperation with law enforcement officials NORTHERN CHEVROLET invites you to help curb and solve these thefts, reduce delinquency and prevent barter in these items.

You may help by bringing your car into our service department where we will engrave your car's serial number into each wheel disc. This service is free of charge. The numbers will be engraved neatly, inconspicuously — but permanently, in a matter of minutes. With the number in the discs, law enforcement officers can tell quickly if the wheel discs were original equipment on any car.

Your cooperation will be appreciated.

Dog Nips Child; Is Found to Be Rabid

Dog Died Sunday; Brain Tested at Fargo College

A dog that may have bitten a Thief River Falls youngster on Memorial Day has been declared to have been rabid, according to Dr. Paul Wendt, city health officer.

Mary Louise Anderson, 2½ year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Anderson of Kneale avenue, was a Memorial Day visitor at the home of the grandparents, the Clarence Andersons of rural Thief River Falls. She was attacked by the family's dog but it could not be determined whether a bite in the face had penetrated the skin.

The dog died Sunday and was buried, but later, on the advice of physicians examining the girl, the body was exhumed and the brain shipped to the North Dakota agricultural college at Fargo. Examination revealed the fact that the dog was rabid and the girl now is being given preventative treatments.

Dr. Wendt urges that animal bites of any kind be reported immediately and that if possible suspected animals be confined alive, simplifying the procedure of determining whether or not they are rabid.

New Type Series E Bonds in October

Bonds Will Be Issued on Form of Punch Cards

The Treasury department, beginning next October 1, will issue Series E savings bonds in punch-card form at an annual saving of $500,000 a year in printing costs.

The punch-card will closely resemble the present paper-type bonds and will have the same printed matter on both sides as now. But while the present paper-type bonds are 7⅝ by 4¼ inches in size, the punch-card bonds will be 7⅜ by 3¼ inches.

Present stocks of the paper-type E bond forms will be used until stocks are depleted, probably by the end of September, or for reissues of paper-type bonds.

General approval was expressed by bond buyers, volunteer bond salesmen, financial institutions and others consulted by the Treasury when the money saving change to card-type bonds was proposed several months ago.

The punch-card bonds will make possible the use of electronic data processing machines for certain savings bonds procedures in the Bureau of the Public Debt, and installation of such machines is now being arranged for. Some business firms and others issuing bonds under the payroll savings plan will also be able to realize economies in handling the new bonds.

Band Instruction Set for Newfolden School in Summer

Pupils to Meet with New Band Director, Dennis Borman Monday, June 17

The Newfolden community school is inaugurating a summer band instruction program this summer. An organizational meeting will be held on Monday evening, June 17, at 8:00 p.m. to arrange instruction time for beginners and regular band members. Students in the school who will be fourth grade or higher next year may sign up to take lessons at this time. It is also hoped that a time for regular practice sessions for the whole band may also be set up so that some concerts may be given, if enough of the regular band members are interested. A music company representative will be at the June 17th meeting to display instruments for rental purchase. There will also be a demonstration of the various instruments. Coffee and doughnuts will be served to conclude the evening.

Dennis Borman, a four year member of the Augsburg college band which recently played in Newfolden, will be the new band instructor. He has also been employed in the Groth Music Co. in Minneapolis during the time he was attending college and will be well prepared to advise the beginners for what instrument they will be best suited, and what kind of instrument to rent or purchase. Mr. Borman will give half hour lessons from 9 to 12 and 1 to 4 on Mondays through Fridays.

Those who have not already had their children sign up for the instruction are urged to attend the meeting, or to see Mr. Borman at the schoolhouse after June 17th as soon as possible. Some arrangements can usually be made to secure an instrument, if the child has the desire to play.

Clinic for Square Dancers Set in GF

Clinics and Open Dances to Be Held June 21 to 23

Square dance fans in the Thief River Falls area were notified this week by Mrs. Mel Simon that a series of square dance clinics and open dances will be held Friday through Sunday, June 21-23 on the University of North Dakota campus at Grand Forks, No. Dak.

Lynn Woodward, nationally-known square dance caller from Minneapolis, will conduct the clinics and dances. The hours announced were 2-5 p.m. and 8-11 p.m. Friday; 2-5 p.m. and 8-11:30 p.m. Saturday, and 2-5 p.m. Sunday. The first three sessions are clinics and the last two are dances, according to the announcement.

Mrs. Simon said the sessions are open to all interested square dancers but that the clinics are especially conducted for area callers. Admission charges are $3 to callers, which covers all sessions, while the clinic is free to dancers. A charge of $1.50 per couple will be made for the two dance sessions, however.

The events will be held at the old gym on the UND campus and signs directing square dance fans will be erected.

Workers from 9 Counties Met in City Wednesday

Representatives of nine northwestern Minnesota counties met Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Elks Club rooms to discuss with state and district Republican party leaders the plans and problems of party organization in the area. Following a dinner served at 6:30 o'clock there was a general discussion of the issues at the state and federal level.

Among the state officials present were Mrs. Brad Heffelfinger, national committeewoman; George Etzell, national committeeman; and John Hartle, chairman of the state organization.

This is one of a series of meetings being held throut the state. A similar gathering was held for the south end of the ninth district at Detroit Lakes Tuesday and a meeting is being held at Virginia, on the Iron Range, today.

Pennington Co. Homemakers Hold Achievement Day

Miss Dorothy Simmons, State Extension Leader, Discusses Life in Korea

Members of the Pennington County Extension Home Program and their guests gathered for their year-end get-together, the Homemakers Achievement Day, held June 7th, County Home Agent Marge Olsen reported.

Exhibits were displayed which were of general interest. Mrs. Louisa Anders of the Rocksbury group displayed several quilts which she had made during the winter in the "Trip Around the World" design. Mrs. Anderson also showed her compact quilt frame.

A demonstration on using a knitting machine was given by Mrs. Ernie Toso of the South Cloverleaf group.

Guest speaker was Miss Dorothy Simmons, state leader of the extension home program. Miss Simmons showed slides and discussed the Republic of Korea, where she spent three months as an I.C.A. project to help develop home economics extension work.

"Many homemaking practices Korean women use seem quite backward to us. However they also have several methods of homemaking and child care which are extremely practical, and which we might do well to follow," Miss Simmons said.

She added, "When we learn of our differences, it helps us to better understand and appreciate each other."

Plans Discussed for Multi-county Library in Area

State Director Tells Carnegie Library Board of Advantages of Plan

Miss Emily Mayne, state director of library extension service in Minnesota, met last night with members of the Carnegie library board to discuss the organization in this area of a multi-county library system, which would qualify for federal and state aids under the provisions of recent legislation.

Designed to extend library facilities to communities now without facilities, Miss Mayne stated that the plan calls for an augmented stock of books in a central library in a city such as Thief River Falls or Crookston, which would supply libraries in smaller communities as well as bookmobile service to outlying areas.

Each county participating in the plan would be required to make a library levy of at least one mill in order to qualify for the special aids.

Miss Mayne said that several counties in this area had evinced interest in the plan, and she asked that local citizens actively support it.

Members of the library board indicated a desire to secure more information on financial aspects of the proposal before committing themselves definitely to its support.

Also in attendance at the meeting were County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr and Aldermen Ward Nichols and Bob Carlson.

Prowlers Play for Title Today

Wednesday evening's supper-hour thundershower forced postponement of the Thief River Falls vs. Bemidji eighth regional high school baseball tournament finals scheduled to have been played at Fertile last night. The game has been re-scheduled for tonight, Thursday, at 8:30 P. M. on the Fertile diamond.

Wednesday's downpour also forced the postponement of the senior baseball Thieves vs. Lakers Northern Minnesota baseball league game that was to have been played on Red Lake Falls' Riverside Park diamond.

Playing stellar roles in the baseball Prowlers' hard-earned 4 to 3 win over Baudette in a first-round regional tournament game at Fertile on Tuesday evening were second baseman Jerry Jorgenson and pitcher Harlie Drees. Jorgenson, in the 4th inning, clamped out a right field single with the bases loaded and two out, driving in the tying and winning runs, and in addition he started the game ending double play; Drees, although touched for seven hits including three doubles, snuffed out several Baudette rallies by his stout-hearted pitching.

In the other semi-finals game the Bemidji Lumberjacks, behind the fifteen-strikeout, two-hit pitching of righthander Lawrence, defeated the Ada Vikings, 3 to 0. [illegible] Johnson poled out a home run for the Lumberjacks in the 1st inning, with a man on base, to provide Lawrence and Bemidji with an early lead.

In the Prowlers vs. Baudette game, coach [illegible]'s club, on a walk, a sacrifice, a hit batsman and a single by Darel Wick, scored a pair of runs in the 1st inning.

The heavy-hitting Baudette club moved into the lead in the top of the 3rd inning when Jeff Hanson led off with a double; Wayne Smith followed with a single; Bill Fritsinger grounded out short to first, with the runners remaining on third and second; Jim Hummenick lined a single through the box, scoring Hanson and Smith. Southpaw swinging [illegible] Olds sliced a double down [illegible] left field foul-line, with [illegible]menick stopping at third [illegible] Clay was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. [illegible]azie walked, forcing in [illegible]ick with the tie-breaking [illegible] Terry Noble was called [illegible] strikes; and John Sher[illegible] [illegible]ted a third out fly to [illegible].

In the [illegible] [illegible]ning 4th inning for [illegible]ers, Sloan opened w[illegible] [illegible] to right field; Tony V[illegible] [illegible]ffed; Lee Johnson w[illegible] [illegible]y a pitched ball; Micke[illegible] [illegible] struck out; Harlie [illegible] [illegible] the third time dur[illegible] game, drew a walk to [illegible] bases; and then Jor[illegible] [illegible]pped a single to right [illegible].

[illegible] Burbots made a threat [illegible] the score in the 5th inning when, with one out, Olds gained a "life" when Jorgenson dropped a pop fly; Clay followed with a clout that bounced over the fence in right field for a ground-rule double. With runners on third and second, Drees set down Brazie and Noble on strikes to end the uprising.

In the 7th inning, with one away, Hummenick singled to center; but Olds bounced into a double play, Jorgenson to Lee Johnson to Dean Bergland, ending the game.

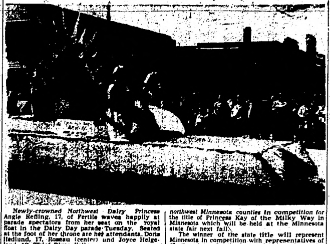
Royal Float in Northwest Dairy Day Parade



Newly-crowned Northwest Dairy Princess Angie Refling, 17, of Fertile waves happily at parade spectators from her seat on the royal float in the Dairy Day parade Tuesday. Seated at the foot of her throne are her attendants, Doris Hedlund, 17, Roseau (center) and Joyce Helgeland, 18, Thief River Falls.

The new Dairy Princess will represent 11 northwest Minnesota counties in competition for the title of Princess Kay of the Milky Way in Minnesota which will be held at the Minnesota state fair next fall.

The winner of the state title will represent Minnesota in competition with representatives of 45 other states, for the honor of being chosen the national Princess Kay.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

League Baseball

Local senior baseball fans, who have been waiting three weeks for a home opener, will have their wishes fulfilled on Sunday night, when the Thieves play the Fosston nine on the Fair Grounds diamond.

Since May 26th, when the local club was slated to play the Red Lake Falls Lakers, and which game was weathered out, the Thieves have played four road games. And they have posted a record of two wins and two losses, which is fair enough.

The fans will see a somewhat revamped team, too. Gene Sack has taken over the managing reins, from Berdeen Nornes, who is employed out of town. Newcomers to the club are Julian (Curly) Gasperlin, the Goodridge high school athletic coach, and Jerry Toulouse, a former Plummer Red Sox. And returnees to the club, after several years of retirement, are Bill Hallameck, the veteran pitcher-infielder, and Jesse DuChamp, also a pitcher-infielder.

Other leagues in this vicinity will have games on the Sunday schedule, too, so ball fans will have quite a menu. The North Six league's slate will find the Thief River Falls Bums playing at Grygla, and Gonvick playing at Trail. Last Sunday, in a game played at Trail, the Bums dropped a 21 to 16 decision. The five team — Carpenter's, Silver Creek, St. Hilaire, Greenbush, Middle River — Pennington County league, will have as its Sunday schedule the following: St. Hilaire at Carpenter's, and Greenbush at Silver Creek.

Let's go to a ball game on Sunday.

Ring the Bells; Blow the Whistles

A contingent of twenty-one golfers teed off on Sunday afternoon at Detroit Lakes in the annual Soo Line medal-play golf tournament.

The tournament, which creates considerable excitement, entertainment, and competition, was won by brakeman Jimmy Anderson, who carded a 40-43-41 for an aggregate of 124. Jim gained the championship trophy by virtue of his 125. And Jim also won the medalist trophy, having a 40 on his first round.

Phil LeGault, claimant to the Soo Line's southpaw golfing honors, won the runner-up trophy with a 126, having rounds of 44-43-39.

Wally DuChamp, who claimed that he was eligible to participate in the tourney because he hauls freight from the depot at Plumer, made his appearance at the first tee, too. The credential committee refused to acknowledge Wally's entry, but they permitted him to play as a "guest." And what do you know? Wally shot a 36 on his first round, and we'll hear about that for a long time, and then carried a 42-41 for an aggregate of 121. That beat Jim's total by four strokes.

Where's the Truth?

Our item of last week, relating the canoemanship, or lack of, of Don Narverud, has drawn several communications challenging its accuracy. Here's the gist of these epistles: "Let's have the truth! Yes, Don Narverud's boat was sunk in a slough near Grygla, but who was manning the motor? Milan Borsheim! The very same red-faced prevaricator who doesn't dare to face his own mistakes. A correction is due for an item printed in last Monday's paper concerning a wilderness canoe trip taken by some local fellows including Milan Borsheim, better known as Hoot Borsheim. Actually, Milan and Al Steeneirson, canoe-mates, would have drowned had it not been for the lifesaving assistance of Don Narverud and Loren Borsheim, whose canoe took the rapids in stride. The busted canoe, which Don, playing the role of Good Samaritan, purchased, was the result of a mishap endured by Keith Rosengren and Jim Olson."

The truth must be in there some place.

Fillets

"Never have so many fishermen caught so many fish in so short a time." Such were the words of the Baudette baseball fans who accompanied the Burbots to Fertile on Tuesday for the regional tournament. They were referring, of course, to the walleyed pike fishing in Lake of the Woods. "If a fisherman can't catch his limit of walleyes in a couple of hours, well, he's fishing with an unbaited hook."

And these boastings by the Baudette residents are perhaps true, to, for we had verification of last weekend's limit-catches from local anglers. The fishing was terrific.

What's this we hear about Rags Eldevik losing a stringer, and that this stringer contained eleven fat and sassy walleyes and one chunky northern pike? This stringer was a chain affair, apparently strong and sturdy, but, like all chains, it wasn't any stronger than its weakest link. Rags, in explaining the loss of that string of fish, emphasizes that it wasn't his stringer. That to belonged to Milt Schlechter, and that he relied on Milt to have first-class tackle. That he, Rags, isn't to be held responsible if Milt has rust-weakened perch stringers in his kit.

We can't understand, though, what Rags was doing with Milt's stringer. Milt wasn't along on the fishing trip, you know. We will have to engage in some research to get at all the facts.

Shortstop Golf Tournament Set for Next Sunday

The local golf club will conduct its early-season shortstop golf tournament on Sunday. The tournament committee announced that the championship flight will move off the first tee at 9:00 a.m. with the succeeding flights following at ten-minute intervals.

Golfers wishing to participate in the tournament should report their qualifying scores to Jack Boyer at the club house, or call Donald L. Olson. Promptness in recording these qualifying scores is desired in order that the flight pairings can be arranged.

Champions Parade as Final Dairy Day Feature Tuesday

Calves, Four Bands and N.W. Dairy Princess Share in Procession

The annual Parade of Champions that wound up Northwest Dairy Day Tuesday in Thief River Falls included an impressive array of more than 200 calves that had been on exhibition during the day, in addition to more than 25 pretty Dairy Princess aspirants including the newly crowned princess, Angie Refling of Fertile, and her attendants, Joyce Helgeland of Thief River Falls and Doris Hedlund of Roseau.

The girls rode on handsome floats or in convertibles. Also appearing were Miss Valene Peterson, formerly of Badger, who reigned as dairy princess during the past year, and Barbara Jean Bossus of Brainerd, Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

Also in the parade were four musical units, including high school bands from Baudette, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls, and the Bridgeman Halfpints of this city; and a group of mounted horsemen.

Following the parade the calf exhibitors and their parents were treated to a free lunch before leaving for their homes.

Two Motorists in Municipal Court

Only two cases were heard before Judge H. O. Chommie in municipal court Monday in one of the skimpiest sessions in the past year.

Both persons in court were brought in by city police. DuWayne Bakke, city, pleaded guilty to a careless driving charge and drew a $10 fine plus $4 costs.

A plea of guilty to a speeding charge cost Arthur V. Overbye, city, a $10 fine plus the customary $4 costs.

Neither the sheriff or highway patrol had cases the past session of municipal court.

$70 Million Highway Program Mapped for Minnesota Next Year

A record-breaking program of new trunk highway and interstate highway construction for the 1957-58 fiscal year beginning July 1, totalling more than $70,000,000, was announced jointly today by Governor Orville L. Freeman and Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman. It includes more than $34,000,000 in improvements on the state's 11,800-mile trunk highway system and about $36,000,000 in contracts expected to be let on the 936-mile interstate system. In addition, some $620,000 in carry-over work from the 1956-57 fiscal year's program will bring the total to well over $70,000,000.

"I belive Commissioner Zimmerman and his staff have done a superlative job in shaping up this tremendous program," said Governor Freeman. "It must be remembered that the passage of Amendment No. 2 last fall, along with recent legislation implementing its provisions, has resulted in a reduction of approximately $16,000,000 in road users taxes available to the highway department for the coming year. This large sum of money will be integrated with other funds according to the counties and municipalities of over 5,000 population for use on their roads and streets."

Commissioner Zimmerman stated that a great deal of study has been given the newly-announced program in order to utilize available federal aid funds on both trunk highways and interstate routes. This has necessitated the complete revaluation of all projects proposed in an earlier program and the deferment of a number of projects having lower priorities.

"Every one of these deferred needed improvements," Zimmerman said, "will be undertaken as soon as the department's finances permit. This may be quite soon, inasmuch as we are anticipating a continuing improvement in the state road user fund because of increased gasoline tax and motor vehicle license receipts in the months and years ahead."

He stated that the department was utilizing the several bonding authorizations given it by the legislature to obtain funds needed for the 1957-58 construction programs, with $5,000,000 in bridge bonds and $7,000,000 in bonds for the acquisition of right of way to be sold.

The estimated cost figures released by the department include anticipated contract bid prices, plus the cost of engineering and other contingencies. The propose trunk highway project include the following estimated amounts of various types of construction and their estimated costs:

130.9 miles of grading (includes 19.8 mi. of 4-lane) $5,584,000.

9.1 miles of grading, subbase and base (includes 5.4 mi. of 4-lane) $2,254,000.

110.3 miles of grading, base and road mixed bituminous base (includes 9.6 miles of 4-lane) $7,659,000.

11.1 miles of grading and concrete pavement (1.7 mi. of 4-lane) $1,670,000.

60.7 miles of base and bituminous surfacing (3.5 mi. of 4-lane) $1,605,000.

125.4 miles of plant-mixed bituminous surfacing (6.0 mi. of 4-lane) $1,925,000.

40.6 miles of concrete pavement (includes 8.1 miles of 4-lane) $3,670,000.

6.4 miles of widening and resurfacing existing pavements in municipalities $1,099,000.

48 bridges (includes traffic, railroad and stream bridges) $10,393,000.

Carry-over from 1956-57 program $620,000.

For the work proposed on the interstate network, the following figures have been released:

2.8 miles of grading (4-lane divided) $1,030,000.

16.9 miles of grading and concrete pavement (4-lane divided) $12,200,000.

12.5 miles of concrete pavement (4-lane divided) $2,200,000.

Total trunk highway and interstate $70,623,000.

Projects scheduled in this area include T.H. 1, Marshall county, bridges and approach grading in Oslo. (Joint project with North Dakota). T.H. 59, grading and gravel surfacing from Newfolden to Strandquist. T.H. 89, grading and gravel surfacing from Jct. T.H. 219, west of Grygla, northerly, and bridge.

T.H. 220, Polk, concrete pavement from a point 3.8 mi. south of Bygland to East Grand Forks.

Senior Camp for Boys and Girls Age 13 and Older to Hear Well-known Pastors

Senior Bible camp for age 13 and up will begin on Monday, June 17, at the Galilee Lutheran Bible camp at Lake Bronson. Pastor Brandt served as a missionary in China until forced out by the Communist occupation of the country. He also ministered to the Navy personnel under the direction of the National Lutheran Council.

Rev. Leland Steen of Seattle, Washington, will be the other guest speaker and teacher. In the morning he will teach the "Bible Basis for Lutheran Doctrine", and will speak on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings and on Sunday morning.

Pastor Steen traveled for several years with the Augsburg Gospel Quartet. He has also served in several home mission areas and at the present time is pastor of First Lutheran church of Richmond Beach in Seattle.

A special feature on Tuesday, June 18th, will be pictures of Rev. T. H. Megorden's trip around the world showing the various mission areas where our churches support mission work in other lands.

Training School for School Patrol Units Under Way

The 20th annual summer training program for Minnesota's school safety patrol officers opened last Sunday when 127 young boys arrived at Legionville for the first of eight week-long sessions in advanced leadership training.

Legionville, located nine miles north of Brainerd on North Long Lake, is operated by the Department of Minnesota, American Legion, with the cooperation of the Minnesota department of highways. Advanced registrations show an almost 50 percent increase over last year.

It is expected that more than 1,000 boys and girls will be trained this summer. Minnesota Highway patrol Sergeant Ralph S. Potvin, New Brighton, will conduct the classes in safety education and school patrol methods.

Low Cost Power

With the letting of contracts for essential improvements to the city's power distributing system the council has now completed all the preliminary arrangements necessary for a hookup with a low cost, interstate power network. Such action is justified by the fact that we will be able to buy power much cheaper than it costs us to produce it.

The savings that will be made possible by this new arrangement will come gradually. How great these savings will be will depend on a number of factors.

Under the terms of the contracts that will become effective in the late months of this year, we will secure power for about what it now costs us to buy the fuel oil that is required to operate our engines. As Missouri River power becomes available this cost will be cut substantially.

The savings to start with will be reduced to the extent that we still have engines to pay for, and these payments will continue until 1970. In the meantime however, the savings should increase steadily year by year.

Conservative estimates place these savings at one-half a cent per kwh. The more optimistic guessers say it will be one cent. But in terms of 20 million kilowatts a year even one-half a cent means $100,000 and that is a sizeable sum by any man's arithmetic.

It is important that we keep in mind the fact that this saving will come gradually, and that it will not provide an immediate solution for our debt problem. It is encouraging to know however that substantial relief is on the way.

The city's future is a great deal brighter in many respects because of the assurance that new sources of low-cost power are being made available to us. Our local plant has served us well over a period of many years but mass production methods have made it obsolete. As in many other fields, the small plant must give way to the larger and more efficient operation.

Costs Too High

Dairy Day justifies itself just as a reminder of how important the dairy industry is to our area. This industry gives us our largest and most dependable payroll, and the progress that is being made at the production level in our area is most encouraging.

Our dairymen have become production conscious. More selective breeding and various forms of herd testing have increased production averages substantially. We now have many herds that average better than 300 pounds of fat a year and cows with more than 400 pound records are no longer unusual.

But while we are making excellent progress at the production level, our marketing system is not a thing to be proud of. Considering the area as a whole, and admitting a few exceptions, our manufacturing and marketing costs are much too high compared with costs in southern Minnesota and Wisconsin.

This is a phase of the industry's area problem that deserves more consideration than it has received. Here at the local level there isn't much we can do to affect the market value of our products at the national level, but inefficient operations here at home are ours alone, to live with or improve.

A saving of two cents a pound in manufacturing costs will put more than a quarter of a million additional dollars into the pockets of the dairymen of northwestern Minnesota.

Still More of Too Much

We all are aware of the effect chemicals have had on crop production. The results have been amazing, but so accustomed have we become to amazing results that the amazing no longer amazes us.

Now comes the word that we "aint seen nothin' yet." According to Fred Stannard, reporting in the Wall Steet Journal, the really amazing chemicals are still in the laboratory stage of development.

One of the new products, an antibiotic called gibberellim, is already performing miracles in actual tests. Cabbage plants that normally grow 24 inches high, shoot up to twelve feet under the influence of this new fertilizer. Preliminary research indicates that with some crops it will increase [illegible]elds, speed up the period of maturity and [illegible]ease seed production.

We don't know whether this [illegible] be classified as good news or bad. [illegible] the standpoint of consumers it prob[illegible]ful information, and consumers [illegible] hundred per cent of the populati[illegible]. From the standpoint of th[illegible]rs however, who have reason to g[illegible]w because the market cannot abs[illegible] is being produced, the news will [illegible] be accepted with mixed emotions.

For whatever comfort they [illegible]ut of the information, we are hap[illegible]ort to producers that this new [illegible] now costs $5,000 a pound. At this p[illegible]an't going to be a popular seller even if [illegible]unce is sufficient to reinvigorate an acre [illegible] grass. But that cost will no doubt come down.

Work Must Come First

State school officials are going to take a look-see at the high schools this summer to determine [illegible] what extent basic courses are being m[illegible] secondary to non-academic and extra-curricular activities. That will be a long-overdue step in the right direction.

Our schools, we will all agree, are doing an excellent job of teaching our youngsters how to play, and we do not say this disparagingly. To learn how to play well, with due regard for rules and the considerations of good sportsmanship, is important.

There is a reasonable doubt, however, as to whether or not our schools are meeting their responsibility in teaching our young people how to work. And learning how to work, how to study, how to achieve, is important too.

In fairness to the schools it may be said that this is a responsibility that has become more important as other means of learning how-to-work have been denied to our young people.

In modern homes the number of chores to be done, and the amount of work involved in any one chore, have been greatly reduced. Well meaning laws, of questionable merit, close the doors of instructive employment to many young people who would like to help themselves by getting on a payroll.

With the number of household chores reduced and the opportunities for part time, useful employment denied them, the young people of the present generation have no place to learn how to work except in school. And if the schools do not teach them how to work these young people move into the age of responsibility under a great handicap.

It is encouraging to know therefore that our state school officials are becoming concerned about what our high schools are doing. We are sure they will give serious consideration to the need for greater emphasis on the development of good work habits.

Moves out in a single sweep of motion
... Chevrolet with Turboglide!

Chevy's come up with the newest, sweetest, smoothest automatic drive—Turboglide. It's the first and only triple-turbine transmission!

Turboglide is something really new and different in automatic drives. In the first place, there's only one forward-speed position on the control panel. There's no "Low" needed.

Turboglide handles everything with the oil-smooth action of triple turbines. You travel from a standstill to top cruising speeds with never a lurch or lag to mar your motion.

When you see a steep downhill stretch ahead, you set the selector at "GR" (Grade Retarder) and Turboglide helps slow you down.

Try Chevy's new, nothing-like-it automatic drive. It's optional at extra cost—and worth it.

Company F Leaves for Camp Ripley Saturday

By trucks, jeeps, cars and buses, Viking-helmeted soldiers will be on the move Saturday.

Destination: Camp Ripley, Minn.

The move-out is scheduled to start at 7 a.m. from communities throughout the state. Involved are 6,200 members of the 47th (Viking) infantry division, Minnesota national guard, including 115 officers and men of Company F of Thief River Falls.

They will head for the 45,000 acre military reservation in central Minnesota that has been the scene of summer field training for the guard since 1931. They will remain there until June 29.

The infantry will be there, and the engineers and artillery; medical, signal, military police, band and quartermaster units and other special outfits.

The troops will note some face-lifting at the camp since a year ago.

Newly installed are 132 aluminum hutments. Replacing a similar number of tents, the 16-by-16-ft. metal housing units accommodate six men each. Tests have shown they are 13 per cent cooler in the daytime and 5 per cent warmer at night. Cost was $400 apiece.

Also ready for the guardsmen are 18 new mess halls, six new infantry squad combat courses, a new road circling the entire camp and a new engineers' crossing site on the Mississippi river.

Last winter bulldozers were put to work at the camp and cleared large stands of trees in artillery impact areas.

In the interest of highway safety, troop convoys moving from St. Cloud to Ripley will take to county blacktop roads, avoiding heavily traveled highways 10 and 371.

Drivers Asked to Avoid Pheasants Along Highways

"Many sportsmen have voiced concern over the loss of pheasants on our highways", states James A. Lee, assistant to director of game and fish.

"The automobile has become one of our more important causes of mortality in pheasants. This is especially so at this time of year when the birds are nesting," said Lee.

"We certainly feel that this loss could be greatly reduced if motorists would exercise caution. If drivers would slow up when they see pheasants along the edge of the road ahead, many would undoubtedly be saved."

"Sparing the life of a hen pheasant during the nesting and rearing season often means saving her offspring as well. This can mean more birds for the hunter next fall", concluded Lee.

WHAT RELIGION DID FOR BASEBALL!

Today's athlete wants to win fairly according to the rules. Primitive man had no rules, no sense of fair play.

In the intervening centuries man learned more of God. He began to apply basic religious principles of honesty and integrity to all the activities of life. Finally, he decided that even his games ought to be played by such standards.

Sometimes we say that sports build character. We really mean that fair play—the religious principle we have tried to incorporate in our games—turns mere competitive effort into a character-molding experience.

But life is more than a game . . . and Christian character is more than sportsmanship.

The Church teaches all of us the principles of moral and spiritual living. It brings us into a reverent relationship with God himself. Its truths not only inspire fair play . . . but victorious living.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Other entries included Miss Angie Refling of Fertile, recently crowned Northwest Dairy Princess of 1957, riding on a Land O'Lakes float.

Also included were a group of horseback riders representing the Crookston Saddle club, as well as local riders.

Eagles Present Monolith Bearing 10 Commandments

Judge E. J. Ruegemer of St. Cloud Officiates at Ceremony on Saturday

Mayor O. D. Beich formally accepted a granite monolith of the Ten Commandments Saturday from Judge E. J. Ruegemer, St. Cloud, a member of the Eagles board of grand trustees and head of the Eagles youth guidance program.

About 150 persons witnessed the presentation, at which Judge Ruegemer explained the symbols on the monolith. He said the commandments on the monolith do not correspond with those in the Bible but are, rather, a compromise to suit all religious faiths.

The idea came, he said, from Cecil B. DeMille, who made the film "The Ten Commandments," and the program of placing monoliths in various cities is international in scope.

The granite monument is on the north side of the courthouse lawn and two temporary blacktop walks converge on it from either side. These will later be replaced with concrete walks, according to officials.

The presentation was closed with a benediction by Rev. James Bernauer, of St. Bernards parish, who also gave the invocation at the start of the program.

Houske, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. The referendum will be held on Thursday, June 20. Polling place have been set up at convenient locations throughout the county, as follows:

Quotas do not effect farmers with smaller wheat acreages.

Farmers are urged to inform themselves fully before casting their ballots, and those who have questions about the operation of the wheat program or about the referendum should get in touch with the county ASC office. By now, all growers in the county should have received notice of their farm allotments for the 1958 wheat crop. Here are the two alternatives between which farmers will choose in the June 20 wheat referendum:

If at least two-thirds of the growers voting approve the quotas, then quotas will continue in effect for the 1958 wheat crop, and a grower who exceeds the larger of his allotment or 15 acres of wheat will be subject to a marketing quota penalty on his "excess" wheat. Under quotas, the available wheat price support to farmers who have complied with their farm wheat allotments will be at a minimum national average of $1.78 a bushel.

If more than one-third of the voters disapprove the quotas, then no quotas and no penalties will be in effect, but the available support on the 1958 wheat crop will be 50 percent of parity, as provided by law.

Chairman Houske emphasized that the vote in the referendum will not affect acreage allotments, which will continue in effect for the 1958 wheat crop no matter how the vote goes. The law directs that wheat allotments shall be in effect each year except in time of emergency.

Marketing quotas, however, are directed to be proclaimed only in years when the wheat supply exceeds normal by 20 percent or more. The supply of wheat available for the marketing year 1957-58 is estimated at 56 percent above the normal supply.

Supt. Seeks Culinary Exhibits for Co. Fair

Mrs. Millard J. Peterson, superintendent of the culinary department at the Pennington county fair opening Monday, July 1, today urged local homemakers to exhibit their baked, canned and frozen foods at the fair this year.

She asked especially for frozen food exhibits, adding that a deep-freeze unit is available for storing them. Entries, she said, should be placed in a transparent container or in a package that can be opened.

"Your cakes" said Mrs. Peterson, "must definitely be homemade and butter cakes" made with butter will have a special premium award. There will be china or silverware gifts for outstanding displays in each besides the usual first, second and third prizes.

"To know what you may exhibit, ask for a premium list from either bank, chamber of commerce or the drug stores.

"It is too early for garden products but you must have frozen or canned goods from last year. Jelly may be made up from canned juices you have stored.

"Plan your exhibits now, so you may be ready on opening day, July 1. Pies may be entered until 10 o'clock the second day.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

I have just received our bill for tuition and transportation for grade school children of district No. 46 from the Goodridge district No. 8 Transportation is satisfactory but tuition per pupil unit has raised some $90 over last year. I understand no levy has been made so far for building costs.

We are wondering how long these levy increases are going to continue. For the year ending in 1953 the tuition cost per pupil was $185; for 1954 $210; for 1955 $202.10; for 1956 $243.32 and for 1957 $333.34.

Our district No. 46 has a taxable valuation of $10,910 and in the past year we have had six grade pupils attending the Goodridge school. Next year there will be seven and the following year eight. We are the smallest district in the state and our mill rate for school purposes is already the third highest in the county.

We know the people of the Goodridge district have a problem but we want them to know that we have one too. We think we have two good reasons for wanting to join the Thief River Falls district. One is the cost. The other is convenience. Our interests naturally are in Thief River Falls rather than in Goodridge.

There has been talk of several of our rural districts joining together in the operation of an ungraded country school. As far as I am concerned I am definitely against any such proposal.

Kenneth Habedank
District No. 46

List Participants in District Fun Festival

County participants in the district 4-H "Share the Fun" festival at Ada Thursday, June 27, have been announced by Cargill, Incorporated, sponsor for the eighth consecutive year of the annual young peoples' event.

The Ada festival is one of the district meetings that replace Cargill-sponsored Talent Search competitions of former years. The others are at Redwood Falls June 20, Faribault on June 21 and Aitkin June 28. A state-wide program, for which acts from the four districts will be chosen, is scheduled for Minneapolis during Minnesota State Fair Week in August.

Share the Fun festivals, according to Earl Bergerud, district 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, are designed to replace the competitive aspects of earlier contests with an emphasis on educational and group entertainment. In the Ada district 17 counties are represented with one act chosen from each county by local county agent club leaders.

Cargill, which shares sponsorship with the Minnesota Agricultural Extension Service, will provide all-expense paid trips to the State Fair festival for acts chosen from the districts. There will be no "winners," but a 4-H committee will select the state-wide program on the bases of excellence of performance, age of performer, number of participants and contribution to a well-rounded show.

Master of ceremonies at Ada will be Lyle Arneson, former elementary school principal and coach of amateur theatricals. Program arrangements are in the charge of County Agent Harold Rosendahl.

Participants in the various acts are Carol Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Johnson, Argyle; Jerry and Roger Tharaldson, Strabuck; Kelly, Gary and Mary Summerville, Mary Larson, Robert and Roland Korinek and Sandra Korinek, all of Campbell; and Darlene Lenave, Breckenridge.

Mary Kay Brinkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brinkman, Roseau; Lynn Mary Van, Elbow Lake; Florence Hesse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Florian Hesse, Plummer; Gail Forsell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Forsell, Twin Valley; Gladys, Agnetta and Orlyn Trassefh, Shevlin, and Tommy and Jimmy Saunderst, Bagley, and Karen Osborn, Helene Philip and Leo McPhee, all of Shevlin; Shirley Oski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Oski, Goodridge.

Allen Grohn and Dean Osterman, Wheaton; Carolynn Krabbenhoft, Sabin; Marge Murray, Lancaster; Ruth Ann Ranstrom, Detroit Lakes; Douglas Dahlman, Clarissa; Barbara Aanerud, Eileen Nelson and Beatrice Benson all of Waubun; Louise Abrahamson, Judy Seaton and Judy Goche, all of Verndale and Elaine Heather, Wadena.

Ronald and Robert Grover and Wayne Westland all of Rt. 3, Perham.

James Parkins Jr. Graduates from Pharmacy School

James Parkins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parkins of this city, was graduated Monday from the pharmacy school of North Dakota Agricultural college at Fargo.

Present at commencement exercises were his parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Parkins of New England, N. D., and two aunts Mrs. Nora Holmen and Mrs. Bess Van Campen.

James Jr. received word later in the week that he had passed the North Dakota state pharmacy board examinations, and he is now employed in a Bismarck drug store.

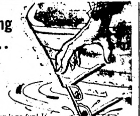
Take along a spare...



A "blind" vacation is no fun! If you break or lose your only pair of glasses, you're in trouble. You miss the pleasure of driving . . . sightseeing . . . all the rest. Extra glasses are vital vacation gear. So carry a spare. But remember—your vision changes. Have your eyes examined now . . . to bring your prescription up to date. See your optometrist or ophthalmologist.

You can't replace your eyes! A yearly examination is wise!

UPPER MIDWEST COUNCIL FOR BETTER VISION

Former Local Man Flies Oldest Plane Here Sunday

"What is it?" was the question on all lips at the airport Sunday when Lester Rock, former jeweler here, put in his appearance at municipal airport in this 1939 model Dart monoplane.

When straight overhead the Dart presents a bat-like appearance because of its stubby, high-chord wing and short-coupled fuselage and even the aircraft recognition experts among local flyboys had to wait until Rock landed and told them what is, in order to enlighten those even less familiar with plane makes and models.

Rock flew in for the TRF Flying Club's Flight Breakfast Sunday morning. The ship he flew is no longer built and there are few of them left in existence and his is definitely the only one of its kind in northern Minnesota and quite possibly the entire state. It is powered by a 90 h.p. 5-cylinder radial engine, seats two, and cruises at about 120 m.p.h., a speed which many newer makes of plane cannot attain.

Clowns Amuse Parade Spectators

The large number of clowns from the various Eagle lodges represented at the convention the past week-end kept the crowd laughing with their zany antics during Saturday's parade, which was one of the longest on record here. The group shown here was one of the favorites of all those which performed.

30 Planes Here for Flight Breakfast

Local Residents Fail to Support Annual Event

A good attendance of pilots and aviation enthusiasts from other airports in northwest Minnesota turned out for the annual Flight Breakfast sponsored by the Thief River Falls Flying Club at municipal airport Sunday.

From a fly-in standpoint the breakfast was a huge success, club members reported. However, while heartily thanking those local people who did turn out for the breakfast keen disappointment was expressed that local support otherwise was almost totally lacking. At the Fertile Flight Breakfast in 1956 the townspeople turned out nearly 100 per cent for the affair, according to local club members who attended.

About 30 out-of-town airplanes landed here and their occupants were highly impressed by the airport facilities here and by the work being done to promote aviation locally by the Thief River Falls Flying club.

A great deal of preparation was put into promoting the flight breakfast by local club members who had facilities to feed 600 people.

Bible School Held Closing Services

Closing exercises of the Vacation Bible School at St. John's Lutheran Church, included the pledge of allegiance to the Flag and the pledge of allegiance to the Cross. This marks the last vacation Bible school to be conducted by St. John's congregation in its old church building, now the property of Our Saviour's Lutheran congregation. By late fall St. John's hopes to be occupying its new church building now under construction.

State Session of Eagles Concluded in TRF on Sunday

morning's session was Harry Sieben, state director of traffic safety, who solicited the support of Eagles' members in combating the rising rate of traffic fatalities, in evidence in the state in the first four months of 1957. He stated that in 1956, 55,000 traffic mishaps were reported, with more than 22,000 injuries resulting.

Attendance at the four-day event was estimated at upwards of 500 Eagles and auxiliary members.

Soils and Water Research Agency Slated for State

Senator Edward J. Thye's years of effort to establish a soil and water reseach laboratory in Minnesota were given support last week by the Senate appropriations committee. The committee, of which Senator Thye is a member, supported his request for funds for the construction of laboratories in four regions of the nation.

Of the $1,650,000 provided $450,000 will be used for a laboratory in Minnesota. Other sites designated were: Mississippi, Georgia, and a location somewhere within the area of the 17 reclamation states of the West.

Senator Thye said, "The conservation of the soil and water resources of our nation and state is fundamental to the continued well-being of the United States. These laboratories will help us to learn more about the effects of various farming practices on the different types of soil we have."

Check Shows 115 Faulty Car Lights

330 Cars Are Checked by Highway Patrol in City

Highway patrol officers of District 8, assisted by Police Chief Elton Cummings and three local patrolmen checked the lights on 330 cars Thursday evening on West Second st., north of the Auditorium.

Of the total checked, 115 cars, or slightly more than one-third, were found to have defective headlights, which the patrol stated was about average compared to previous checks. The officers added that any other drivers wishing to have their lights check may take them to any official lamp-testing station.

Drivers licenses also were checked, and 11 motorists were found to have no valid license on their person. Of this number, eight had left them at home.

WHY SHOULD STATE IMPORT CHARCOAL?

It may surprise the average reader to learn that for one purpose or another 3,000 tons of charcoal are used in Minnesota each year, Conservation Department's magazine, Volunteer, mentions outdoor grills, restaurants, and railroad dining cars as the principal users of this fuel, and quite understandably deplores the fact that practically every ounce of it is imported. "Kilns can be installed with low capital investment," says the Volunteer, "and operating costs are not high. Annual production of 3,000 tons would mean productive use of 6,000 cords of low-grade wood, or about 600 acres of now unused Minnesota woodland." It seems possible, too, that ready availability might further increase the demand. A profitable industry beckons.

PKM Electric Co-op Improves Its Status

For the first time since P.K.M. Electric Cooperative, Inc., came into existence, the cooperative wiped out the deficit accumulated during its development years and operated in 1956 with a net margin of $22,502, the Warren Sheaf reports.

This fact was learned by members of the cooperative in the annual statement presented at the annual meeting attended by nearly 900 people at the high school auditorium in Warren on Monday afternoon.

REA members retained its three incumbent directors for three year terms. Unopposed for re-election were President Victor M. Edman of Alvarado, Marshall county and Glyn Dalen, Oslo, Polk county while Marvey Peterson of Kennedy defeated Clarence Soderberg also of Kennedy who was nominated by petition by a vote of 224 to 114. Edman received 327 votes and Dalen 291 votes.

Victor M. Edman, president of the cooperative who presided during the afternoon program pointed out the need for selling more electricity, stating that the consumption growth should be 7 to 8 per cent yearly while last year PKM's growth was only about 5 per cent. He reported that PKM was instituting a new program to aid consumers in financing the purchasing of electrical equipment which will tend to increase the use of electricity.

The president also explained how Minnkota Power cooperative, which he also reads, has tied in with the Bureau of Reclamation, Otter Tail Power, Northern States Power and Central Power Co-op., to provide more efficient and cheaper service for the area. At the present time Minnkota is getting "dump" power from Garrison dam at a fraction of what it costs to produce power at its own plant in Grand Forks which is idle at the present time. However, during the heavy consumption months all of the four organizations will need to use their own equipment to provide the current necessary for the territory served.

4 Local Students Graduate from 'U'

Over 3,000 Graduates Get Diplomas Saturday

Approximately 3,000 University of Minnesota students received diplomas in commencement exercises Saturday in Memorial stadium, Minneapolis.

Among those receiving diplomas were Jack B. Erickson, associate in arts; Helen G. Kjos, home economics education; Beverly Ann Jenson, bachelor of science degree, with distinction, in education; and Jerry W. Tygeson, bachelor of business administration.

University President J. L. Morrill addressed the 1957 June graduates in his annual "charge to the class".

The University conferred its thirty-eighth honorary degree on Walter H. Brattain during the ceremonies. Brattain is a member of the technical staff of Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc. Murry Hill, N. J. He received a doctor of philosophy degree in physics from the University in 1929.

With John Bardeen and William B. Schockley, Brattain received the Nobel Prize in Physics for 1956 for their basic research leading to the invention of the transistor, an electronic device having many properties of the vacuum tube.

The commencement was preceded at 7:30 p.m. by a concert by the University concert band and men's glee club, conducted by Bandmaster Gerald R. Prescott.

Thieves Club Bows to Fosston Sunday Night, Score 3-0

Both Teams Play Fine Brand of Baseball on Fair Grounds Diamond

Considering the inclement weather that prevailed, with a drizzle dampening the early innings and a chilly north-east wind cooling the concluding innings, the Fosston and Thief River Falls senior baseball teams turned in an exceptionally fine brand of ball in their Northern Minny league tilt at the Fair Grounds diamond Sunday night. Fosston, behind the two-hit pitching of righthander Stan Otness, defeated the Thieves, 3 to 0.

This week's schedule will find the Thieves playing host to a pair of the league's top-ranked clubs. On Wednesday night the league-leading Bagley Merchants, boasting an undefeated record, will play manager Gene Buck's club under the lights on the Fair Grounds diamond. And next Sunday night, also in a game under the lights, the Erskine Merchants, managed and coached by Lyle Westrum, will play the Thieves.

In Sunday night's game here the starring role was played by Fosston's rangy Stan Otness. The fast-balling righthander not only turned in a two-hit shutout, but on offense he banged out a home run, a double, and a single.

In the 2nd inning, Otness poled a Sid Vran pitch over the fence in left field for a home run; and his double in the 4th inning was a factor in giving manager Fritz Frethem's team their second tally.

Otness struck out eleven, walked two, and gave up hits to Mickey Hanson and Joey Poole.

Fosston	010 100 010	3	7	1
Thief River Falls	000 000 000	0	2	2

Batteries: Otness and Olson; Vran and Hanson.

Bridgemans Lead Softball League

Bjorkmans and Len's Tied for Second Place

The second week of play in the city softball schedule found the Bridgeman's team recording a pair of wins to continue to hold the top rung in the league standings. Bob Carlson's club defeated Cliff's Market, 11 to 4, on Tuesday evening, and on Thursday, as part of double-header, and the playing of their scheduled game for this evening, Bridgeman's trounced Holum by a 21 to 3.

The best game of the week was the Bjorkman's vs. T. & S. Implement game on Wednesday evening. Playing on a wet and slippery diamond, the two teams were nip-and-tuck for the first three innings, with Milt Bolerson of Bjorkman's and Gordy Kaushagen of the T & S hooking up in a duel. The Bjorkman's, resorting to a bunt-and-run game, scored six runs in the 4th inning, and then went on to win the game 7 to 2.

This week's feature game will probably be the Wednesday evening tilt between the league-leading Bridgeman's and the T & S Implement.

Bemidji Takes Prowlers 11-0 to Win Region Title

Piling up four runs in the 1st inning and adding three runs in the 2nd, coach Horace May's Bemidji Lumberjacks made quick work of insuring their second successive regional high school baseball title, defeating the Prowlers by an 11 to 0 score in the tournament finals played at Fertile on Thursday night.

The Lumberjacks will play their opening game in the state high school tournament, which is being played in St. Paul's Midway stadium, this afternoon (Monday) at 4:00 p.m. when they meet the Region One champion.

In Thursday night's championship tilt, the Prowlers, having first at bats, made a scoring threat. Harlie Drees opened with a single, was advanced to second on a sacrifice by Jerry Jorgenson, and moved to third on an infield out. Darrel Wick fanned to end the scoring threat.

Bob Hallameck, a surprise starter for coach Ralph Skjod's club, making his first appearance on the mound since suffering a broken collarbone on May 9th, retired the first two Jacks, Jim Wynne and Jim Johnson showing the evidence of his long layoff by lacking his usually sharp control, Hallameck walked Ray Cronk. Cronk stole second, and advanced to third on Dave Berg's high throw. Bill Lawrence punched out a hit to right field, scoring Cronk. Dick Anderson, Marc Kolden, and Jerry Johnson followed with singles, and the Jacks added three more runs.

In the 2nd, with two men away, Ross Sloan and Mickey Hanson tagged Lawrence for singles, but with runners on third and first, Hallameck struck out to retire the Prowlers and their rally.

The Lumberjacks, on a pair of singles, a pair of walks, and a couple of Prowler errors, scored three runs to take a 7 to 0 lead. Freshman Arlan Hjelle replaced Hallameck on the mound for the locals.

The Prowlers made their final gesture at getting into the scoring column in the 3rd inning. Drees opened the inning by drawing a walk; Jorgenson grounded to Lawrence, and Drees was forced at second. On a wild pitch, Jorgenson advanced to second; Dave Berg drew a pass; Wick, on a ground ball to Lawrence, forced Jorgenson at third base. Dean Bergland was issued a pass, and the bases were loaded. Tony Wald whiffed and the rally was ended. From then on, through the 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th innings, Lawrence retired the Prowlers in order.

The Jacks, on a single, a pair of errors, a sacrifice, and a walk, tallied twice in the 5th inning; and added another two-run cluster, on a single, a pair of sacrifices, a fielder's choice, and an error in the 6th inning.

Righthander Dick Lawrence doled out but three hits, struck out nine Prowlers, and walked three batsmen as, with but a day's rest, he hurled the Lumberjacks to their regional championship.

Fosston at Erskine.
Thursday, June 20th:
Red Lake Falls vs. Winger at Erskine.
Sunday, June 23rd:
Erskine at Thief River Falls.
Fosston at Red Lake Falls.
Winger at Bagley.

The Bagley Merchants, adding a pair of triumphs to their win column during the week, are making a shambles of the Northern Minnesota league race. Manager Mel Burstad's defending champions defeated Erskine and Red Lake Falls in a pair of games this week to continue their undefeated record. The Bagley nine will meet the Thief River Falls Thieves at Thief River Falls in an important tilt on Wednesday night.

Fritz Frethem's Fosston team, with pitcher Stan Otness hurling, a two hit shutout, defeated the Thieves, 3 to 0, at Thief River Falls on Sunday night, and by that win the Fosston club took over second place in the league standings.

Lefty Ken Severud fashioned a four-hit shutout as Bagley defeated the Red Lake Falls Lakers, 13 to 0, at Bagley on Sunday afternoon.

Destiny's Children

Even the gods, in the form of Wednesday evening's downpour, smiled on the Bemidji Lumberjacks as they made a successful defense of the eighth regional high school baseball title. Wednesday evening's rain forced a postponement, for one day, of the Lumberjacks finals game against the Prowlers, and that postponement gave Bemidji's one-man pitching staff, righthander Bill Lawrence, an extra day of rest. It's tough enough for the Prowlers to beat the Lumberjacks in athletics without having the elements shuffle the odds in favor of Bemidji.

Following Tuesday night's 3 to 0 win over Ada in a regional tourney first round game, coach Horace May of the Lumberjacks announced that he would give Lawrence the starting assignment against the Prowlers. Lawrence had turned in a strong game against the Vikings, giving up but four hits in posting the shutout. Came the rains and a one-day rest for Bemidji, and Lawrence.

It's doubtful, though, if the Prowlers could have beaten Lawrence and Bemidji on Wednesday. Bemidji is a strong and well-balanced team, and Lawrence, a senior, is a mature and tournament-wise athlete. The fact that the high school games are seven-innings, except for the state high school championship game, and tie games, made the regional set-up in Bemidji's favor. While Bemidji had the stronger team, we doubt that the Jacks are eleven runs to zero better than the Prowlers.

And today, Monday, with game-time at 4:00 P. M., Bemidji makes its bid in the state tournament, meeting Austin from Region One in a first round game. The Jacks have a chance.

Divots

John Moum advises, that the city golf league will begin play on its 1957 schedule on Wednesday evening. The responsibility of having the team members on the number tee and ready for play on Wednesday, rest with their respective team captains. That's final and definite, according to John.

After taking a look at the pre-season roster of prospective teams, it's the opinion of this corner that the two teams captained by Emil Larson and Phil LeGault can be rated as title favorites.

Emil has such experienced and league-toughened players as Stan Larson, Bob Wurst, Wally DuChamp, A. J. Parenteau, and Emil. The other team, Phil's squad, will feature an all-southpaw lineup, and it reads like this, Phil LeGault, L. L. Tygeson, Doug Tegtmeier, Bob Craik, and Lloyd Brunsberg. Of course the local club is patterened for right-handed players, so perhaps the odds are against Phil's southpaws.

Say, that was a pretty representative championship flight that played in the shortstop tournament here on Sunday. With such golfers as Wes Zeman, Joe Mayer, Lyle Hornbacher, Dick Sampson, Bill Bohnhoff, Red Peterson, Stan Larson, and Rudy Melhoff, competing in the championship flight, the local tournament could well be proud of the turn-out of the northwest's top-flight golfers.

Bohnhoff won the tournament and he won it the hard way being forced into a pair of ding-dong extra-hole matches.

Cheers

Entitled to badges of merit or medal of commendation or words of honor, or all three, are the members of the Times trapshooting team. Last Thursday evening the Times—Clarence and Bob Mattson, Mel Zitzow, Bill Dahlquist, and George Mostue—shot an aggregate of 123 to defeat the league-leading Wilson Bros. in a Thief River Trap league match.

It's seldom that a defeat has been tacked onto the Wilson Bros. record, and it's the first time this season that Stan's squad has been on the short end of the score.

In posting the Times victory, the printers had three 25's (Clarence Mattson, 23-3, Zitzow 22-3, and Dahlquist, 19-6), and a pair of 24's (Bob Mattson, 20-4, and Mostue, 21-3). The only member of the Wilson's to get into the charmed 25 circle was young Sandy Wilson, who had a 21-4.

In addition to causing much hurt to the Wilson's pride, Thursday evening's loss dropped the boys into a three-way, with the Owen's Appliance and the Northern Chevrolet, for first place.

Stan Wilson will undoubtedly "crack the whip" next week when the Wilson's meet the Johnson Bros.

The Best? The Most Improved!

Unquestionably an argument can be developed as to whether or not Tony Dorn of the Pharmacy team is the best trap shot in town, or in the trap shoot league. Such shooters as Mel Hyland, Dr. Jim Disse, Gordon Olen, Ray Johnson, and several others, have their supporters, and these boys are "scratch" or near-scratch shooters.

But it must be agreed that scratch this season has shown Tony who is shooting from the most consistent improvement among the league shooters. It wasn't so many years ago that Tony was an 18 or 19 shooter, and last season he was averaging 21. To date this season he has posted scores of 22-24-25-23. The evening he posted his 25 straight, Tony continued shooting in effort to break fifty but he dropped a bird and had to settle for a 49.

According to the statistics of secretary Erling Torgerson, it appears that Tony will be given quite a battle for "high gun" honors by Warren's Gordon Olen. Olen, in three shoots, has tallied scores of 23-25-24.

Oh yes, the reason why we are giving good old Tony this puff of words is that Times shoot against the Pharmacy on June 27. Nothing like putting Tony under a lot of pressure.

Joey's Boys.

The local American Legion baseball team, coached by Joe Poole this season, will open its home schedule this evening, Monday, when, on the Fair Grounds diamond, they meet coach Chuck Johnson's Fertile team. Most of the players on the Fertile squad were also members of the Fertile high school team, so you can expect a fine brand of baseball. Game time is at 7:30 p.m.

360 Sunfish Are Placed in River

Mature Fish Planted by Game Warden Sundstrom

Local small-fry fishermen will probably find the action on the river here more to their liking with the release of over 360 pounds of mature sunfish in the river by Game Warden Carl Sundstrom.

Sundstrom released the fish in the river here last week and said more may be put into the river at a later date if they are made available.

He also said the fish released here have not spawned yet and that their spawning here could also result in an increase in the population of sunfish.

Several thousand crappies were released in the river last year and some of these have furnished considerable sport for local fishermen this spring.

Bill Bohnhoff of G.F. Wins Shortstop Here

Sixty-three golfers participated in the shortstop golf tournament played over the local course, and which was won by Grand Forks' Bill Bohnhoff, who defeated Roseau's H. F. (Red) Peterson in a finals match that was concluded late Sunday. Stan Larson of the local club won the championship flight consolation honors, defeating Paul Reiersgaard, of Crookston.

Bohnoff, who has just completed his freshman year at Colgate University, and who is a son of Ed Bohnhoff the former Grand Forks Central athletic coach, shot near-par golf as he defeated Roseau's veteran Red Peterson in the finals. In his first round match on Sunday morning, long-driving Bornhoff eliminated Pete Groschupf of Bemidji. In a second round match, and which went into extra holes, Bohnhoff eliminated Wes Zeman, the fine southpaw golfer from Grand Forks. In the semi-finals, against young Joe Mayer of Bemidji, Bornhoff was forced into four extra holes before he succeeded in defeating the former eighth regional high school champion, Mayer.

Peterson, playing in the upper bracket, defeated Dick Sampson of Grand Forks in a first round match. In a second round encounter, Peterson bested the local club's Stan Larson; and in the semi-finals, Red took the measure of the local club's champion, Rudy Melhoff.

State Now Certified as Brucellosis-free

Minnesota has reached its first major goal in brucellosis eradication in its cattle herds.

The state has been officially certified "modified bovine brucellosis free" by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This certification means that brucellosis infection has been reduced to less than 1 percent in all cattle and less than 5 percent in the state.

In officially announcing the certification, True D. Morse, under secretary of agriculture, said the Minnesota brucellosis eradication program "demonstrates the accomplishments that can be achieved by the state and federal governments working together with farmers and the dairy and livestock industries."

Some of the key men working on the program in Minnesota include Dr. Ralph L. West and Dr. George E. Keller, executive secretary and veterinarian, respectively, for the state livestock sanitation board, Dr. Fred C. Driver, veterinarian in charge, USDA animal disease eradication division, Ralph Wayne, extension dairyman at the University of Minnesota and Dr. Robert N. Barr, executive officer of the state board of health.

Mille Lacs county was the last to complete the program, making Minnesota the 7th state to be certified. Other states already certified are North Carolina, New Hampshire, Maine, Wisconsin, Washington and Delaware.

Minnesota was a pioneer state in brucellosis eradication. The ring test—an essential part of the program was perfected for field use at the University of Minnesota several years ago by Dr. M. H. Roepke, professor of veterinary medicine.

The brucellosis eradication program was originally launched in Minnesota in 1939. In that year, the state legislature passed a law that provided for a mandatory blood test of all cattle in a given county when at least 67 percent of the cattle owners of the county had signed a petition requesting such a test.

During the next 12 years, 36 counties came into the program, largely as a result of educational work carried out by agriculture agents in these counties. In the other 51 counties, little action had been taken. So in 1951, a joint program was started through cooperation of several interested agencies—the state department of health, the livestock sanitary board, veterinarians of the state, the University and the USDA—and with local veterinarians and farmers themselves. In December of that year, Driver and West started the ring test of milk and cream in counties which had not had an area blood test.

County agents led the educational program in each county. This program emphasized economic loss by lowered production and calf losses, danger to humans from undulant fever and possible loss of dairy markets where brucellosis was not eradicated.

When local leaders thought there was enough support for a county-wide signup, they called a meeting of dairymen. The situation was then explained by a representative of the state Livestock Sanitary Board and by extension dairymen. At the close of such a meeting the sign up was started.

Thirty-nine counties signed up for the program during 1952 alone. The remaining counties have signed up since then.

State Retailers to Fight Shoplifting

To Map Plans at State Meeting in Minneapolis

Merchants, police chiefs, and prosecuting attorneys from Minnesota will make "battle plans" at the annual merchants conference of the Minnesota Retail Federation on June 20. Sessions will be held at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis.

Joining forces, the retailers and public officials will start a new war on shoplifters. The federation's entire morning session will be devoted to the shoplifting problem.

Included will be a movie on Techniques employed by store thieves, an analysis of Minnesota's new shoplifting law, and a demonstration.

Included will be a movie on techniques employed by store thieves, an analysis of Minnesota's new shoplifting law, and a demonstration of the lie detectors and new electronic TV, infra-red cameras, radar "eyes", and other devices. Judge Archie L. Gingold of the St. Paul municipal court will speak.

The afternoon session will be a confidential, off-the-record conference on labor unions and retail store employee relations. Thomas E. Shroyer, Washington labor relations lawyer, will be the principal speaker. Formerly assistant to the late Senator Robert Taft and counsel to Taft's senate labor committee, Shroyer is credited with authorship of the Taft-Hartley law. A panel of merchants will discuss retail labor relations.

Eckvoll Township Ground Observer Is Given Citation

Mrs. Martin Holte, chief observer of the Eckvoll township ground observer corps post in Marshall County, was recently presented a meritorious service award and 500 hour bar for her participation in this vital link of the Air Defense Command.

Mrs. Holte is responsible for reporting all aircraft that she hears or sees to the Bemidji Air Defense Filter Center. According to S/Sgt. Palmer Johnson, Mobile Training Sergeant for this area, Mrs. Holte has contributed greatly to the fine Air Defense network now in operation in the United States.

Since the Air Defense filter centers in the interior of the U. S. have been placed on a stand-by status, Mrs. Holte's and other posts on the perimeter area have become more important to the security of the Nation than ever before, said Johnson.

Alumni Reunion Is Set for June 29 at Northwest School

Occasion Will Mark the Retirement of Home Ec Instructor Retta Bede

The 51st annual alumni reunion of the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, will be held on Saturday, June 29. The five-year class reunions, beginning with the class of 1917, will bring to the school many of the "old Grads" in addition to the alumni and former students of recent years.

The Northwest School Alumni Association's business meeting will be held during the supper hour, which will be "pot luck." Prizes will again be awarded to the most newly-married couple among Northwest School graduates and to the alumnus coming the greatest distance.

This year finds another distinguished member of the Northwest School faculty retiring — Miss Retta Bede of the home economics department. Miss Bede has been with the school since July, 1955. A special request is made to the members of classes of 1929 and 1930 to be present as Miss Bede served as one of the class advisers. Alumni of the school will remember the retirement of T. M. McCall at last year's reunion.

John Schiller's Ramblers have been engaged to play for the alumni dance in the evening.

Service Academy Openings Listed

Senator Humphrey Asks Area Young Men to Apply

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey has announced arrangements for preliminary examinations to be given in Minnesota on July 15, 1957, by the Civil Service Commission for designation of applicants to the U. S. Military, Naval, Air Force, and Merchant Marine academies.

Senator Humphrey invites young men who want to try for appointment to one of the four service academies to apply to him now for the class of 1958. Every candidate must take the examination before he is considered for appointment.

Letters of aplication should be in the office of Senator Humphrey not later than July 1. "In order that we may send them material and also inform the Civil Service Commission of those interested in taking the examinations."

Candidates must be at least 17 years of age and must not have reached their 22nd birthday by July 1 of the year in which they enter the academies.

Regular examination points for the tests in Minnesota, if any boys in such areas apply, include Thief River Falls.

Higher Interest Spurs Bond Sales

State Chairman Reports Bigger Sales Last Month

Purchases of Series E and H savings bonds in May, amounting to $6,003,412, reflect very favorably the new increased interest rate of 3¼ per cent, state chairman Arnulf Ueland announced today.

"Although May sales are normally about 15 per cent below April sales, the sales this year are 24 per cent higher than last month," he said. "This pick up is in both Series E and Series H sales, the E sales being the highest since January, 1957 and the H sales the highest since August, 1956."

Mr. Ueland paid tribute to the job that has been done in Minnesota by the various media in publicizing the increased interest rate.

Savings Bond purchases in Minnesota for the five months of 1957 total $27,895,911, or 32.6 per cent of the 1957 goal for the state.

Purchases of Series E and Series H Bonds in May total $16,964 in Pennington county, bringing the year-to-date sales to $72,588, or 30.4 per cent of the county goal for 1957. J. M. Roche is county chairman.

Centennial Float to Appear at U. S. Jaycee Meeting

Minnesota's Centennial float will make its first trip outside the state to appear with the Minnesota Jaycee delegation at the National Junior Chamber of Commerce convention, June 26, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Locally, the float will be seen at more than 58 Minnesota county and community celebrations in 1957. The float was designed for the purpose of calling attention to the Minnesota Statehood Centennial celebration in 1958.

Minnesota Farm Land Values Rise

University Economist Reports on Price Trends

Farm land in Minnesota took a 4 percent jump in value in 1956, but the increase wasn't as great as during the previous two years.

On the average, Minnesota land in 1956 was worth $126 per acre, compared with $121 a year earlier, according to Philip M. Raup, agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota.

In 1955 and '56 Minnesota land values increased about 7 percent annually.

Raup bases these figures on a recent U. S. Department of Agriculture report and on a recent survey of farm real estate dealers, loan agents and bankers in Minnesota.

Within the state, increases were fairly uniform. Greatest increase was 5 percent in the Red River Valley, and the only area to decline was the northeast, which dropped 8 percent. Increases in all other areas ranged from 3-4 percent.

Average prices per acre by districts were: southeast, $150; southwest $214; west central, $107; east central, $70; northwest $76 and northeast, $12.

The increase in Minnesota was higher than in any other Midwest state except Michigan, which also registered at 4 percent gain. Wisconsin, Illinois and North Dakota all had 3 percent increases, South Dakota had a 2 percent increase and Iowa gained 1 percent.

For the nation as a whole, all states gained except Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico—drought area states—which had 1 percent decline. Greatest increase was 6 percent, in Florida.

No Fatalities Recorded During Past Nine Years

North Central Airlines Thursday was named a winner of the National Safety Council's highest award—the Award of Honor—for a perfect safety record in 1956.

This aviation safety award has been presented to North Central Airlines each year since the company began operations on Feb. 21, 1948. Since that time North Central has flown 30,480,250 plane miles and carried over two million passengers—all without passenger or crew injury or fatality.

North Central is among 36 U. S. airlines receiving the award. The annual presentation goes only to domestic, territorial and overseas carriers that fly scheduled passenger service.

Sugar Import Quotas

In the June 7 issue of the Washington Post, Drew Pearson included in his Washington Merry-Go-Round column a report that reflected no glory on our Congresswoman, Coya Knutson. It had to do with sugar quotas for Carribbean countries, and opened with: "Here is more of the inside story of how dictator Trujillo, sometimes called the Caesar of the Caribbean, got his quota for sugar imports into the United States increased at the expense of American growers."

He pointed out that these increases had been recommended by the State Department, but, being a matter that Congress must decide, the question had been referred to the House Agriculture Committee for action.

"Normally, the Committee hesitates to increase foreign sugar quotas because it hurts American sugar beet and cane growers," Mr. Pearson stated. "But shortly before the vote Trujillo chartered a Pan American Clipper to fly committee members to the Dominican Republic for a royal visit.

"There the Congressmen were Trujillo's guests at the ritzy Hotel Jaragua on the seashore, toured the island in style, stopped at such places as Boca Chica, a fancy seaside resort, and hotel Hamaca, an exclusive beach club hotel. They were wined and dined by everyone from Trujillo down, and whisked around the island in an eighteen-car caravan with police escort."

The report then lists the names of the guests, including Congresswoman Coya Knutson, and concluded:

"These congressmen came back from being royaly entertained by Trujillo and voted a big sugar increase for him. The Dominican Republic sugar quota was almost doubled by Congress last year—which will mean millions in personal profit for the Dominican dictator."

We may assume that Drew Pearson is essentialy correct in what he represents to be the facts. There may be reasonable differences of opinion as to his inference that members of the House Agriculture Committee were unduly influenced by Trujillo's lavish hospitality. But whether Mr. Pearson is right or wrong, the members of this committee owe their constituents an explanation.

Wheat Referendum

In a special referendum Thursday, wheat growers of the nation will decide whether federal acreage controls should be continued on the 1958 crop. If controls are rejected then, according to law, government support prices will have to be reduced substantially.

It would seem that a vote for continued controls would be in the best interests of the growers and that they should be maintained until a more satisfactory solution for the surplus problem has been devised.

Twelve million acres are being taken out of wheat production this year, a big reduction from a 55 million acres allotment. But in spite of this big acreage reduction, this year's crop will be down only three per cent from last year's total, according to present estimates. This is due in part to improved prospects in the drouth areas and also, of course, to larger yields per acre.

Our wheat surplus can therefore be expected to grow, and crop prospects in other wheat producing countries, at the present time, are excellent.

Don't Let It Take Root

President Eisenhower is reported to have expressed the fear that federal aid for schools might become permanent if the program were permitted to "run into a new administration". In order to curb this evil he suggests that appropriations for this purpose be limited to three years.

That is a prize-winner for double talk. We agree that once this aid gets started it will, as have all other aids, become a perennial. From year to year it will become more expansive and more expensive. That is what the educators' lobby hopes for.

The best way to relieve the President of his worries on this score, as we see it, is to kill the noxious weed before it sets root.

Bushel On Way Out?

(Winnipeg Tribune)

The bushel is on its way out. The statistician of the Board of Grain Commissioners, Earl Baxter, told a Saskatoon audience last week it would take about two years to change over to the hundred weight, but he detailed an impressive list of organizations which support the change.

Use of the hundredweight will mean great savings in bookwork. Mr. Baxter said it would be introduced without expensive changes in equipment.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

"A First Step?"

After twelve years of frustration, negotiations for a [illegible] "first step" toward disarmament appear to be entering a serious stage. Although there may be complete failure in the current London disarmament talks, there is at least some hope that the Soviet leaders are becoming somewhat more realistic. Although the Communists have not given up their dream of world domination, they may now realize that a great nuclear war can result only in frightful consequences for themselves as well as the West.

Fall Out

At the same time, a deep and world-wide reaction has set in against the continued testing of large nuclear weapons — which are poisoning the atmosphere and raining we know not what potentially terrible dangers down upon our children and our children's children. In the past two weeks, further grave warnings have come from geneticists and radiation experts, in testimony before the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy of the Congress, that the continued testing of H-bombs may ruin the health of millions of unborn children. I frankly can not agree with the President and the AEC that the overwhelming weight of scientific opinion in the United States reflects an "organized campaign" or conspiracy of some kind. These scientists are deeply concerned, as I am, that we may be irreparably damaging the human race by continuing these Soviet, British, and American tests.

Disarmament Subcommittee

It was the Senate's Disarmament Subcommittee, of which I am privileged to be chairman which first obtained official testimony from scientists regarding the fallout hazards and as Chairman I officially referred the questions raised to the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy and urged further hearings to clear up the conflicting views being expressed to the public. I am pleased that the inquiry has been undertaken. Meanwhile, our 12 member bipartisan Disarmament Subcommittee is preparing its final report after 18 months of intensive study. As Chairman I have suggested a number of areas of the disarmament question which I believed should be explored by the Administration. A few have been ignored, such as my effort to get the Administration to move forward on a mutual ban of the testing of large nuclear weapons. In recent months, however, there has been a growing spirit of cooperation. For example, during the recess of the critical London disarmament discussions, Secretary of State Dulles and Mr. Stassen met with the subcommittee in an earnest discussion of the negotiations before resuming the talks in London. A fine comment on the Subcommittee's work was made in the lead editorial of the June 1 1957 Washington POST:

"We think that in one form or another the work of the Senate Subcommittee on Disarmament ought to be continued. Since its creation nearly two years ago, the Subcommittee under the chairmanship of Sen. Hubert Humphrey has conducted extensive hearings and published some extremely useful studies in the general area of arms control. It has been valuable in broadening the knowledge of its members in both parties. The cost has been insignificant, and the Subcommittee's contributions to greater understanding of the issues ought to be maintained."

Thief River Falls, Minn.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

I reported lastweek on the importance to our state of the increasing use of air travel for business purposes. In addition there is an ever-increasing use of airplanes for personal reasons, much like a family car is used.

Private Flying

Private flying is becoming a big business in Minnesota. Young people and older ones are learning to fly, joining flying clubs, and renting or buying light planes. Fishing trips, shopping, and week-end visits are being made by air—often at less expense than if by car.

Most resort towns and good fishing lakes in Minnesota are near airports. Most lakes without airports are accessible by seaplane. A Chicago man can leave by air on Friday, and spend Friday evening and all day Saturday and Sunday fishing walleyes in Minnesota. Fly-In Breakfast and Aviation Day—such as will soon be held in Hibbing, Winona, Montevideo—has become a regular community event attracting summer visitors.

Private Fields

Most private planes are operated from the 118 commercial and municipal airports licensed for public use by the state. But quite a few are based at the 300 private landing fields, which are largely farm owned. The Department of Aeronautics is trying to get such private fields listed on official aeronautical charts so they can be found and used as emergency fields.

Flying Farmers

The farmers of Minnesota make varied use of light aircraft. To those who own a private plane, it is a piece of farm equipment for inspecting the range, going to town to get spare parts, or spraying or dusting a field. The Federal Government reports that the use of aircraft has added $3 billion annually to farm income in the U. S.

Each year about half a million acres of Minnesota farmland are sprayed for insect and weed control, by pilots licensed by the Department of Aeronautics. Licensing requirements include proficiency standards, use of a hard hat, use of shoulder harness.

The Department of Aeronautics does an excellent job of accident investigation and law enforcement. The few 1956 fatal accidents in civil aircraft were caused by pilots flying into bad weather which they knew they should avoid, or by careless acrobatic flying. No accidents were caused by mechanical failure.

To make flying safer and more dependable, Minnesota has and operates a system of radio aids to navigation. These are called TVORs and are located on the airports at Austin, Bemidji, Brainerd, Eveleth-Virginia, St. Cloud, and Winona.

As soon as the Department of Aeronautics recognizes sufficient improvement in the maintenance of these stations, six more will be installed, at: Grand Rapids, Mankato, Park Rapids, Thief River Falls, Willmar, and Worthington.

This is an excellent program which has been pioneered by Minnesota, where it has been established that it must be and can be done right, not in any haphazard fashion; accuracy and reliability are important and have been established in Minnesota's operation.

Aviation is a field that is really growing in our state, and one in which our state government is trying to meet all its responsibilities for service to the people.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

"Stay in the Yard, Tom"

Summer brings with its warm weather and long days a problem for the parents of young children—how to keep them in their own backyards. Summer brings out the wanderlust and busy mothers must be forever on the watch when youngsters are at play. The value of outdoor play to the proper development of children is widely recognized but many children stay indoors much of the time that could be spent playing outside simply because there seems no way to keep them safely and happily at play near home.

Tom, who will soon be four, is just such a problem. Big enough physically to roam far afield, curious enough to want to, energetic enough to have to keep busy, and distractible enough soon to forget mother's instructions. Tom stays in the yard best when his yard has much to offer.

Taking a few ideas from the nursery school or playground, Tom's folks can create a backyard which can compete successfully for Tom's attention. With safety and versatility always considered, Tom's play area will have mostly "raw materials," equipment which can be used in many ways, wherever his imagination takes Tom: Old packing boxes used with wooden steps, planks (cleated) and ladders, a platform built around a tree trunk with steps or ladder and railing; a set of low steps leading up to an incline gives Tom a replica of the old cellar doors. To Tom's ordinary swing may be added a rope ladder, knotted ropes for climbing, rings, or even a length of log hanging low, and many new ideas emerge.

Such cast-offs as pieces of hollow culvert tile, barrels and barrel rings, coils of smooth wire, bricks, hollow pipe, tree stumps or fallen logs, all create wonderlands for small boys and girls.

For the parents who resist having "junk" clutter up the backyard, the same lumber yards which provide treasures for play, also provide nice fences to conceal much of this fun space from neighbors or passers-by who might not be so sympathetic with the problem of keeping Tom in the yard—and learning.

DODGE outpulls "other two" low-priced trucks!

CERTIFIED PHOTO. Dodge provides 1950 lbs. pull (3 x 650 gauge reading).

Here's the scientific way to measure the actual pulling power a truck can deliver to its rear wheels. All three low-priced trucks were hooked up, one by one, to a special dynamometer truck. Each was comparably equipped and test-loaded.

CERTIFIED PHOTO. Truck "C" exerts 1443 lbs. pull (3 x 481 gauge reading).

Super-sensitive gauges inside the dynamometer truck register the maximum pull of each truck at 10 m.p.h. Insets in photos above show actual gauge readings in each case. To convert these readings into pounds, simply multiply them by three.

CERTIFIED PHOTO. Truck "F" gives you 1440 lbs. pull (3 x 480 gauge reading).

The results are conclusive evidence that Dodge Power Giants give you a third more pulling power than either of the "other two" low-priced makes. And this is just one of a series of tests that prove Dodge is the best truck of the low-priced three.

● Your Dodge truck dealer has proof that Dodge leads in many ways. Come in . . . see other certified test-photo sequences . . . and take a demonstration ride!

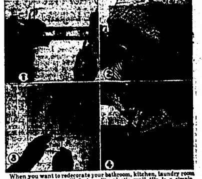
How to Redecorate with Plastic Wall Tile



When you want to redecorate your bathroom, kitchen, laundry room or dining area, you will find quality plastic wall tile is a simple, easy-to-install wall covering that will add to the beauty of your home. There are only four basic installation steps as shown here.

First—measure the room and draw in your guide lines. Your plastic wall tile dealer will be glad to give you the exact instructions for your own room.

Second—apply quality plastic wall tile mastic that bears the seal of quality, indicating it has been manufactured under the provisions of the United States Bureau of Standards CS 168-50. This mastic is applied with an inexpensive ¼" notched trowel. You can either buy or borrow one of these from your tile dealer. After the mastic has set for the few minutes specified by the manufacturer, you are ready for the next step.

Apply straight even lines of plastic wall tile following the guide lines you drew in the first step. If you use good quality plastic wall tile made under the Standards of CS 168-50, you will find the edges are straight and even, with no warpage. This will allow you to install absolutely straight, even lines.

The fourth step is cutting the tile with a coping saw or with a cutter that you can either borrow or rent from your dealer. Quality plastic wall tile is easy to cut for fitting into corners and around plumbing fixtures. If you use quality plastic wall tile and mastic made under the United States Bureau of Standards CS 168-50, you will assure yourself of getting material that is first quality. Plastic wall tile made under these specifications will not crack, craze, or chip. It's colored throughout, cuts easily for fitting and will give your family a colorful, beautiful reason to be proud of the wall you tiled.

You will find that your plastic wall tile dealer will be most cooperative in giving you specific instructions concerning the materials you are using and the room you are redecorating.

MOTHER NATURE IN PLAYFUL MOOD

Warren has an albino mouse. Obviously frightened by a "schmoo" a Little Falls hen produced a calabash egg. . . . Spring cultivators turned up two missing wallets—one near Roseau containing $10 and some odds and ends missing not quite a year; another near Moorhead lost two years, containing a five and five ones which were nearly disintegrated. . . . A company-loving robin chose a light fixture at the busy entrance of the Pipestone postoffice for a cozy nest; another is atop the raised cutter blade of a mower that Western Implement will not sell, in Worthington, until the family leaves; a third, obviously with a loose foot, was nesting undisturbed on the ledge of a Milwaukee boxcar hauled into Mankato.

Children's Flag Day Observance Held Indoors

Flag Day observances were held in conjunction with closing of vacation Bible school at St. John's Lutheran Church Friday with rain forcing the ceremonies to be held in the church instead of the lawn as had been planned. Several other Flag Day ceremonies scheduled in the city Friday suffered a similar fate.

Here a small portion of the vacation school students pledge allegiance to the flag as Wayne Zitzow acts as flagbearer. About 75 children took part in the ceremony.

Korean bonus application forms are expected to be ready for distribution by August 15, Lyle Kinvig, commissioner of veterans affairs, announced this week.

In making the announcement, Kinvig urged eligible veterans to:

File applications as early as possible, since bonus payments, scheduled to begin January 1, 1959, will be made on a first-come-first-served basis.

Locate original discharge so that you are ready to furnish a certified copy which will remain with the bonus application.

Kinvig said application forms will be distributed through the 87 county veterans service officers and through veterans' organizations. Service officers will be called to St. Paul for a one-day training school, when the application forms are ready.

Clay County First to Vote Funds for State Centennial

Clay county is the first in Minnesota to allocate funds to lay groundwork for their participation in Minnesota Centennial celebrations next year.

Meeting at Moorhead, Minnesota, Clay county's board of commissioners provided $3,000 from the county general revenue fund to start centennial preparations in 1957.

Glen E. Johnson, Clay County Centennial committee chairman, submitted a budget to the commissioners recommending a county expenditure of $12,082 over the next two years.

The state legislature this year authorized counties to levy taxes up to 1-mill for county centennial celebrations. Clay county's 1-mill rate would raise slightly more than $17,000.

A large number of county activities during the statewide observance, ranging from selection of a queen to construction of oxcarts, was included in the budget.

Brown Swiss Cow from Minnesota Sets U. S. Record

A ten-year-old Brown Swiss cow, bred on a farm at LaCrescent, Minn., and now owned by a Titusville, New Jersey, dairyman, recently finished a production record that set a record never equaled by a cow of any breed in a 365-day lactation.

She produced a total of 31,166.6 pounds of milk testing 4.96 per cent, or 1,544.75 pounds of butterfat, on a three-times daily milking, according to the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders association of Beloit, Wisconsin.

The record surpasses the one formerly held by an Illinois Holstein cow by 21.75 pounds of butterfat.

Better Practices Aid Legume Seed

Honey Bees, Fertilizer and Insecticide Needed

Honey bees, fertilizer and insecticides—those are the ingredients needed to spell success in legume seed production.

That's the conclusion of a group of University of Minnesota scientists after years of experimental field work in northern Minnesota. This research is reported in the current issue of "Minnesota Farm and Home Science," a University publication. Making the report are F. G. Holdaway, A. G. Peterson, K. W. Tucker and B. A. Haws, entomologists, and P. M. Burson and H. W. Kramer, soils research men.

They have found that poor pollination, lack of phosphate and potash nutrients in the soil and harmful insects have been responsible for low seed yields in alsike clover, red clover, alfalfa and sweetclover — Minnesota's main forage legume seed crops.

In carefully controled field trials, the scientists compared different honey bee stocking rates, fertilizer treatments and insect control with no control, no bees and no fertilizer.

Wild bees, they concluded, couldn't be depended upon for pollinating the crop. So it's necessary to stock the fields with honey bees.

With alsike Clover, for example, where there were no honey bees for pollination, no insect control and no fertilizer used, yields averaged 15-20 pounds per acre. But with honey bees nearby, 1,000 pounds of a phosphate-potash fertilizer added and 1½-2 pounds of DDT sprayed on each acre, alsike yields went up to 800 pounds per acre.

Results were similar in other seed crops. Sweetclover averaged 6 pounds per acre when none of the three practices was used. Pollinated sweetclover that received no fertilizer or insect control yielded 1078 pounds per acre and where all three practices were followed, yield was 1438 pounds from each acre.

The experimental yields were far above state averages. Yields for Minnesota as a whole for these crops, based on 1942-51 figures, averaged as follows: alsike, 114 pounds per acre; red clover 59 pounds; alfalfa, 49 and sweetclover, 180 pounds per acre.

Demand for home heating oils during a cold winter may exceed that of a warm season by as much as 125 million barrels. But the nation's reliable fuel oil dealers are prepared to keep 8 million homes comfortable—and safe regardless of the weather.

Novel Attraction, Quizzorama, to Be Held Opening Night

Appearance last week of premium lists reminded local citizens that the 56th annual Pennington county fair is just around the corner—in fact, only 11 days remain until Monday, July 1, the opening day of the four-day event. Secretary J. M. Roche stated that Monday will be entry day for exhibits, and that Tuesday will be observed as Kiddies Day, with special low prices available on midway carnival attractions.

Heads of the various departments of the fair appealed to area residents to enter exhibits in competition for the more than $1,800 in prize money offered. Superintendents include Albert Kopp, livestock; C. H. Toomey, agriculture; Mrs. Millard Peterson, culinary; Mrs. J. A. Wassgren, fancy needlework; Mrs. Julius Hendrickson, practical department; Miss Geneva Overum, flowers; Mrs. George Biddick, art; Mrs. A. C. Matheson, rural schools; and County Agent Paul Steinlaschuk, 4-H department.

At a meeting of the fair board Tuesday evening, final arrangements were completed for a novel offering in front of the grandstand Monday night, July 1. With Harrison Nelson of Marlo Shows Productions serving as master of ceremonies, a Quizzorama, or question-and-answer show will be presented, and $300 in silver dollars will be awarded in prizes to persons in the audience.

As added features of the Monday night show, there will be songs by the Schmidt sisters of St. Paul, who recently appeared on Arthur Godfrey's TV show. The girl to be selected next week as Miss Thief River Falls also will be presented to the audience.

Highlighting the show in front of the grandstand July 2, 3 and 4, to be presented by Marlo Productions, will be a group of 16 attractive dancing girls in handsome costumes, who will perform a series of precision dances.

Circus and vaudeville acts to be presented in connection with the revue include Paul Dana, gifted master of ceremonies, the Cycling Kirks in a bicycle and unicycle act; Jimmy Wright, banjo artist; Ala Ming, thrilling balancing act; Fred Ketch, comedian; Teddy Qualls, talented tap dancer; and George and Peter Bauer, balancing and acrobatic act.

Secretary Roche announced that during the past week the newly purchased steel bleachers were installed, giving the grandstand capacity of 2,000 persons.

Nearly 100 at Public Hearing on Street Jobs

Hearing Continued Until This Evening by the City Council

One of the largest groups of local residents ever to attend a public hearing in Thief River Falls, numbering nearly 100 persons, crowded into the council chamber Tuesday evening to attend the scheduled hearing on the projected east side street improvement project.

After listening to comments both in favor of and opposed to the work, the council after two hours adjourned the hearing until this evening at 9 o'clock when, it was indicated, definite action may be taken to initiate the project.

Hugh Carlson, chairman of the street advisory committee which recommended the work, and City Engineer Douglas Stewart spoke briefly. Stewart said that the committee had decided that a temporary type of street surfacing was not satisfactory, and that it therefore proposed a permanent type with a stabilized gravel base and two-inch asphalt surface.

Also recommended was the installation of curb and gutter where needed in connection with the surfacing work. Stewart added that, unlike most other areas in the city, those affected by the present project are not faced with a storm sewer project.

Mayor O. D. Beich called attention to the acute need for street improvements in this city, and said that the projected work is only the start of what it is hoped may develop into a continuing long-term program.

Bill LaFave, living on Taft st. in the affected area, commended the committee for an excellent job, and urged public support for a long-range program. His sentiments were endorsed by Dr. Ralph Helm, who said he and 15 of his neighbors on South Kneale av. are in favor of the work. Dale Iverson, living on Maple av. S., added that he and his neighbors support the work on their street.

When opponents of the proposed work were asked to express themselves, eight or ten persons voiced opposition to various phases of the program, the projected area assessment in the Taft st. area apparently drawing most of the criticism.

Two petitions, each bearing a half-dozen names of affected property owners, were submitted objecting to surfacing Maple av. from Mussey to Third sts. and Spruce av. from First st. to Highway 59.

Council Sets Sale of Bonds for July 23rd

Union Requests Fact-finding in Chris Kierk Case

In addition to conducting a hearing on the projected street improvement program reported elsewhere on this page, the city council at its regular June session Tuesday evening adopted a resolution to sell $185,000 power plant revenue bonds to finance additions to plant facilities, the sale to be conducted July 23 at 7:30. The bonds will be retired serially over a 20-year period.

At the same time the council engaged the services of T. G. Evenson and associates, Minneapolis bond consultants, to serve in an advisory capacity in connection with the sale.

A letter was read from Thomas D. Kachelmacher of Minneapolis, attorney for the union representing city employes here, requesting that a fact-finding board be created to consider the recent action of the city council in dispensing with the services of Chris Kierk, former airport manager.

The letter stated that Mrs. Agnes Israelson had been named as the union representative on the board, and asked that the council to name its representative, the two appointees to name a third neutral member.

City Attorney Robert A. Wurst said that the request for a hearing must be supported by more than one-half of the affected workers, and he was instructed to consult the union on this point.

Hugh Carlson, chairman of the street advisory committee, and City Engineer Douglas Stewart submitted a plat showing a tentative selection of streets proposed for designation as state aid streets under the new highway fund distribution system. The plan is subject to later revision. The council approved its submission to the state highway department.

Adopted by the council was a resolution authorizing the completion of the purchase of the J. J. Weeks residence property adjoining Tindolph park at a cost of $3270.23. The deal had been pending since 1950.

The ordinance incorporating into the city Magnuson's addition, west of Radio Station KTRF, was given its third and final reading and adopted.

Building permits calling for an aggregated estimated outlay of about $14,000 were approved, the largest of the six projects being a new dwelling to be built by Richard Hruby at 1310 Arnold av. N.

Also approved was the request of the merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce for permission to use downtown sidewalks in a street fair sales promotion scheduled for July 18, 19 and 20.

N. W. Development Group Hears Commr. James Clark Monday

More than 25 members of the board of directors and other interested persons attended the monthly meeting of the Northwestern Minnesota Development association Monday evening in the Rex Cafe, and heard an address by James W. Clark, commissioner of the Minnesota department of business research and development. Eight of the nine counties affiliated with the agency were represented.

Glenn Mattson of Fosston, president of the group, who presided, introduced legislators present, including Senator Roy E. Wiseth, Goodridge; and Reps. Ben Wichterman, Plummer; Leland Affell, Fosston; Richard Fitzsimons, Argyle; and Everett Battles, Warroad. Each of the officials spoke briefly.

Clark pointed out the need for a constant expanding economy to provide employment for the new crop of 50,000 Minnesota young people who enter the labor market each year. He stated that $30 billion was spent in the nation on industrial expansion in 1956, and that a still larger investment is being made in 1957.

Clark said that home-grown industry is best for a community, and that it should be given all possible local support. This area, he added, possess the advantages of high quality people and fertile soil.

In the course of a question and answer period that followed his talk, Clark said he saw no good reason why the Northwest Development association, if given proper support by home people, should not be able to sign up a thousand members at $10 each and thus raise $10,000 to promote industry in the area.

INVITING INVITATIONS

When the bride and her mother have completed their invitation and announcement lists they should go to a stationer and settle on a style from his samples of engraving. And remember to allow him plenty of time to deliver.

The Navy ordered its first airplane in 1911 at a cost of $5,500 and could fly "at least forty-five miles an hour."

CLEAN-UP SHOWER

Why not fill a galvanized steel pail with cleaning supplies—scrub brushes, sponges, steel wool, scouring pads, cleanser, dust cloths, soap flakes, mops, squeegees, bottles of polish and wax. It's not an elegant gift, but its practicality will endear it to the bride. If the girls are feeling extra flush, several could go together and buy a vacuum cleaner or floor waxer.

MISCELLANEOUS

This is the easiest, but not always the most satisfactory kind of shower to give. It usually turns out to be a hodge-podge, if left to the undirected whimsies of the guests, and not always a useful hodge-podge at that.

One way to give a miscellaneous shower a sort of central theme is to put an ordinary steel sprinkling can work. Hang it above the table holding the gifts. Fasten brightly colored ribbons up to the spout of the tilted can. The can itself may be festooned with flowers and ribbons to provide a gay atmosphere.

158 Mishaps, 2 Deaths in Pennington in '56

Only five Minnesota counties ended the year 1956 without a traffic fatality; while seven others registered only one traffic fatality within their borders.

The death-free counties were Aitkin, Cook, Kanabec, Lake of the Woods, and Rock. Those with the Woods, and Rck. Those with one fatality were Chippewa, Jackson, Nicollet, Pipestone, Roseau, Traverse and Yellow Medicine.

A total of 158 accidents was reported in Pennington county in 1956, with two mishaps resulting in one death each, while 49 persons were injured and property damage resulted in 125 cases. Both fatal accidents occurred on rural roads. Twenty of the 158 mishaps occurred on rural trunk highways, 22 on other rural roads, 37 on urban trunk highways and 79 on Thief River Falls streets.

Marshall county recorded 108 accidents, resulting in three deaths, two of them on rural roads and one on a rural trunk highway. A total of 52 persons suffered injuries.

The listings were included in a special tabulation released today by the Minnesota highway department covering the number and severity of reported Minnesota motor vehicle traffic accidents by county and location for the entire year 1956.

The report showed there were 547 fatal traffic accidents during 1956 which caused the death of 639 persons. Of these, 260 accidents were on rural trunk highways, 176 on other rural roads; while 72 occurred on urban trunk highways and 74 on other streets.

Total accidents reported to the Minnesota highway department were 55,435 which were divided as follows:

Rural trunk highways	9,319
Other rural roads	5,773
Urban trunk highways	15,662
Other urban roads	21,651

One fact gleaned from the figures was that while the greatest percentage of reportable accidents happen within incorporated areas, a much greater proportion of fatal accidents occur in rural areas where high speeds increase the severity of mishaps.

In addition to being death free, Lake of the Woods county also reported the fewest number of accidents. Only 23 were included in the tabulation. In seven of these, eleven persons were injured; while only property damage resulted from the remaining 16.

The next low county was Lincoln, having 11 accidents with 18 persons injured. Four others reported 13 personal injury accidents each: Kitson with 23 injured; Mahnomen with 27 injured; Murray with 22 injured and Red Lake with 24 injured.

Due to the illness of the resident bishop, the presiding officer of the conference was Bishop Voights of the Dakota area.

EVIDENCE MISFILED

By Don Wood

BOB GREEN, Colman County's brand-new prosecutor, shuffled his notes as the judge rapped his gavel.

The buzz of interest behind him in the spectator gallery said more clearly than he cared to admit that the county was interested in how their new public lawyer would conduct himself.

He was on a spot. His first case. It was not every day that a young lawyer was called upon to prosecute his fiance.

At the defendant's desk sat Ellen Barker, her eyes turned away. Bob wished he could only talk to her a moment. It had been this way ever since that day, two weeks ago, when Ellen had been charged with tampering with the court file on an important case.

Bob called his first witness. The aging court house janitor, Ed Jenkins, took the stand reluctantly. Obviously he did not want to testify against Ellen. Slowly he told what he knew of the day in question.

Ellen had been seen carrying a brown manila folder from the county clerk's office, Jenkins said. He remembered the incident because Ellen, as was her custom, had stopped to chat with Ed at the door as she left.

Next came the county clerk, who told that on the following morning the court file had been found missing. Only Ellen, he said, had the authority to touch those files. Since the case was an important jury action, the county clerk had felt compelled to take action against his clerk. The witness told of the way the court records were filed; brown folders for the criminal cases, and green folders for the civil suits.

Bob stared at the cracking green walls about him as the buzz from the spectator gallery soaked through his mind. Obviously he was one of the few persons in the room who believed Ellen innocent.

He tried to relive the day in question. He and Ellen had planned a dinner date. At the last moment he had been detained from meeting her at the court house door, and had cancelled the evening's plans. How he wished he had kept that date! As it was, he could not say that Ellen had not carried the file from the building.

The county clerk was above reproach. Ed Jenkins was one of Ellen's best friends. Often he planned his cleaning to be near her in the vault. Old Ed was most helpful. When he had moved in as new prosecutor two months before, Ed had offered to repaint the shelving. The colors had not matched, but Bob had not felt up to saying anything about it to the old man . . .

"Your Honor, I would like to request a fifteen minute recess." Bob jumped to his feet as if struck by an axe.

"Your Honor, the prosecution recalls Ed Jenkins to the stand."

Ed slowly stepped up to be sworn in.

"Mr. Jenkins, what color are the walls in this court room?"

"Well, I guess they are green."

"Mr. Jenkins, are you not color blind?"

Old Ed admitted that he was.

"Then, how do you know that Miss Barker carried a BROWN folder from this building two weeks ago?"

"Well, I guess I don't know that it was brown, but it looked just like the missing folder to me."

Bob could feel Ellen's eyes stare as he produced the missing file.

"Your Honor, here is the missing file. It was filed in the green file cabinet, under the same number as that in the brown. Had Miss Barker been allowed to search the room she would have found it herself."

The judge looked at Ellen. "I think we owe you an apology, young lady. And if you and the prosecutor will meet me in my study . . . alone" . . . there was a twinkle in the judge's eyes. "Case dismissed."

Turkey Plentiful Food During July

Record Quantity Due to Be Marketed Next Month

July's list of plentiful foods reads like a menu for a banquet, with turkey and ice cream as the two featured items, reports the county extension office.

Turkey raisers will send more turkeys to market in July than ever before, and have designated the last week of the month as summer turkey time. Ice cream is prominent on the list of plentiful foods issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture because the supply of milk is so large and ice cream is such a favorite dessert during hot weather.

Food shoppers can expect to find an abundance of all other dairy products as well. Eggs, which have been an outstanding low-priced item for several months, will continue to be plentiful during July.

Summer will bring an abundance of home grown fresh vegetables of many different kinds. Among the fruits will be peaches from the Carolinas, lemons and limes from Florida and California, home grown strawberries and frozen strawberries.

For summer's light meals and snacks, there will continue to be an abundance of peanuts and peanut butter and of vegetable fats and oils.

Fresh water fish, from inland rivers and lakes, will be abundant, supplemented by frozen halibut and salmon.

Elks Lodge Meets Thursday, June 27

Secretary Ole Engelstad of the local Elks lodge stated today that the June meeting of the lodge will be held next Thursday night, June 27, instead of tonight, which a recently mailed postal card notice erroneously gave as the date of the meeting.

An old superstition called for bathing the eyes with the first snow to fall in March in order to insure clear sight.

Name of Northern State Left out of Dairy Day Donors

Due to an oversight, the name of the Northern State bank, a regular and generous contributor to Northwest Dairy Day, was inadvertently omitted from the list of donors included in this year's Dairy Day program. Regret concerning the omission was voiced by J. M. Roche, secretary of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of the event.

Warmer Weather Prevails in Area

Brief Hailstorm Here Wednesday Afternoon

There's one thing about Pennington county weather these days—plenty of variety, if nothing else, contrasted to last week, when practically all the weather was dull grey and gloomy.

Temperatures have been somewhat [illegible] week, too, with the mercury hitting 79 Wednesday for the high of the period since Monday. Other temperatures were 74 Monday and 66 Tuesday. Lows ranged from 49 to 55. Most outstanding feature of the period has been high humidity.

Moisture was plentiful every day since Monday with .25 inch falling that day, .07 Tuesday, and .30 inch during Wednesday afternoon thunder and hail storms, making the total through June 20, [illegible] inches.

The Thursday forecast from KTRF sounds as if we're in for more of the same. It will be partly cloudy today, tonight and tomorrow with scattered showers or thunderstorms, mostly in the late afternoon or evening.

Little temperature change is expected in the area except it maybe a little cooler in extreme northern Minnesota tonight. Winds will be light variable and moderate humidity will prevail.

Some funnel clouds were seen in the Barnesville, Fergus Falls and Fargo-Moorhead areas last night in connection with the thunderstorm activity and area residents could well remain on the lookout for them in our area in the event of thunderstorms tonight. No tornado damage was reported in the areas mentioned, however.

Grand Plain Man Rotates Crops & Gets Good Yields

Lawrence Nelson who farms in section 33 in Grand Plain township has been getting good crop yields over the past several years, reports Erling Wiberg, Marshall county agent.

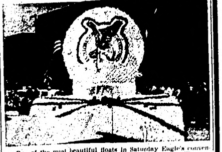
Through the cooperation of the Marshall-Beltrami soil conservation district, he has developed a regular crop rotation, drainage and fertilization program which fits his farming needs and soil type.

Nelson farms a wheat, oats or barley, flax, hay, hay rotation. With two years in five in a grass-legume crop he finds that the soil stays in good shape. The fields maintain a good organic matter content and also develop good internal drainage so water can soak down through the small holes punched by the alfalfa roots.

Generally, Nelson uses 100 lbs. of 0-30-15 fertilizer on his land each year as he finds it lacks in phosphate and also needs some potash.

Last year, despite extra rains, his spring wheat averaged 49 bushels per acre, with an average of around 20 bushels on his flax.

Eagles Show Beautiful Float



One of the most beautiful floats in Saturday Eagle's convention parade was this unit featured by the Eagles aerie. The parade, one of the longest in the city's history, included numerous floats such as this one, along with marching groups, bands, commercial pieces and clown groups. The pretty girl atop the float is unidentified.

Air Reserve Unit May Become Paid Group

Thief River Falls' Flight E, 9749th Air Reserve squadron stands an excellent chance of becoming an all-paid reserve unit during the next fiscal year, Lt. Col. Michael Pelnovich, 9749th commander from Fargo, N. D., told Flight E members at their regular Monday meeting.

Col. Pelnovich said Flight E belonged to members of the unit and that the success or failure of the flight depends solely on their participation in reserve activities. He told the members present at the meeting Flight E has an outstanding record since its beginning in February and that he hopes it will continue to grow and be more active.

He also encouraged members of the flight to conduct an extensive recruiting campaign during the summer vacation months so that when the first semester of fiscal 1957 begins Flight E will be ready to start a paid specialized reserve training program for which all members of the flight eligible under the new Air Force match-merge program would receive pay for attending.

Col. Pelnovich's visit here was his first, although visits by squadron staff members are now regularly scheduled so that some staff member is present at nearly every meeting held.

Plans for the next semester were discussed at last Monday's meeting and further planning will take place at the last meeting of the [illegible] to be held next Monday in the city auditorium. One suggestion made was that Flight E become a marching unit for local parades, which suggestion met with good reception from the members.

All members of the Air Force reserve (recently discharged Air Force men) whether affiliated with Flight E or not are urged to attend next Monday's meeting. Several such persons are in the city and they were reminded by V. M. Draper, Flight commander, this week that, although they are reservists they do not get credit unless they actively participate in a unit.

Draper also emphasized that membership in Flight E is not restricted to former Air Force men. Former members of all the services are eligible, provided they can meet qualifications and pass a grade determination test. Each man passing the test would be given the rank of Airman 1 c or better, depending on his score in the test.

Those qualifying would be issued uniforms and get a day's pay per meeting for attending the specified number of meetings each year, under the specialized training program.

Flight E holds regularly scheduled meetings in the downstairs meeting room of the city auditorium after next week's meeting no more will be held until the second Monday in September. All interested area reservists and current members of Flight E are requested to attend this last meeting and be on time when the meeting opens at 8:30 p.m.

Driver Penalized in Accident Case

Local Resident Fined Total of $150 Wednesday

A local man, Elling Jarshaw, is in police custody today after his pleading guilty and being sentenced in traffic court Wednesday on three traffic violation charges, which were the aftermath of an accident in which Jarshaw was involved Tuesday.

The car driven by Jarshaw hit the one driven by Walter W. Hearting, city, who was waiting for traffic to clear on Main av. at 4th st. causing an estimated $95 damage to the driver's side of the Hearting car. The Jarshaw car had an estimated $35 damage.

Following the accident Jarshaw was arrested and charged with driving under the influence, driving without a drivers license and leaving the scene of an accident.

Following his guilty plea Jarshaw drew sentences of $100 plus $5 costs or 60 days on the driving under the influence charge; $25 plus $4 costs or 25 days for driving without a license, and the same sentence was given him for leaving the scene of the accident.

The only other accident reported by law enforcement officers in the city was one in which about $30 damage was sustained to the rear of a car driven by Lawrence M. Norman, city, when another car driven by Verne Nelson, Plummer hit it, as both cars were leaving the 59-Hi Drive-in theater. No damage was done to the Nelson car and no charges were reported by the police.

Jan Finstad took the part of the Minister.

Dairy Returns

A Steele county farmer, Don Henry, reports dramatic results with a ration-a-day system for his dairy herd. The total carry-ability of the same pasture and its hay yield are three times higher with the system.

On Henry's 26 acre pasture, under a rotation system in 1954, he carried 27 cows. In 1955, in a ration-a-day setup, Henry carried 30 cows all last summer.

Other comparisons are equally startling. In 1954, Henry harvested 100 tons of silage and 750 bales of hay.

In 1954, he had pasture by June 1—but in 1955 he had pasture 10 days earlier, on May 20.

In 1954, he had to feed extra silage to the 27 cows on pasture—and had to go into extra pasture in September. But in 1955, he didn't have to feed any silage—and didn't need to go into extra pasture until October, a month later than the year before.

In 1954, he fed from six to eight pounds of grain per cow per day. In 1955, he fed only half as much.

You'd be startled, too, by his total extra cost of using the ration-a-day system: 15 minutes' a day labor in moving electric fences—his boy did the job. Cost of materials: About $2 for two electric fence connectors.

Tons Of Hay Per Acre

How much hay can you harvest from each acre of forage on your farm?

Here's a way to find out—whether you're selling standing hay or simply trying to figure the necessary storage space for the crop:

Use a hand sickle, an empty feed sack, a milk scale and a yard-square frame, which can be made from a 9-foot length of steel rod, bent into a U-shape, one-yard square. Cut each square at normal mowing level and put the green hay in the sack.

After the squares are cut and sacked, weigh the whole sample. To determine the tonnage per acre of dry hay for the cutting, divide the weight in pounds by 10. That gives you the estimated number of tons of dry hay per acre from the field. For example, if the sample weighs 9 pounds, you can expect 9 tons per acre for that cutting.

This formula is figured to estimate yield of hay containing about 25 percent moisture, which is close to the average of field dried hay.

Don't sample immediately after a heavy rain or when a heavy dew is on the field. And set the milk scale to eliminate the sack weight. To figure the weight of hay silage, multiply the yield of dry hay by 3.

Grasshoppers

An early check on grasshoppers may pay off. Check in early summer for concentrations of small hoppers along roadsides, fence rows, ditch banks and field margins. As foliage dries up or as the hay crop is harvested, they may move into adjoining crop land. Where over an average of 10 or more hoppers per square yard (one or more per square foot) is noted, damage can be serious and spraying will pay.

Grasshopper Control

Weed sprayers equipped with fan-type nozzles can be used on roadsides, fence rows, ditch banks or for barrier strips along margins of crop fields. Barrier treatment is more effective against immature 'hoppers than against winged adults. If alfalfa is being severely damaged, the crop may be cut prematurely, leaving uncut strips in the field. Grasshoppers will concentrate in such strips within 2 or 3 days, and may then be controlled by spraying. For treating an entire field, boon type ground sprayers or areial sprayers are most effective.

The following chemicals may be used for hopper control aldrin, 2-3 oz.; heptachlor, 2-3 oz.; dieldrin, 1-2 oz.; toxaphine, 1-1½ lbs.

After applying the chemical don't use the hay were livestock or milk will be sold for seven days after heptachlor, 15 days after aldrin, 30 days after dieldrin, 40 days after toxaphene.

Fast Pork

H. E. Loggans who farms just south of the airport in Rocksbury township has entered a sow production record keeping. To qualify for this record the sow and the young pigs have to meet certain definite requirements.

The litter is nominated for production record keeping five days after farrowing. The litter is weighed at 56 days with adjustments made if the litter is weighed earlier or later.

A sow is required to produce a litter which weighes 325 pounds at 56. A gilt must produce a litter which weighs 275 pounds. Both sow and gilt must wean at least 8 pigs.

H. E. Loggans who is a Duroc Jersey breeder had his hogs weighed June 11. We found that his litter of nine weighed 414 pounds. The heaviest porker weighed in at 55 pounds. Since the litter was 57 days old it was nearly a pound a day in the first two months. The 414 is a good margin over the required 325 pounds. As pigs get older they gain more pork per day because they consume more feed. Over four hundred pounds of pork for the first eight weeks is fast pork.

Plastic Silos Are O.K.

Plastic silos work best when used with a "form".

Recent research conducted at the University of Minnesota by Agronomist Rodney Briggs shows plastic bags work well for storing corn or grass silage.

But it's important to use them correctly. The most effective system in 1956 studies for corn silage was to construct a conventional snow-fence silo and then cover it with polyvinly plastic.

For grass silage, the best was to make a non-supported stack but to use one length of snow fence for forming. As the stack was filled, the snow fence was pulled up and taken out entirely after the stack was completed, leaving well-formed walls on the stack. Then the bag was pulled up and tied at the top of the stack, making a bag silo.

Then plastic bag silos were used without forms, it wasn't possible to pack the silage as well within the bags. Also, unformed bags didn't hold their shapes well.

In general, the plastic film makes effective air barrier for any kind of silage, which is necessary to make good silage.

Minnesota studies with plastic bag silos have been conducted at the North Central School and Experiment Station at Grand Rapids, on the St. Paul Campus, at the Rosemount Agricultural Experiment Station and at the Southern School and Ex. Station, Waseca.

Grain Bins Need Cleanup

Insects and rodents may ruin a large portion of your 1957 crop unless you make a determined defense against them.

Repair old bins, clean them up and treat them with an insecticide before the combines start to roll.

Look for holes in the bins and cover them so that rats and mice can't get in the grain.

Sweep out all old grain and feed from cracks, corners and crevices. If you have an air compressor around the farm, blow cracks clean with the air hose. It's possible to clean the dust out with a vacum cleaner.

Use a commercial grain fumigant on all hold-over grain. Keep non-fumigated grain separate from the new crop.

Spray the storage bins with DDT and methoxychlor. Mix 1 pound of wettable powder—of either chemical—2½ gallons of water, or use 2 quarts of 25 per cent concentrate emulsion in 2½ gallons of water. Use 2 gallons of spray mixture per 1000 square feet and make sure the spray gets in cracks and crevices where insects or grain particles may be lodged.

HATCH AS HATCH CAN

By Don Wood

JIM BAGSBY shoved his fists deep into his coat pockets as he forced himself to climb the Colman County court house steps.

Hat jammed tight against the March wind, he told a passing sparrow, "If I never see another chicken it will be too soon."

Chickens and women, he glumly opined, made life frustrating. He made a mental note to leave full instructions for his successor before offering his resignation to the county supervisors.

Six weeks ago he had been a different man. His re-election as county Prosecuting Attorney had seemed assured.

That was before his secretary, who was to have soon been Mrs. Jim Bagsby, had attended a farm auction and had purchased a Rhode Island Red hen.

Installing the hen in the court house attic as a temporary measure had been Ellen's idea, he remembered. The arrival of six fluffy chicks some time later had been the hen's. He had stormed at the whole episode. It was downright unconstitutional. Ellen had been firm. Her ring, now resting in his pocket close to his fist, showed just how firm she had been.

"I won't let you move a mother at a time like this," she had said.

Some chickens might be discreet under these circumstances, Jim told himself savagely. Not Henrietta. She had gleefully clucked out her motherhood to the world. Ellen had aided and abetted the noise by rearranging a stack of sheet metal frames in the attic, to suit the hen's desires. The sheet metal, long an item of concern by the supervisors, was not a thing you willingly brought to their attention. The supervisors had purchased the frames for some unknown use years ago, and had tried in vain to sell them ever since.

Yesterday had been the final blow. A reporter from the Colman Banner had been in Jim's office, and the clucking noise upstairs had been at its usual peak. You couldn't expect a newsman to ignore the matter, even to save a prosecutor who was up for re-election.

He hadn't had the heart to buy a paper today. For that matter, he didn't need to. He could have written the headlines himself . . . "County Prosecutor harbors refugee hen in court house attic."

He pushed hard on the court house door. It was jerked open from within. Someone called out, "Here he comes." A flashbulb blinded his eyes. From the crowded corridor he heard a voice say "The board is proud of you . . . fine work . . . your election is sure."

It was a long walk to his office. Ellen sat at her desk, a copy of the Banner spread before her. Over the shoulder of wellwishers he caught the headlines . . . "Prosecutor solves sale of surplus sheet metal. Proves frames ideal for chicken brooder use by unique research."

Jim closed the door on his last visitor. His arm was lame from being pumphandled. Ellen sat looking out the window.

He coughed. "Someone must have helped the Banner write that story. You?"

Ellen nodded, still not looking his way.

His arms slid around her shoulders. Her fingers squeezed his as he slipped her diamond back in place. "Is our June date back on the agenda?"

Ellen turned to let the light catch the glint of the ring. She slipped one dainty ankle over the other. "Might be, on certain conditions."

"Name 'em."

"Well, it seems to me that one good hen deserves another. I think I'd like to live in the country. Have a place large enough to put one of these brooders the supervisors are placing on sale."

Jim grinned. "Know something?"

"UM?"

"Suddenly I seem to have taken a liking to all chickens, including even Henrietta."

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I am a totally disabled veteran and the premiums on my GI insurance policy are under waiver. If I die, will my beneficiaries get the full amount of insurance, or will something be deducted to cover the premiums I haven't paid?

A—Your beneficiaries will get the full amount of insurance, even though your policy is under disability waiver and you are not paying premiums. Nothing will be deducted to cover the premiums you haven't paid.

Q—My deadline for starting Korean GI training comes in August, but school doesn't begin until September. Is there any way I can file my application before my deadline and start my schooling afterwards?

A—Under the law you actually must begin your GI schooling before your starting deadline. It is not possible to apply beforehand and commence training after the deadline.

Q—I am eligible for War Orphans schooling. I am living with my mother who is planning to take a Government job in a foreign country. Could I go to college in the foreign country under the War Orphans program?

A—The law specifies that War Orphans schooling must be taken in an educational institution only in the United States or its possessions. That rules out a foreign country.

Q—Is there any deadline for applying for disability compensation?

A—There is no deadline. You may apply at any time in your life. However, if you apply within one year following your discharge from service, it may be possible for compensation payments to be backdated to your first day in civilian life. If you wait longer than a year, payments may be effective only as of the date of application.

Golf

The local club's tournament committee was completely satisfied with the turn-out of golfers that participated in the short-stop tourney played here Sunday. Particularly pleasing was number of out-of-town golfers, those of championship flight caliber, who played in the tournament.

Considering the fact that the local club, since Vic Jung left town several years ago, hasn't provided the "tournament circuit" with very many championship flight golfers, this delegation of out-of-town golfers here on Sunday was a compliment to the local course.

We can recall the days when the local club, and it was just after World War II, that the city had a contingent of tournament golfers that were of championship flight ability. And they brought back numerous trophies and merchandise awards as they made their way through the tournament schedule around here. Remember such golfers as Vic, Dick Faber, Paul Rooney, and Orv Robertson? Not forgetting that a younger Stan Larson was playing championship flight golf, too, and of course, now and then Tommy and Keith Jorde would make an appearance. Those days can well be termed the "blue ribbon" days of local golf.

We hear that the Red Lake Falls country club has been reactivated, and is being played. We hear, too, that the Red Lake country golf tournament will be played there. That's fair enough, for it is fitting and proper for a Red Lake country championship to be vied for on a Red Lake county course.

To play the tournament at Red Lake Falls doesn't have the complete agreement of all the county's eligible golfers, for one of the championship flight contenders, a prominent businessman in Plummer, claims that his game will be handicapped by playing on sand greens. Champions, or those professing to be champions, should be able to play good golf on all courses. That is if they possess a championship fight golf game.

And to swing back to the local course, why not drive out there and take a look at it? With these recent rains, and lush growing weather, the course has never been more appealing. Incidently, the local club's membership received boost this past week when Clair (Shorty) O'Hara paid his membership fees. Shorty has just taken up the game, and he has progressed as far as the third hole. He intends to get across the river some time this summer.

Girls' Softball

From the sound and the fury that emanates from the old athletic field by the high school on Tuesday and Thursday evening's, the girls who are participating in the city girl's softball program, are having fun.

Three teams—Luverne Larson's Medics, Arlene Thune's Dodgers, and Gloria Lunsetter's Gophers—have been organized, and a schedule has been arranged.

On Thursday, June 20th, the Gophers will meet the Dodgers; and on Tuesday, June 25th, the Medics will play the Dodgers. On Thursday, June 27th, the Medics and the Gophers will play.

To date, three games have been played, and all three have produced their quota of arguments and excitement. In the team standings, the Medics, with two wins and no losses, are in first place; the Gophers, with one win and no losses, can claim a share in first place; and the Dodgers, with three losses and no wins, are in third place. It reads much better to say third place instead of last place, or the cellar.

We Goofed

In our comments last week on the high school baseball season, and the eighth regional tournament in particular, we made mention of the fact that the Bemidji Lumberjacks would, as of last Monday, be playing their first-round state tournament game that afternoon. That was not so.

The state high school tournament was, and is, slated for St. Paul's Midway stadium on June 24, 25, and 26. So the Bemidji Lumberjacks will be playing Austin of Region One this coming Monday at 4:00 p.m.

We'll string along with coach Horace May and his Jacks in this first-round game, for Bemidji will have the services of a well-rested Bill Lawrence. Lawrence, who has scored ten victories for the Jacks this season, is as fine a high school pitcher as this region has ever possessed.

Fertile Defeats TRF Legion Junior Club Monday 4 to 2

Local Baseball Club to Play Warren Junior Team at Warren This Evening

In a game that was transferred to the Fertile diamond, because of the wet grounds prevailing here on Monday, coach Joey Poole's local American Legion junior baseball team dropped a 4 to 2 decision to coach Chuch Johnson's Fertile juniors on Monday night.

This week's schedule will find the local nine playing the Warren juniors at Warren on Thursday evening. On Friday night, coach Poole will take his squad to Grand Forks for a game against Marv Skaar's Grand Forks juniors. On Tuesday evening, June 25th, the local will play the Oslo juniors on the Fair Grounds diamond.

Except for the first two innings, when Fertile bunched their four hits to score four runs, getting three runs and three hits in the 1st inning, and a single run and a hit in the 2nd inning, righthander Harlie Drees pitched a strong game for the locals.

The locals tagged Fertile's righthander, Arlo Brunsberg, for seven hits, and had runners on the bases in every inning. Only in the 7th inning, when singles by Jerry Jorgenson and Dave Berg, plus a Fertile error, were the locals able to send runners across the plate, scoring a pair of runs in that frame.

Brusberg struck out eleven batsman and walked four; while Drees whiffed twelve and walked three.

Thief River Falls	000 000 2	2	7	1
Fertile	310 000 X	4	4	3

Batteries: Drees and Berg; Brunsberg and N. Olson.

TRF Flying Club to Meet Friday

Urgent Appeal Made to Members to Be Present

All current members of the Thief River Falls Flying Club are urgently requested to be present at a general meeting of the club to be held at the airport cafe Friday at 8:30 p.m.

To be discussed at the meeting will be two new amendments to the club by-laws, which were passed at a board of directors meeting held June 12, and a general overhaul of the club Cruiser, which has been grounded after a thorough inspection this week showed its airworthiness to be in doubt.

Inactive members of the club are reminded that they cannot remain inactive indefinitely and still be members of the club in good standing, under one of the new by-law amendments.

Also scheduled at the Friday meeting is a report on the outcome of the Flight Breakfast held last Sunday.

With summer less than a week away, officially that is, we wonder when we're to get some summer-like temperatures. Only twice this year has the mercury exceeded the 80-degree mark.

Sooner or later some joker is bound to come up with the idea, the same that was so prevalent a year or so ago, that our Nevada bomb tests are fouling up the works again.

We read a lot about the commotion over bomb tests lately and our conclusion is that some people involved in the argument over radiation should radiate something other than ignorance themselves. We can name a certain big-town newspaper that uses the sob-sister approach to all such matters, thus not particularly helping any of them.

They certainly keep their readers aroused tho!

June 30 Deadline for Disabled to Seek Aid from Social Security

More than one hundred thousand severely disabled people in communities all over the nation will receive their first social security disability insurance checks in August, W. D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks social security office announced today.

But many other eligible disabled workers 50 to 65 years of age, some of them no doubt living in this area, have so far failed to make application to their social security offices. Those who have been disabled for work for a long time must apply before June 30, Mr. Kistler pointed out, or they will lose their rights to these new benefit payments.

Any severely disabled person who has worked under social security for at least 5 years and who has been disabled for 6 months or more should get in touch with his social security office right away, the social security district manager said.

If he is between 50 and 60 years of age, he may be eligible for monthly disability insurance benefits. If he is under 50, he may be eligible to have his social security record frozen to protect his future right to disability payments and also his and his family's rights to OASI benefits.

"Unfortunately there is a lot of misunderstanding," Mr. Kistler said, "as to how disabled a worker has to be to get social security disability insurance benefits or to have his social security record frozen. The rules in the social security law for deciding whether a person is 'disabled' are different from the rules in some other government and pri- disability programs."

To be found "disabled" under the social security law, he said, a worker must have a disability which, in the words of the law, makes him unable "to engage in any substantial gainful activity." It must be the kind of physical or mental condition which shows up in the medical evidence, including the doctor's report, hospital reports, or special tests. It must have lasted for at least 6 months and be expected to continue for a long and indefinite time.

In general, he said "substantial gainful activity" means the performance of a substantial amount of work with reasonable regularity in employment or self-employment. A person does not have to be completely helpless to qualify under the social security provisions, Mr. Kistler emphasized. Consideration is given to all of the facts in the individual's situation both medical and non-medical.

First consideration is, of course, given to the severity of his condition as shown by the medical evidence. This evidence must show that the person has a condition which makes him unable to perform significant functions such as moving about, handling objects, hearing, speaking, understanding, or reasoning, so that he cannot with his training, education and work experience engage in any kind of substantial gainful activity.

56 Pct. Endorse Longer Term for State Officials

A majority of Minnesotans (56 per cent) favor having four-year terms for the state's chief officials according to a statewide survey by the Minneapolis Tribune's Minnesota Poll.

Thirty-eight per cent of the adults interviewed say they are opposed to increasing the terms of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state and treasurer from two to four years.

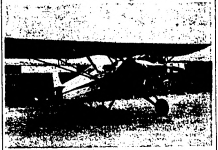
Six per cent are undecided.

The 1957 Minnesota legislature voted to submit to the voters in 1958 a constitutional amendment providing four-year terms for the five officials. The state auditor currently is given a four-year term.

The proposed measure receives the endorsement of 56 per cent of the Democratic-Farmer-Labor voters, 55 per cent of the Republicans and 54 per cent of the independents.

City, town and farm residents all indicated more approval than disapproval of four-year terms.

Old Plane Displayed Sunday



Another highlight of the Flight Breakfast held at the airport last Sunday by the local flying club was this 1934 model Fairchild monoplane on display during the event. Few of them were built and one's presence is a rarity on any airport. It belongs to the family of Peter Schirrick, Red Lake Falls, whose son was killed in a crop spraying accident in Montana last year. The old ship is a "parasol" type monoplane, so-called because of the wing's being supported above the fuselage by struts, rather than being directly attached spar-to-fuselage. Local folks who stayed away from the breakfast in droves missed out on a good feed and also missed out on some interesting flight activity.

Contract Let for Mississippi Span

New Bridge at Newport Will Cost $4,501,000

The Industrall Construction Co. of Minneapolis, with the low offer of $4,501,195 has been awarded the contract to construct a new four-lane steel and concrete bridge to carry T. H. 100 over the Mississippi river from South St. Paul to Newport.

The contract for the South St. Paul-Newport bridge is the largest single bridge contract ever let by the state highway department, officials report. Comparably sized bridges have been built in Minnesota under multiple contracts.

Under the 90-10 matching formula for financing interstate highway network projects, only approximately $450,000 in state funds will be required to match more than $4 million in federal money for the new bridge, the officials pointed out.

With bids on the bridge, the highway department also received offers totaling $180,162 for more than 10 miles of trunk route improvements in Nicollet and Scott counties and a traffic control signal system in Rochester, in Olmsted county. Contracts on these projects will be awarded after completion of a check of the bids.

The new Mississippi bridge, 1,870 feet long, is scheduled to be started this summer and to be ready for traffic by September, 1959, with final completion by July, 1960. It will connect with T. H. 61 on the east side of the river and T. H. 56 on the west side. T. H. 61 is a main traffic artery from Minnesota southeastward toward Chicago and southward through the Mississippi valley to New Orleans.

Increased Trunk Highway Traffic Reported in 1957

Minnesota trunk highway traffic increased in volume in each of the first five months of this year over the corresponding months in 1956, according to tabulations from the state highway department's 27 automatic traffic recorder stations located on rural trunk routes throughout the state. May traffic this year was up 3.2 per cent over May, 1956, at the recording points. Increases for the previous months: January, 2.3 per cent; February, 8 per cent; March, 4.3 per cent, and April, 4.1 per cent.

Birth Certificate Valued Document

Available from Clerk of Court or State Agency

Persons born in Minnesota still get a bargain when they apply for a certified copy of their record. While the trend in some states is to increase the cost of this valuable document, the charge in Minnesota for a certified copy remains at one dollar, according to Jerome W. Brower, deputy executive officer of the Minnesota department of health.

Today the birth certificate is a priceless document, Brower points out. Although people formerly might go through life without ever being required to prove the facts of birth, such proof is necessary now for many reasons, including entrance to school, first employment, insurance, the right to vote, the right to marry, for social security and pension benefits, inheritance, and passports.

Often people are not aware that their birth certificate may be obtained from the clerk of district court in the county where they were born, and from the state registrar of vital statistics, Minnesota Department of Health, in St. Paul. Both residents and non-residents can obtain certified copies of birth records from either of these sources for a fee of a dollar.

When writing for a certified copy, the following information should be provided: full name of person whose certificate is requested, date of birth, place of birth, father's name, and mother's maiden name.

Editorials . . .

"One fact stands out in bold relief in the history of men's attempts for betterment. That is that when compulsion is used, only resentment is aroused, and the end is not gained. Only through moral suasion and appeal to men's reason can a movement succeed."

Settlers Wanted

There was a time when our country encouraged immigration. Workers were needed to speed up the development of our vast natural resources. Western states wanted settlers.

There were abuses. Immigrants were exploited. Many of the foreigners who came here with high hopes returned to their native lands disillusioned and bitter.

Most of us who now inhabit the area however have reason to be happy with the results. Those of us who are second or third-generation Americans can be thankful that at one time immigration was encouraged.

Immigration is still encouraged in Canada, although there is organized opposition to it. In light of the importance of this problem in our own country a couple of generations ago, the arguments over the question at the present time in Canada are interesting.

From a recent issue of the Ottowa Citizen we pass along the following editorial comment as typical of the thinking of the Canadian press:

By the end of 1957 Canada will have admitted 35,000 Hungarian refugees. According to a recent government announcement, this will be the largest number taken in by any one country. Yet this fact should not constitute a source of pride to Canadians. The question is not whether Canada has accepted more refugees than any other country, but whether Canada has accepted as many as can be absorbed.

There is no evidence that this is so. Of the refugees who have arrived thus far, a number have had to wait for considerable periods before finding jobs. Yet gradually, all are being absorbed into Canadian society. The only limit that can fairly be set to the entry of refugees—or, for that matter, any immigrants—is the need of the Canadian economy for workers. And as government spokesmen have so often noted, the prospects for Canada's economic expansion are boundless.

Echo of John Brandt

Earl Butz, assistant secretary of agriculture, recently gave a "Yes and No" answer to the question as to whether the marketing problem of the dairy industry could be solved by government controls. He said:

"The answer is Yes, if we want a shrinking industry, saddled with a growing maze of controls and regulations and manipulations by government. The answer is Yes, government can guarantee 80 percent of parity, 90 percent of parity, or even 100 percent of parity for unit prices, if we are content ultimately to accept rigid restrictions of one kind or another that will severely limit our right to produce and market. This is what has happened to our cotton growers, tobacco raisers, and wheat producers. They have enjoyed price maintenance, but they have suffered income-wise. And it's income our producers spend—not price."

He emphasized that while the government could be helpful in the solution of these problems, the industry itself, through a self-help program, should direct its own marketing operations, independent of governmen agencies and taxpayer's contributions.

That sounds like the late John Brandt speaking. He insisted that the industry must take itself out of politics and assume responsibility for the management of its own affairs.

And it now appears that until the industry starts acting in its own behalf instead of depending on the crutches of government grants and doles, it will make little progress in regaining its strength.

A Record Is Recognized

With several other of the city's many members of the "We Like Mike" club we journeyed to Minneapolis Saturday to attend a testimonial dinner for Mike Hoffman, recently retired as state highway commissioner. The large gathering was a well-deserved tribute to a native son who has served the state well over a period of many years.

We are not writing this as an eulogy to Mr. Hoffman. We are happy to report that he is still active and chipper as ever. We are reconciled to the probability that he will read our obituary before we have occasion to write his.

Our purpose in taking pen in hand on this occasion is to commend the Administration for retaining Mike Hoffmann as a consultant following his retirement as head of the department. It pleased us mightily when we learned of this arrangement.

Mike Hofmann is a bridge engineer by trade, a graduate of the University of Minnesota school of engineering. Being retained as a consultant to a field in which he is so eminently qualified, in the service of a department with which he has so long been identified, offers a happy solution not only for the retirement problem of Mr. Hoffmann but also for the pressing needs of the state for competent engineering service.

Governor Freeman's administration is to be commended, and the state of Minnesota is to be congratulated, for the recognition that has been given to the past performance of a good public official and his capacity for continued service.

Radical Socialist

A new government has been formed in France. We cannot spell the name of the good citizen who heads it. He probably will be the head of the government only a short time and the name is not important.

What interests us is the name of the political party with which he is identified. He is what is known as a Radical Socialist.

In our country a Radical Socialist would automatically be classified as a suspicious character and a fellow to be watched. But in France a Radical Socialist is a good citizen who leans a little to the conservative side.

In France, and in most other European countries, party names don't mean much. But, come to think of it, party names don't mean much any more here in our country either. We like the designations that are used by our neighbors in Canada. They divide as Liberals and Conservatives, both good and meaningful words.

There are more than 900 bills in Congress providing for tax reduction in one form or another. We'll bet a hat that the member who has introduced the greatest number of these tax reduction bills is also near the top of the list in the number of proposals for increased spending.

The city council of St. Paul has approved higher speed limits for three streets, and is considering similar action on 20 more. The safety factor has been carefully considered. It was decided that the driving conditions on these particular streets justified the faster flow of traffic. No general speed increase is contemplated.

Around and About

Last June, the Supreme Court upheld the convictions of two women charged with killing their husbands and ruled that military court trials of civilians charged with capital offenses overseas were Constitutional. This June—exactly 365 days later—the Supreme Court over-ruled itself and said that such trials are un-Constitutional.

Whatever way one looks at these two decisions, one fact is clear: The Supreme Court was either wrong last year or it was wrong last Monday. For in both instances before the Court the facts and the people were exactly the same.

What changed was the composition of the Court. Two justices who voted one way last year voted a different way this year. One justice voted who didn't vote last year. One of the new justices did not take part this year because he had not been on the Court long enough. So a 5-3 decision last June becomes a 6-2 decision this June—in exactly the opposite direction.

It is always well for men to admit error and that justice has done. But the remedy cannot hide the fact that if this June's decision was just last June's decision was unjust.

Under all the circumstances there isn't much excuse for all this milling around and about. For this was, from the beginning to end, a Constitutional question. And in the last twelve months the United States Constitution has not been changed in so much as a single word.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Hoover Commission Action

Earlier this month, three important Hoover Commission Bills which had been approved by the Senate Subcommittee on Reorganization, of which I am Chairman, were passed by the Senate. One extended the basic Reorganization Act by which the President implements various reorganization programs. The second provides certain management improvements in the Government's gigantic records-keeping program.

Keystone Bill

Most important of the three bills is S. 434, the keystone recommendation of the Second Hoover Commission that appropriations be converted to an annual accrued expenditure basis. This reform is regarded by many authorities as the most significant fiscal proposal in many years. Instead of Congress appropriating funds now, many of which will be spent in fiscal years 1959, 1960, and 1961, if this bill were already law Congress would be appropriating only the exact funds which would be spent during the coming fiscal year, 1958. The effect would be to greatly strengthen Congress' control over the tremendous expenditures made by the Executive Branch. Fortunately, the Administration strongly endorses the bill, and I anticipate it will become law this year.

Savings

The Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report estimates that more than 50% of the Second Hoover Commission's recommendations have been or are being implemented, with potential savings totaling approximately half a billion dollars. The last (84th) Congress enacted 39 public laws and resolutions which implemented 55 of the Second Hoover Commission legislative recommendations. Some of the principal savings from this legislation are estimated by the Citizens Committee to be $235,900,000 for Defense, $131,700,000 for the General Administration, and $56 million for the Post Office Department. In addition, the Committee estimates that 72% of the First Hoover Commission's recommendations have been effectuated, with savings, capital returns, and increased revenues of almost $2½ billion. It estimates, for example, a $677 million saving to the GSA and $509,500,000 to the Department of Defense under the First Hoover Commission legislation. Altogether, I am proud to have cosponsored many of the reorganization measures and managed many of these bills on the floor of the Senate since 1949. The Citizens Committee states that such bills have led to a saving to our taxpayers of about $3 billion.

More Value for Tax Dollar

Although I am fully aware of the difficulty of pinpointing specific savings in the Government's operations from reorganizations within the Executive Branch, I am convinced that we are now getting much more value from the taxpayer's dollar in terms of greater efficiency, improved management and over-all economies as a result of the two Commissions' work. I intend to continue to give the highest priority to these Hoover Commission reorganization recommendations which, after thorough analysis, prove beneficial to the taxpayer.

Fieldman Praise Centennial Committee

On Friday evening, June 7th the Marshall County Statehood Centennial meeting was held at the Holt school house. Mr. Bill Stohr, state fieldman, stated that none of the other 85 such county organizations have done a better job up to date or shown as much enthusiasm and interest. To prove this point about 40 interested people attended the Holt meeting. Commenting on the ox cart promotion Mr. Stohr said nothing would be more unique to Minnesota history and such a stunt would get national publicity.

Delmar Hagen spoke briefly on his plans for the ox cart trip with additional discussions to be had at later meetings. The trip from Marshall county would take about one month. He also revealed some of the items definitely on the agenda for the 100th birthday party next year. Families whose history in the county back to before the century especially are asked to submit their families histories written or in rough form. Any informative little stories or anecdotes of the early times are especially sought.

Holt members served lunch following this fine meeting. The next meeting will be at Argyle school July 10 at 8 p. m. Setesdalslag at Oklee Drew Many

49th Convention Sets New High in Attendance

The 49th annual convention of the Seteradals laget concluded in Oklee Saturday night, June 15, established all-time records in total attendance, according to officials of the Norwegian organization, says the Oklee Herald.

The four programs which made up the convention were attended by visitors from a large surrounding area. Several visitors came from other states including Iowa, North Dakota and California.

In charge of the Laget was K. B. Knutson of Cosmos, Minn., who was elected president last year. There was no election this year and all officers carry over until the next annual meeting.

Programs of old-time Scandinavian folk singing and dancing and speaking were featured Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening in the high school auditorium. Jerry Watt, band director from Cosmos, directed the Saeter Players in a program tracing the evolution of music from early times to the present day with accent on Scandinavian songs and dances.

The Friday evening program featured Dreng Bjornaraa as speaker. Mr. Bjornaraa, who is public relations director for United States Steel, is a son of the late Bjorgulv Bjornaraa, one of the founders of the Seteradals Laget and its president for 32 years.

Equipment Sent from TRF to Fargo to Aid Victims of Tornado

Mayor O. D. Belch arranged for the city's portable electric generator to be transported to Fargo for use in the disaster area. The city of Fargo had appealed for surrounding cities to send emergency power equipment. Thief River Falls had recently purchased a 2400-watt portable generator from war surplus for use in emergencies and civil defense.

Kife Olson of Kife's Cafe also loaned his 1500 watt generator. Both generators were transported to Fargo early Friday evening by Neil Stone and Ray Bergquist of the Minnesota highway patrol radio who volunteered to go to Fargo. Both men remained in Fargo and are assisting the police department in radio dispatching and technical services and will remain as long as they are needed. The Minnesota highway patrol radio is sending a relief man to Thief River Falls from Brainerd to assist the local station while Stone and Bergquist are in Fargo.

Bruce Reski, local civil defense director, left for Fargo Saturday afternoon to assist Civil Defense authorities there in anyway possible.

Mayor Beich stated that Thief River Falls has offered needed equipment or other services that Fargo may require in their disaster. He has been in contact with Bruce Reski, local civil defense director, and is arranging to send a water pumper to Fargo also.

Social Worker Is Speaker Here on Retarded Children

Discusses Variety of Resources Available to Mentally Deficient

Last Thursday evening Miss Donna Mae Danielson, state social worker serving the mentally deficient in this area, addressed a group composed of members of the Northwest Association for Retarded Children and other interested persons. The speaker described the variety of resources available for the mentally deficient, which include state guardianship, special classes, and private and public schools and institutions.

Miss Danielson stressed the idea that, contrary to popular understanding, state guardianship does not mean placement in an institution. Many persons under state guardianship have remained in their family homes, or been cared for in private facilities so that the placement in a public institution is never necessary. State guardianship can be of value to persons who are being cared for outside of the institutions, and is advised for almost all mentally deficient persons.

Miss Danielson pointed out that state guardianship provides for the commissioner of public welfare, through the county welfare boards, to assume responsibility for planning the the family to meet the special needs of retarded persons. The group was told that parents do not give up their child by placing him under guardianship, and their wishes in regard to planning for their children are respected at all times.

It was further pointed out that in the event of the parents' death or incapacity there is someone who has the legal right and responsibility to give

Council Votes to Go Ahead on Street Work

Orders Preparations of Specifications; 1 Block Eliminated

Following a continued hearing last Thursday evening on the projected east side street improvement project, the city council took favorable action on the recommendation of the street advisory committee and voted to proceed with the entire project with the exception of the surfacing of Maple av. from Mussey to Third sts., which had been objected to by a majority of the affected property owners.

The council accepted the proposal of Douglas Stewart and associates to serve as engineers on the project, estimated to cost more than $80,000, and directed them to prepare plans and specifications preliminary to issuing a call for bids. Stewart indicated that it would be impossible to complete all phases of the work before the spring of 1958.

The project calls for a permanent type of street surfacing, consisting of an eight-inch gravel base and a two-inch layer of asphalt, together with the installation of curb and gutter where they are now lacking.

Streets affected by the projected improvement include:

Tindolph av. from Third st. to a point 150 feet north of Taft st.

Crocker av. from Taft st. for a distance of 250 feet north.

Merriam av. from Hughes to Gulf sts., and from Third st. to Taft st.

Kneale av. from Nora to Gulf sts. and from Third st. to Taft st.

Maple av. from Hughes to Gulf sts., and from Third st. to Taft st.

Taft st. from Kneale av. to Maple av.

Spruce av. from Gulf st. to Highway 59.

Mussey st. from Spruce av. to Highway 59.

Heavy Rain Causes Soo Line Washout

8 Cars Derailed on Extra Freight at Clearbrook

Heavy rainfall, estimated at around four to five inches, has been named the cause of derailment of the first eight cars of a Soo Line extra freight train about 10:40 p.m. Saturday at Clearbrook.

Soo Line division officials here said the downpour caused a washout of the line at Clearbrook. The locomotive pulling the train empties from Superior to Thief River Falls was not derailed but the cars immediately behind it left the track. There were no injuries from the derailment.

Although the wreck occurred in another division's territory a wrecker train was dispatched from Thief River Falls to clear the tracks.

The Soo Line officials here reported Train 64 was not run today because of the washout, and that it will be necessary to put in ballast before the line can be put in use. How long the job will take is not known but it is believed the necessary repairs can be made late today.

Plane Is Only Slightly Damaged in Mishap Today at Minneapolis Airport

A North Central Airlines DC-3 airplane with seven passengers aboard made a wheels-up landing at Minneapolis at 3:15 a.m. today after the pilot grazed a truck on his final landing approach at Grand Forks causing slight damage to the landing gear.

The airline reported the pilot of Flight 781 elected to fly from Grand Forks to Minneapolis where more emergency equipment was available, following the incident. He made a perfect landing which resulted in no injuries to passengers and crew, no cargo damage and only relatively small damage to the aircraft.

All passengers aboard the plane were put on another plane at 5 a.m. to take them to Grand Forks.

The damaged plane was to have laid over at Grand Forks for the night after completing the final leg of the Minneapolis-Grand Forks run, via Brainerd, Bemidji and Thief River Falls.

The safe landing left intact North Central's perfect record of no injuries to passengers since it started service in 1948. To date over 2 million passengers have been transported by the airline without injury.

John Dyrud Jr., son of Mr and Mrs. John Dyrud of Newfolden, was graduated June 15 from the University of Minnesota, receiving his bachelor of arts degree. He plans to return to the university next fall advanced studies.

Red Cross Seeks Funds for Fargo Tornado Victims

Donations Received at Thief River Falls Banks and County Postoffices

Donations for the relief of the hundreds of victims of last Thursday's devastating tornado at Fargo, N. D., will be received starting today at local banks and at postoffices in Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire and Goodridge, it was announced by Mrs. I. B. Geving, chairman of the Pennington county chapter of the American Red Cross.

Arrangements for Red Cross representatives to receive the donations were made at a meeting of the executive committee of the local chapter Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Geving, who solicited the cooperation of the public, stated that the disaster fund of the American Red Cross had been badly depleted as a result of numerous floods, storms and other disasters in recent months.

Tornado in Fargo Takes Ten Lives, $15,000,000 Loss

6 In One Family Die; Twister Destroys More Than 400 Homes

The latest and one of the most disastrous tornadoes that have plagued the Midwest this spring struck within 100 miles of Thief River Falls last Thursday evening when it wrought havoc at Fargo, No. Dak., taking at least ten lives and causing more than $15,000,000 damage. The dead included six of the seven children in the Gerald Munson family.

About 100 persons were taken to hospitals, and 50 still were hospitalized. Some were in critical condition.

Mayor Herschel Lashkowitz estimated 500 houses were destroyed, and the Red Cross said another 750 to 1,000 were damaged. About 2,000 persons were made homeless. Many moved in with friends and relatives.

Also destroyed were four churches and Shanley high school, a Roman Catholic school built a few years ago at a cost of one million dollars.

The swath of destruction covered 100 blocks of the city, North Dakota's largest, with a population of 47,000. Streets were littered with fragments of the shattered homes, uprooted and broken trees, power and telephone poles and lines, and ashes remaining from fires which broke out during the storm. Bulldozers were put to work plowing into the grimy rubble.

The downtown business district, only a few blocks south of the storm path, escaped.

The tornado first struck at the northwest corner of the city. It skirted the campus of North Dakota Agriculture college, [illegible] northward and then moved across the residential area known as Golden Ridge. It [illegible] the Red River and [illegible] apart in the northeast part of Moorhead, Minn.

Mrs. Donald Teitgens [illegible] found Friday afternoon in the wreckage of her home. She was taken to a hospital, where her condition was described as critical. Two daughters of the couple escaped injury.

Police Chief Walter Olson said the death toll may be increased as the rubble is probed. He said also that many others might have died had they not jumped into their cars and driven out of the city. Radio warnings prompted many to flee ahead of the funnels arrival.

Hundreds watched as the twister approached over praire country west of Fargo.

The tornado tore a 7-month-old baby from its mother's arms but the infant later was found on the ground. The child, injured, was taken to a hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Davenport were outside with their two children when the funnel cloud moved into their neighborhood. Davenport grabbed their young daughter, his wife carried the baby and they rushed to a nearby home.

The wind whipped the baby from Mrs. Davenport's arms and sent it through the air with debris. The Davenports didn't see the infant again until they learned an unidentified baby had been found by rescue workers and taken to a hospital. The baby turned out to be theirs and was not seriously hurt.

Soo Line Payroll $1.4 Million in TRF During Past Year

Further testimony of the important role played by the Soo Line in the Thief River Falls economy is contained in a report made last week by E. A. Hamerski, division superintendent, to the Chamber of Commerce, revealing that during 1956 the company employed 237 workers in this city, with an annual payroll aggregating $1,400,033.

Pennington Co. Wheat Farmers Back Quotas by Margin of 173 to 2

Pennington county wheat farmers agreed with those in other sections of Minnesota and the nation by voting strongly in support of wheat crop quota in a referendum last Thursday.

A total of 185 out of 258 eligible voters in this county cast ballots in the election, supporting quotas by the one-sided margin of 173 to 2, with ten challenged ballots not counted.

In accepting controls for the fifth consecutive year by an 83.3 per cent majority, the nation's wheat farmers are assured of a support price of $1.78 a bushel (75 per cent of parity).

The vote to continue quotas was aided by an overwhelming "yes" vote from the Upper Midwest spring wheat states which traditionally have favored rigid marketing regulations.

The Upper Midwest vote was: Minnesota—7,601 for, 231 against; South Dakota—13,074 for, 515 against; Montana—14,429 for, 887 against.

Because of the tornado which knocked out communications in Fargo, the North Dakota tabulations were incomplete. These incomplete results showed 16,072 for and 549 against quotas.

The unofficial count from the 36 states which make up the commercial wheat area showed 111,333 votes for quotas and 28,833 against. Texas, where some opposition was expected to develop, went for quotas by an 8,108 to 1,001 vote. Kansas gave quotas a vote of 21,296 with 7,236 against.

Invoked to keep present surpluses from becoming larger, the quotas will limit sales of wheat grown on a 55 million-acre allotment. Minnesota's share is 729,866 acres.

Under quotas, a farmer is allowed to market all the wheat he can raise on his acreage allotment.

Kenneth Dufault Named at Organization Meeting Last Thursday Evening

The first official meeting was held in Warren at the county courthouse on Thursday evening, June 20, of the elected farmer supervisors of the new Marshall county soil conservation district. All supervisors were present. They include Richard Field, Stephen; Kenneth Dufault, Argyle; Norman Anderson of Middle River and Kenneth Yutrzenka of Argyle.

On hand to install the new supervisors as officers and to conduct the meeting until a chairman was elected by the supervisors were Matt Thorfinnson, executive secretary of the state soil conservation committee, and Ted Hegseth of the state soil conservation comittee, who farms near Fergus Falls.

Also present was Herb Halverson, area conservationist of northern Minnesota for the soil conservation service. In addition, Erling Welberg, county agent; Fred Heck, county soil conservation agent; and Jim Hill a neighbor of Mr. Anderson, were also in attendance.

The new supervisors agreed to vote for officers by secret ballot. Results of the balloting were as follows: Chairman, Kenneth Dufault, Argyle; vice chairman, Orville Elseth, Newfolden; secretary, Richard Field, Stephen; treasurer, Leonard Yutrzenka, Argyle; public relations, Norman Anderson, Middle River.

The officers also voted for one year tenure of office, with no officer to be allowed to be elected again to their same office for more than one consecutive year.

They will, however, still be on the board of supervisors in some office for the length of time that

Turbulent Weather In Area During Week

The weatherman promises to play fair today, after a week in which thunderstorms, tornadoes and heavy rainfall wrought havoc over the state and in the Dakotas.

Several southern Minnesota communities are battling flood waters and the monstrous clean-up job caused by the Fargo tornado Thursday is in full swing in that battered city.

Nearer Thief River Falls a Soo Line freight train was partly derailed by a washout caused by a heavy downpour at Clearbrook Saturday, where an estimated four to five inches of rain fell.

Area residents are promised temperatures from 75 to 85 today after a rather cool week previous, during which the high was a cool 70 and the low 44. The Monday low was 46.

According to KTRF records only .55 inches of rain fell since last Thursday, although, unofficially, some rain gauges in the city registered .75 inches on Saturday alone.

The amount of rain that fell Saturday varied in different localities but it was heavier in areas south of Thief River Falls. Amounts estimated at up to five inches also fell in the Erskine-Union Lake vicinity and at least one road in that area was inundated and much water was standing in ditches and fields.

The forecast is for partly cloudy and warmer weather tonight, with highs from 75-85 and lows tonight in the 50-60 range. Skies will be variably cloudy tomorrow with scattered showers or thunderstorms. One bright note is that very light rain is likely according to the KTRF area forecast. Increasing humidity is predicted for Tuesday.

Winds will be moderate southerly tonight, shifting tomorrow.

Ominous Clouds Seen over City Thursday

A few people in this city may scoff at the idea—but the facts are that Thief River Falls may have narrowly escaped a disaster Thursday that befell Fargo, N. D. later the same day.

Many people in this city were quite concerned about mid-afternoon when a dark, ominous storm cloud approached the city from the northwest. The main cause for concern was the way a boiling, churning portion of the cloud seemed to be handing some distance below the main body.

No spinning funnel evolved out of the ugly cloud but several people here have remarked at the similiarity between the cloud here Thursday with the one from which the Fargo tornado swooped down on that city with such devastating results.

Even in pictures of the Fargo tornado the funnel is not so evident as the low, dark clouds at its base. When the twister struck there part of it looked as if it were lying parallel to the ground, contrary to the popular conception of tornadoes which has it that only the tip of the funnel sweeps the ground as it swings back and fourth.

Meteorologists tell us tornadoes are spawned when cold, dry air masses from the north collide with warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico and that the most favorable time for tornadoes is in the spring.

The collision of two such air masses causes violent air turbulence resulting in the violent vortexes. Heavy rain always and baseball-size hail often accompanies the tornado, along with heavy vertical lightening.

The North American continent has more tornadoes than any other in the world, the meteorologists say, with the U. S. midwest being the usual scene of the violent storms, although they have been observed as far north as Quebec and as far east as Massachusetts.

Weather experts say the prevailing paths of tornadoes are in a line from southwest to northeast, although individual paths may vary to some extent. The Fargo funnel is an example of one which, from indications, approached that city from almost due west, then veered northeastward as it swept all before it.

The same weather experts tell us that 1957 hasn't necessarily been a year of more tornadoes but that because of better detection methods, and greater tornado consciousness on the part of the population in tornado-subject areas, more of the death-dealing weahter freaks have been observed than in other years when there have been just as many but fewer of them have been seen.

There are two ways of escaping tornadoes, the experts tell us. One is to go to a storm cellar, where there is comparative safety. The other was is to run out of its path. The experts say that, if you can see the tornado move laterally one way or the other the chances are it won't hit you.

But, if it seems to be standing still and growing larger—LOOK OUT . . . It's coming straight at you and if you don't head for the cellar or get out of its path your number may be up!

The speed at which a tornado approaches varies and has been estimated at from 5 to 50 m.p.h. or even greater, although most seem to progress over the ground at about 30 m.p.h. according to the meteorologists. You also have to take into account that the funnel's murderous tail also moves back and forth as the main body of the twister moves ahead.

A basement provides the next best protection to a storm cellar, the experts say. The best way to do, once in the cellar or basement, is to go to the corner nearest the approaching twister, but not if that happens to be where the chimney is located.

In any case a corner or other position near a basement wall provides protection against falling debris. However, the basement of a brick or stone house is not necessarily a safe place because of the possibility of the walls above the ground collapsing into the basement.

If caught in the open with a tornado approaching the experts say if you can't escape to either side you should seek the deepest depression available, lie down—and hang on to something. You may be somewhat battered and bruised from the howling winds and flying debris but you do have a chance of survival.

Whatever you do, don't stay out to watch until it's too late to prevent disaster . . . and if a tornado strikes a nearby neighborhood don't go sightseeing there. Stay out and let the disaster rescue parties do their work with the least amount of interference, unless you have been asked to go in and help.

State Property Tax Levy up Next 2 Years

State property tax levies outside the cities of Saint Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth for 1957 and 1958, payable in 1958 and 1959, probably will be the highest in more than twenty years, Norman A. Borgen, Executive Secretary of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, announced today. "This condition will prevail," Borgen said, "in spite of the fact that there will be no state levy on property for the general revenue fund."

Figures used by 1957 legislative committees in discussing the probable total levies for the coming biennium (the exact figures will be announced by the State Auditor in November) indicate that the state mill rates on personal property and non-homestead real estate outside the cities of the first class will total at least 11.26 mills for 1957 and 11.40 mills for 1958, as compared with the 1956 total mill rate of 9.15 mills.

This will be the first time the mill levy for state purposes will have topped 10 miles since 1936, according to Borgen.

The new levies authorized by the 1957 Legislature total 5.42 mills for 1957 and 5.73 mills for 1958, but the dropping off of some levies and the fact that there will be no general revenue fund tax levy this time (it was 2.94 mills for 1956) narrows the difference between the 1957 and 1958 total state mill rates and the 1956 rate to 2.11 mills for 1957 and 2.25 mills for 1958.

The total state mill rates for 1957 and 1958 on personal property and non-homestead real estate in Minneapolis, Saint Paul and Duluth are estimated at 7.14 and 7.27 mills, respectively. The lower mill rates for the three cities of the first class are largely accounted for by the fact that property in these cities will not be subject to the new 3.36 mill levies for 1957 and 3.21 mill levies for 1958 for state contributions to the teachers' retirement funds. The three cities have their own teachers' retirement plans.

It is estimated that the total state mill rate to be applied to homestead real estate throughout the state for 1957 and 1958 will be 5.96 and 6.41 mills, respectively, as compared with the 1956 figure of 3.81 mills, Mr. Borgen said.

care and protection to a retarded child or adult.

Miss Danielson informed the group that in order to place anyone in a public institution for the mentally retarded, that person must be first committed to state guardianship by the probate court. This is accomplished with the assistance and advice of the county welfare office. In addition to the services described, Miss Danielson stated that information is available through the county welfare offices in regard to many other resources available for the special needs of the mentally deficient.

The Northwest Association for Retarded Children, which sponsored Miss Danielson's appearance, is a group composed of parents of retarded children, professional people, and other interested citizens. One of the primary purposes of this group is to promote a wider understanding of the problem of mental deficiency.

each was elected during the area wide soil conservation supervisor election. Or in other words, he will still serve the original 1, 2, 3, 4, or 5 year term as farmer supervisor from his area.

After election of officers was completed Halverson presented a brief summary to the board of the problem area map drawn up by himself and Maynard Seely, soil scientist, also of the Thief River Falls area office. It was pointed out by Mr. Halverson to the supervisors that the new Marshall district has many different soil and related problem areas. Each area being somewhat different from the others. A problem area tour of the new Marshall county district with the new board and conducted by Halverson and Seely is planned for during the month of July.

DON'T PLAY with FIRE

Few people are so foolish as to ignore the first warning wisps of smoke. They seek the cause and call the Fire Department immediately. Yet there are many normally sensible people who play with fire in another fashion. These are the people who risk their good health by ignoring the first warning symptoms of illness. Remember—illness, like fire, is easier to "put out" in its early stage. If you're concerned about recurring symptoms—find out the cause. See your doctor before he must see you.

No One Size Best for State Farms

Should Be Big Enough to Meet Family Needs

How big should a farm be in Minnesota?

There's no one size that's best, say E. A. Engene and T. R. Nodland, agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota.

But as a general rule, the economists add, the farm should be big enough so that the farmer takes in about three times as much in total sales as the family needs for personal and living expenses.

Engene and Nodland base this conclusion on a summary of thousands or records kept by Minnesota farmers in recent years. They report on this summary in the current issue of "Minnesota Farm and Home Science," a University publication.

A survey made by the Farmers Union Grain Terminal association, the economists report, showed that in 1950-54, about two-thirds of each farmer's income was used for farm expenses.

And average figures for returns per acre for 1954 show that, in general, it's hard to get a gross income of $6,000—or a net income of $2,000—annually on less than 100 acres of cropland. This is apt to hold true in the near future, too, say the economists.

Most Minnesota farms averaging between 50 and 99 acres of cropland had less than $5,000 total income in 1954. As number of crop acres went up, so did gross income.

In a study of members of a farm management association from 1945-54, the economists found that farmers produced as much gross income on 100 acres as other farmers did on 145 acres, but it took an extra 25 percent of labor to do it on the small farms. That means income per man was higher on large farms.

Engene and Nodland say that according to these trends, it is likely that farmers with 100 acres or less of cropland will continue to move away. Some, though may find other employment nearby so they can continue to use their farm on a partime basis or merely as a place to live.

U. S. to Share in Brucellosis Plan

Government to Share in Indemnity Payments

Senator Edward J. Thye announced last week that the Department of Agriculture will participate in indemnity payments to Minnesota farms for all identified reactors disposed of under the new state brucellosis eradication law.

A new state law passed during the recently adjourned session of the Minnesota legislature provides that, after July 1, 1957, all reactors now being held in Plan B herds be disposed of. The Minnesota attorney general has ruled that indemnity must be paid for all such reactors even though they have been held in the owners' herd for an indefinite time since they were tested and identified as reactors.

Prior to Senator Thye's contact with the Department of Agriculture, department rules did not allow the federal government to participate in the indemnity payments unless the entire Plan B herd were to be retested.

The department has now assured Senator Thye that Federal payments will be made for these Plan B reactors without requiring a complete retesting of the whole herd under the new federal rule. Plan B herds will be handled as Plan A herds once the old reactors have been removed. This means that the herd would be retested within sixty days of the disposal of the reactors and retested again after 120 days.

Senator Thye said that the new ruling would be especially beneficial to the state of Minnesota in its program of eradication of brucelosis. If the Federal government would not participate in the indemnity payments, the state fund might be exhausted and the brucellosis program in Minnesota would have to be suspended.

He that hath truth on his side is a fool as well as a coward if he is afraid to own it because of other men's opinions.

State Property Tax Levy up Next 2 Years

State property tax levies outside the cities of Saint Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth for 1957 and 1958, payable in 1958 and 1959, probably will be the highest in more than twenty years, Norman A. Borgen, Executive Secretary of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, announced today. "This condition will prevail," Borgen said, "in spite of the fact that there will be no state levy on property for the general revenue fund."

Figures used by 1957 legislative committees in discussing the probable total levies for the coming biennium (the exact figures will be announced by the State Auditor in November) indicate that the state mill rates on personal property and non-homestead real estate outside the cities of the first class will total at least 11.28 mills for 1957 and 11.40 mills for 1958, as compared with the 1956 total mill rate of 9.15 mills.

This will be the first time the mill levy for state purposes will have topped 10 miles since 1936, according to Borgen.

The new levies authorized by the 1957 Legislature total 5.42 mills for 1957 and 5.73 mills for 1958, but the dropping off of some levies and the fact that there will be no general revenue fund tax levy this time (it was 2.94 mills for 1956) narrows the difference between the 1957 and 1958 total state mill rates and the 1956 rate to 2.11 mills for 1957 and 2.25 mills for 1958.

The total state mill rates for 1957 and 1958 on personal property and non-homestead real estate in Minneapolis, Saint Paul and Duluth are estimated at 7.14 and 7.27 mills, respectively. The lower mill rates for the three cities of the first class are largely accounted for by the fact that property in these cities will not be subject to the new 3.36 mill levies for 1957 and 3.21 mill levies for 1958 for state contributions to the teachers' retirement funds. The three cities have their own teachers' retirement plans.

It is estimated that the total state mill rate to be applied to homestead real estate throughout the state for 1957 and 1958 will be 5.96 and 6.41 mills, respectively, as compared with the 1956 figure of 3.81 mills, Mr. Borgen said.

care and protection to a retarded child or adult.

Miss Danielson informed the group that in order to place anyone in a public institution for the mentally retarded, that person must be first committed to state guardianship by the probate court. This is accomplished with the assistance and advice of the county welfare office. In addition to the services described, Miss Danielson stated that information is available through the county welfare offices in regard to many other resources available for the special needs of the mentally deficient.

The Northwest Association for Retarded Children, which sponsored Miss Danielson's appearance, is a group composed of parents of retarded children, professional people, and other interested citizens. One of the primary purposes of this group is to promote a wider understanding of the problem of mental deficiency.

each was elected during the area wide soil conservation supervisor election. Or in other words, he will still serve the original 1, 2, 3, 4, or 5 year term as farmer supervisor from his area.

After election of officers was completed Halverson presented a brief summary to the board of the problem area map drawn up by himself and Maynard Seely, soil scientist, also of the Thief River Falls area office. It was pointed out by Mr. Halverson to the supervisors that the new Marshall district has many different soil and related problem areas. Each area being somewhat different from the others. A problem area tour of the new Marshall county district with the new board and conducted by Halverson and Seely is planned for during the month of July.

DON'T PLAY with FIRE

Few people are so foolish as to ignore the first warning wisps of smoke. They seek the cause and call the Fire Department immediately. Yet there are many normally sensible people who play with fire in another fashion. These are the people who risk their good health by ignoring the first warning symptoms of illness. Remember —illness, like fire, is easier to "put out" in its early stage. If you're concerned about recurring symptoms —find out the cause. See your doctor before he must see you.

No One Size Best for State Farms

Should Be Big Enough to Meet Family Needs

How big should a farm be in Minnesota?

There's no one size that's best, say E. A. Engene and T. R. Nodland, agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota.

But as a general rule, the economists add, the farm should be big enough so that the farmer takes in about three times as much in total sales as the family needs for personal and living expenses.

Engene and Nodland base this conclusion on a summary of thousands or records kept by Minnesota farmers in recent years. They report on this summary in the current issue of "Minnesota Farm and Home Science," a University publication.

A survey made by the Farmers Union Grain Terminal association, the economists report, showed that in 1950-54, about two-thirds of each farmer's income was used for farm expenses.

And average figures for returns per acre for 1954 show that, in general, it's hard to get a gross income of $6,000—or a net income of $2,000—annually on less than 100 acres of cropland. This is apt to hold true in the near future, too, say the economists.

Most Minnesota farms averaging between 50 and 90 acres of cropland had less than $5,000 total income in 1954. As number of crop acres went up, so did gross income.

In a study of members of a farm management association from 1945-54, the economists found that farmers produced as much gross income on 100 acres as other farmers did on 145 acres, but it took an extra 25 percent of labor to do it on the small farms. That means income per man was higher on large farms.

Engene and Nodland say that according to these trends, it is likely that farmers with 100 acres or less of cropland will continue to move away. Some, though may find other employment nearby so they can continue to use their farm on a partime basis or merely as a place to live.

U. S. to Share in Brucellosis Plan

Government to Share in Indemnity Payments

Senator Edward J. Thye announced last week that the Department of Agriculture will participate in indemnity payments to Minnesota farms for all identified reactors disposed of under the new state brucellosis eradication law.

A new state law passed during the recently adjourned session of the Minnesota legislature provides that, after July 1, 1957, all reactors now being held in Plan B herds be disposed of. The Minnesota attorney general has ruled that indemnity must be paid for all such reactors even though they have been held in the owners' herd for an indefinite time since they were tested and identified as reactors.

Prior to Senator Thye's contact with the Department of Agriculture, department rules did not allow the federal government to participate in the indemnity payments unless the entire Plan B herd were to be retested.

The department has now assured Senator Thye that Federal payments will be made for these Plan B reactors without requiring a complete retesting of the whole herd under the new federal rule. Plan B herds will be handled as Plan A herds once the old reactors have been removed. This means that the herd would be retested within sixty days of the disposal of the reactors and retested again after 120 days.

Senator Thye said that the new ruling would be especially beneficial to the state of Minnesota in its program of eradication of brucelosis. If the Federal government would not participate in the indemnity payments, the state fund might be exhausted and the brucellosis program in Minnesota would have to be suspended.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

All's well that ends well, so they say. We were scouting the town for items of interest for the local citizenry Thursday and saw an incident that could have ended in tragedy, both fancied and real.

A boy about 10 was casting a lure into the Thief River just above the 8th st. bridge on the east side when he got a little too much motion into one of his casts and rod, reel and the whole works went into the river where it drops off rather suddenly.

The kid began to cry and at the same time stripped off his shoes and rolled up his jeans to wade after his tackle but luckily some youths across the river in a boat came over and retrieved the rod and reel for the boy.

We're glad they were there—while trying to dissuade the kid from wading in we got an admission from him he couldn't swim and if he had tried getting the lost tackle he may easily have gone in beyond his depth because of the steep, muddy part of the river where he'd thrown the outfit.

There were a lot of disappointed flying club members at the airport Sunday, all because folks in town evidently don't particularly give a whoop whether we have an active progressive airport in town or not, even if their taxes do support it.

The boys of the club really put everything they had into making that breakfast a success and we'll have to give them a pat on the back for really putting out a delicious meal. So good, in fact, we had a couple of helpings of pancakes and sausages ourselves.

The proceeds from the breakfast were to have gone into improving the club airplanes, which, in one case, needs a lot of improving.

Well, we'll have to give a small handful of local folks a lot of praise for coming out. We have to hand it to pilots and their families from other northern Minnesota towns for giving the boys grand support.

But, when it comes to supporting local flight enterprises you'll have to admit a little town like Fertile has it all over Thief River Falls. Fertile turned out nearly 100 percent last year. We're certain there was less than one-fourth of one percent of the local population at the Thief River Falls flying club event!

Flying just doesn't appeal to folks these days, apparently. Perhaps they've made flying TOO SAFE . . . so that now it lacks excitement and glamor. Is that it?

Nowadays the teen-age boys would rather roar around town in an old rattletrap they lovingly call a "hotrod" than learn to make like a bird. We can remember the days when every boy in his teens wanted to be an Air Corps pilot or build a souped-up racing airplane in his own back yard.

We can remember back in our own teens—way back in the mid thirties, that is, when we'd WALK the SEVEN MILES to our hometown airport NOT to get a ride . . . but just gaze longingly and lovingly at those beautiful, old, slow, awkward, unsafe biplanes. Some of 'em were still flying with the old OX-5 engine from World War I, the rest had the then-new Wright, Lycoming or P-W engines.

The Continental engine so common in today's light airplanes was still in the process of evolution. So was the Cub . . . in those haydays it had squared-off wingtips and tandem open cockpits. Many airplanes flying nowadays had never been designed then.

The "Gooney-Bird" of today was the sleek, new, latest-word-in-flying DC-3 then and if you'd mentioned a jet you'd have been laughed out of the county!

A pilot was somebody then. A lot of them still wore whipcord riding breeches, boots . . . and, of course, the indispensable helmet and goggles! The pilot had glamor, he had thrills and everyone envied him.

Airplanes were expensive in those days, as they are now. So a bunch of fellows around the U. S. decided to build their own planes. Fellows like Pietenpol down in Spring Valley, Minn. Or Fred Heath, who used Indian motorcycle engines in his little parasol monoplanes. Pietenpol's planes were designed around the Ford Model T or A engines. There are a few "Piets" flying even now!

But, while flying was still under terrific impetus from Lind's epic flight to Paris and the homebuilts were going strong (as were the various factor-designed lightplanes then new on the market) a few boys cracked up and some goon in Washington, acting because a few crackpots and cranks wrote letters about these "unsafe homebuilt planes" decided he'd get tough.

He did. Flying has become safer. And fewer people than ever seem interested in flying nowadays. Oh, there was a boom in pilot training right after the war but the government, through CAA, got tough again and all those new pilots didn't keep on flying.

Well, this column is getting pretty long so we'd best continue next week. So long for now!

Chapel Completed at Lake Bronson Bible Camp

Pictured above is the newly completed chapel at the Galilee Lutheran Bible Camp, Lake Bronson. This is the sixth building to be completed within the past four years at the new camp site. All six of these buildings have been built almost entirely by volunteer labor recruited from the churches of the Thief River Falls district of the Lutheran Free Church.

A large dining hall, cooks' and caretaker cabin, pastors' cabin, two large dormitories and chapel are the buildings now completed. All buildings except the chapel are equipped with running water and indoor bathroom facilities. Capacity of the camp is 150 campers besides staff, and the chapel seats 450 people. Approximately $25,000 have been invested in the building of the camp.

Alfred Skarstads Unhurt in Tornado

Local friends of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Skarstad of Fargo, formerly of Thief River Falls, received word that they had escaped unhurt in the tornado that devastated a large portion of Fargo last Thursday evening. Their home was on the edge of the stricken area, and their house was undamaged, altho the garage was damaged to some extent.

Cargill Grain Crop Summary

Tornadoes, heavy rains, high winds, and cool, cloudy weather have prevailed over wide areas of the major grain producing states since our last report. Storm damage to crops has been unusually high in portions of the Central, South Central, and Southwestern States where planting of warm season crops has also been delayed.

Solid moisture is now generally adequate to excessive throughout most of the U. S. in contrast to the drouthy conditions that covered much of the western Corn Belt and the Southwestern States in 1956. The stage of development of most crops is generally late. A period of warm, sunny weather would be welcome in many areas for the harvesting of winter grains, for the cultivation of row crops, for haying, and for promoting the growth of spring seeded small grains.

The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for mid-July calls for subnormal precipitation over the northeastern quarter of the country and also in the far southwest. In the remainder of the country rainfall is predicted to exceed seasonal normals.

All Wheat

All wheat production in 1957 is forecast at 971 million bushels, according to the June 10 Government Crop Report, 3 percent less than the 1956 production and 14 percent less than average.

Winter Wheat

Winter wheat production based on June 1 conditions was estimated at 736 million bushels—up 33 million bushels from the May 1 forecast. Increases in Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado during the past month more than offset decreases in several South Central and Southeastern States. The indicated average yield of 23.6 bushels per acre if realized would establish a new record.

Harvesting of winter wheat in much of the Southwest has been further delayed because of wet fields, lodging, and heavy growth. Combining is two to three weeks late in the early maturing sections of Texas and Oklahoma where yields from early cut fields show a wide variation in both yield and quality.

All Spring Wheat

The spring wheat crop is off to a good start in the main producing States with production indicated at 235 million bushels based on June 1 prospects. Soil moisture is mostly adequate for present requirements but due to heavy stands normal rainfall will be required to carry the crop through to maturity. Estimated production in the two leading States of North Dakota and Montana is down 22 million bushels from 1956. The outlook in South Dakota shows an increase of 15 million bushels above last year's small crop.

A durum crop of about 30 million bushels is indicated for the Dakotas, Montana and Minnesota which almost equals the 10-year average.

Oats And Barley

Cool weather and adequate rainfall continue to favor the growth and development of oats and barley in the West Central and Northern States where the current condition of both crops is generally good to very good with some areas reporting excellent prospects.

Oats show considerable variation in condition and stage of development in the eastern Corn Belt depending on time of seeding and amount of rainfall. In the Central States the crop is much later than last year but is generally ahead of normal in the northern sections.

Harvesting of winter oats and winter barley has slowly progressed northward into Missouri and Illinois but has been seriously hampered by heavy rains throughout the Southern States. High winds and heavy rains have also resulted in considerable lodging in those areas where growth is rank.

Prospects for oats and barley are generally good to excellent in the Pacific Northwest.

Rye

The condition of rye on June 1 was reported at 87 percent of normal—down 1 point from the high condition a month ago but 6 points above the 10-year average of 81 percent.

Growing conditions for rye have been generally good except where rainfall has been excessive, as in the Southwest, or where cool weather retarded development, as in the Upper Midwest. Weather conditions have been favorable for rye in Kansas and Nebraska, while prospects for high yields are promising in South Dakota.

Flax

Prospects for flax continue very promising in most sections of the Upper Midwest as a result of timely seeding and favorable crop growth. Early planted fields average 8 to 10 inches in height in the southern portions of South Dakota and 6 to 8 inches in height for the more advanced fields in North Dakota. Only a limited acreage of flax remains to be planted in the northern portions of Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana.

Spraying for weed control has been active in all areas.

Army Recruits to Go to Fort Carson, Colo. after July 1

Recruits Previously Had Been Forwarded to Camp Chaffee, Arkansas

Changes in the flow of incoming personnel from Army induction and recruiting main stations to training installations were announced in Minneapolis Thursday by the U.S. Army military district for Minnesota.

Effective July 1, all enlistees and inductees—with the exception of those individuals enlisting for six months of active duty for training under the Reserve forces program and enlistees in the Women's Army Corps—will be processed to the Army reception station newly activated at Fort Carson, Colorado, from induction and recruiting main stations in the following cities: Des Moines, Iowa; Fargo, North Dakota; Sioux Falls, South Dakota; Omaha, Nebraska; Minneapolis, Minnesota; and Denver, Colorado. Previously the flow from these stations was to Fort Chaffee, Arkansas.

The flow from the induction and recruiting main station in Kansas City, Missouri, previously to Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, will now go to the reception station at Fort Chaffee.

All six-month enlistees in Minnesota will continue to go to the U. S. Army Reserve training center at Fort Leonard Wood for their basic training. There will be no change in the flow of women from recruiting main stations directly to the Women's Army Corps Center at Fort McClellan, Alabama. The flow of enlistees and inductees to recruiting main stations as presently in effect will be unchanged.

Summer Pruning

June is a good month to prune flowering shrubs and evergreens. Remove the oldest stems from your spring-flowering shrubs just as soon as they have finished flowering. This method of pruning keeps the shrubs young and preserves the natural form of the plant.

Climbing and species roses which bloom only once should be pruned after they have flowered. Remove old canes, but leave the new shoots that are growing rapidly, because they give you year's flowers.

After hybrid tea roses have finished blooming, remove the flower bud down to the first five leaflets. This will provide a flower stem which will bloom about one month later.

In pruning formal hedges, prune so that the top is narrower than the base. This lets the sunlight strike the base of the plant and keeps it leafy all the way to the ground.

Prune arborvitae, junipers and spruce in early summer while the new growth is still soft. Remove only the ends of the branches that extend beyond the normal form of the tree or shrub. Avoid the sheared, unnatural look which we see so frequently in the foundation planting.

Half or two-thirds of the new growth or candles may be removed from pines during June. This will keep your dwarf mugho pines small and compact. Pinch back the new growth of mugho pine just as the buds are opening.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

I have just been reading reports of state activities over the Memorial Day weekend that were directed toward greater safety on our highways. Most of you may have noticed from the press reports that our record of safety over that week-end was much better than had been predicted by the safety council experts. We intend to repeat the total effort for safety over the coming Fourth of July week-end in the hope that then, too, we can keep traffic accidents at a minimum.

Civil defense officials and volunteers did an excellent job in helping to control traffic through their auxiliary police units at points of heavy traffic and dangerous intersections; and ladies civil defense units served refreshments to the men. The Minnesota National Guard was on duty and contributed valuable services. Our state highway patrol was out in full force, and the state liquor control agents worked throughout the entire holiday week-end to encourage complete law enforcement, particularly as it related to the sale of liquor to minors and to persons who were intoxicated.

In this effort, sixteen liquor control agents inspected an amazing total of 1,248 licensees. All of the establishments licensed to sell liquor or beer knew of the special enforcement efforts that were being made, and the great majority of them showed real appreciation of the safety drive and complete willingness to cooperate. Agents reported that: "the majority favor strict enforcement"; "I found the bartenders cooperative"; "many of them were enthusiastic about this effort to cut down highway deaths"; and "I did not see one case of speeding or reckless driving."

Coperation of Local Officials

Liquor control agents must, of course, have the cooperation of local officials in order to do an effective job. In only one locality did the reports indicate that such cooperation was lacking. In this case, when the agent reported to local enforcement officials that the law was being violated by the serving and the sale of intoxicating liquor to minors the attitude seemed to be "so what's the difference."

In any law enforcement, and particularly in the enforcement of laws to promote safety, the attitude of the people in our communities is of paramount importance. The state can and will mobilize all of its resources. But if we are to succeed in cutting down death and injury over the coming Fourth-of-July holiday period, local officials will be of utmost importance.

Every citizen can help by driving carefully himself, and by indicating serious disapproval of the driving practices that contribute to accidents. And every citizen can help by encouraging local officials to enforce the law.

Sheriff Reports 2 Break-ins Here

Burglars Obtain $45 at 59-Hi Drive-In Thursday

None of the three law enforcement agencies in the city had accidents to report over the past week-end, as the area continues free of highway tragedies.

Deputy Sheriff Eugene Prestegaard reported the 59-Hi drive-in theater was broken into sometime early Thursday and over $45 in cash taken, along with some minor items. The burglars also entered the small ticket booth at the drive-in entry.

Entry into the main building was made by breaking a window on the north side.

Prestegaard also reported investigating the break-in of a vacant house about 1½ miles northeast of the city today. It is not known exactly when the break-in occurred nor what, if anything, was taken but Prestegaard said considerable damage was done to articles in the house by the vandals.

Bagley Youth in Speed Escapade at Detroit Lakes

Dennis Navrapil, 15, Bagley, was being held at Detroit Lakes Thursday after a hectic chase from Hawley, down U.S. Highway 10 which ended in a ditch near Detroit Lakes.

Highway Patrolman Robert E. Knochke, spotted the car near Hawley after being notified by radio to watch for the car the youth had apparently taken without family permission.

Knochke said he pursued the car to Detroit Lakes, and through the town's main street at speeds up to 80 miles an hour, but was unable to overtake it until a tire blew out and the machine went into a ditch near the city.

The patrolman said a number of cars were forced of the highway as the youth sped toward Detroit Lakes and that five cars were sideswiped.

The boy, held for Bagley authorities, was not injured.

Hail and Rain Hit Bemidji Vicinity Thursday Evening

A severe thunderstorm struck the Bemidji area between 6 and 7 p.m. Thursday with hailstones said to measure up to 3½ inches in diameter.

Strong winds toppled a number of trees and heavy rain and hail damaged some cars. Several planes at the municipal airport were reported heavily damaged.

Bemidji police said 1½ inches of rain were recorded in the storm.

Thieves Club Takes Erskine 11-8; Play Winger Wednesday

In game which found the four pitchers used giving up a total of twenty-seven bases on balls, in addition to hitting four batsmen, the Thieves defeated the Erskine Merchants, 11 to 8, in a Northern Minny league game played here Sunday night.

On Wednesday night, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the Winger Tigers will meet the Thieves in a league encounter. And on Sunday, June 30th, the Thieves will play a doubleheader. According to tentative plans, the league-leading Bagley Merchants will be here to play off a postponed game; and an attempt will be made to arrange a game, also playing off of a postponed game, with the Red Lake Falls Lakers for Sunday night.

On Sunday night, in a wild and wooly tilt, the Thieves scored three runs in the 8th inning, all the result of five bases on balls given up by Erskine's Ed Kroeger, to defeat the Merchants, 11 to 8.

The Thieves starting pitcher, Ed Vraa, gave up twelve walks in the 4 1/3 innings that he toiled; and Jesse DuChamp, in relief, doled out four walks. During the game, the Merchants left twenty runners stranded on the bases; and four times the third out was made with Erskines crowding all the bases.

DuChamp turned in a fine game in relief, giving up but two hits and two runs, and his pitching in the 8th inning was especially stout-hearted. In the 8th, with the score tied at 8-all, Erskine's Bob Berger walked; Dick Evenson was safe on an error; Rog Bagne fouled out to catcher Gene Sack; but Bob Cornforth gained a life on an error, and the bases were loaded. Clean-up hitter Dave Sigado whiffed, and dangerous Al Carlson lofted a fly to pitcher DuChamp.

In the game-winning 8th inning for the Thieves, with one out, bases on balls were given to Duane Glass, Joey Poole, Curly Gasperlin, Glen Carlson, and Gene Sack, forcing in a pair of runs, and on Bob Helgeland's fly ball to centerfield, Gasperlin tallied, giving the Thieves their 11 to 8 triumph.

In leading the Times to their win, Clarence Mattson, with a 23-3, Bill Dahlquist, with a 19-6, and Mel Zitzow, with a 22-3, had "25's". Bob Mattson and George Mostue acme in with "24's". The highlight of this week's schedule will be the match between the Northern Chevrolet and the Oen's Appliance. The two teams are tied, with Wilsons, for first place in the league standings.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Pro.

Following last Thursday evening's hectic softball game between the Bridgeman's and the T & S, and which was won by the Bridgeman's by a 6 to 4 score, Bob Carlson required the attentions of a doctor. And the doctor's advice to Bob was that he, Carlson, should sideline himself for ten days. In other words, put himself on the "inactive" list.

That Thursday evening game, incidentally, was one of the best of the season, and if it hadn't been for a spell of wildness by the T & S's Gordy Kaushagen, Red Thyren's club would perhaps have nipped the Bridgeman's.

But to get back to Bob's injury. Pitching for Bridgeman's, Bob gave up a change-of-pace offering to strong-armed Gordy Kaushagen, and Gordy hammered a line drive that bounced off Bob's chest. In an effort to recover the ball, Bob, due to the unsteady footing around the mound, slipped and pulled a ligament in his right leg.

While Bob, the manager, coach, and pitcher for the Bridgeman's is supposed to be out of action; don't bet on it.

This evening in a 6:45 p.m. game, the league-landing Bridgeman's will meet the defending champion Bjorkman's. Carlson, the Bob Carlson that is, will be there, and probably doing the pitching. He's a soft ball pro.

And commenting on softball. While the Bridgeman's and the T & S had a bang-up game in the first of Thursday evening's doubleheader, the second game was the contrary. In that game, Len's Tire Service rolled up a 34 to 11 win over a hapless Holsum Bread squad.

Games that result in scores such as 34 to 11, aren't a benefit to the winners, and they are a disaster to the losers.

Resemblance.

Watching the Brooklyn Dodgers vs. St. Louis Cardinals ball game on TV on Saturday, and a fine game it was too, the comment was expressed on the experiness and finesse and polish with which the Dodgers executed their plays. Another viewer came up with the remark, "Yea, they are real pro's. They have that professional nonchalance just like the Bjorkman's team in the city softball league."

And later on in the game, after first baseman Gil Hodges of the Dodgers had made a back handed stab of a line shot, this individual remarked, "Look at that! Just like the Bjorkman's Doug Tegtmeier." That last remark spoiled our whole day.

Detours and Detours

The state highway department is piling detour upon detour for those local fishermen, and others, who intend to go to the Lake of the Woods area in search of walleyes or recreation.

For the past month or so, a detour has been in force on that stretch of highway 32 between Strathcona and Greenbush. This detour, though hasn't been strictly enforced and some of the more intrepid motorists have been "going through". That is, they were going through until the heavy rains of this past week made a quagmire of the highway near Greenbush. A number of trucks were mired down on Saturday.

And starting some time this week another detour, between Greenbush and Badger, will be set up. This detour will carry the motorist north to Haug and thence east to Badger.

Over in the eastern end of Marshall county, the highway department has set up a detour on highway 89 on the stretch of road from Roseau county line to a point three miles east of Gatzke.

All kinds of troubles and problems for the motorists, and fishermen.

E. C. (Erv) Pearson, the project engineer on the Strathcona and highway 89 jobs, advised that the best way for Lake of the Woods-minded motorists to go would be to take the "blacktop" from Thief River Falls to Grygla. Then follow the county-line highway north to Skime and then west to the "blacktopped" portion of highway 89, and north to Roseau and highway 11.

We travelled over this latter stretch of road on Sunday, and while it is passable, and does make an acceptable detour, it is rough and wash-boardy in places.

Bagley Gets the Breaks

Manager Mel Brustad's Bagley Merchants, the defending champions of the Northern Minny league and, on their records the strongest team in the circuit this season, is getting the "breaks" from the weather.

The rains and wet grounds have piled up numerous postponements, and the playing off of these postponed games will prove a hardship for the pitching staffs of all the teams except the Merchants. Bagley, with righthanders Dave Severud, Jerry Allen, and Vern Nolting and southpaw Ken Severud, is well supplied with first-rate pitching. The Merchants could play a game every day and no' be forced to dig into their reserves for pitching talent. Those that have, apparently, gets.

And not only does manager Brustad have a strong pitching staff, but he has a fine defensive and offensive unit to put on the field. Veterans at all positions; and veterans that are not too old as far as age is concerned. Catching is Tom Wolhowe, a couple of years out of high school; at first base is big Milt Prestemoen; and second base is the hard hitting Earl Erickson; at shortstop is Jerry Reiwer; and at third base is Don Moe. The outfield is patrolled by LeRoy Reiwer, the centerfield burglar, Al Jensen and one of the Severud brothers.

Tuesday, June 25, Cliff's vs. Holsum Bread.
Wednesday, June 26, Len's vs. T & S. Implement.
Thursday, June 27, Bjorkman's vs. Holsum Bread.

The City softball league schedule will have one of its "climax" games on this week's slate, with the league-leading Bridgeman's playing the defending league champion Bjorkman's on Monday evening on the East Side diamond.

Bridgeman's, with a record of four straight wins, have a one game lead over the second place Bjorkman's and Len's Tire Service, both of whom have three wins and a loss marks. There is a possibility that the Bridgeman's will be without the services of their strong-armed righthander, Bob Carlson, for Monday evening's tilt. Carlson, in pitching the Bridgeman's a 6 to 4 win over the T & S Implement on Thursday evening, pulled a ligament in his leg. Even if he is available for tonight's game, the tow-head will be somewhat crippled.

This week's schedule:

Wednesday, June 26th.

Winger at Thief River Falls.
Erskine at Red Lake Falls.
Bagley at Fosston.

The Bagley Merchants, with their well-balanced team and strong pitching staff, continues to pace the Northern Minnesota baseball league as the circuit approaches the end of the first round of play.

Except for the playing off of numerous postponed games, and a number of these postponements are slated to be played next Sunday when the league has an open date, the league's game of Wednesday night will conclude the first round.

Only three games were played during the week, with last Wednesday night's slate being "weathered out", and in those games Thief River Falls, Bagley, and Fosston were the winners. The Thieves scored a 11 to 8 win over Erskine in a game played at Thief River Falls; Fosston, also won by an 11 to 8 tally, defeated the Lakers at Red Lake Falls; and Bagley trounced the Winger Tigers, 14 to 1, in a game played at Bagley.

This week's highlight game should be the contest slated for the Fosston diamond on Wednesday night when the league's leaders, Bagley play the runner-up Fosston team. Other Wednesday night games will have Erskine at Red Lake Falls, and Winger at Thief River Falls.

TRF Flying Club OK's Assessment Plan for Members

Also Decides Friday to Get Bids on Rebuilding Larger of Club's Planes

An unusually good attendance was on hand Friday evening when the Thief River Falls Flying Club held its general meeting at the municipal airport cafe.

Club President Kenneth Wendel presided over the session which had to do with club finances and aircraft maintenance. There was some opposition to a special assessment of club members but the assessment was passed by a large majority.

At an earlier meeting members of the club approved the board of directors' amending the by-laws to permit special assessments, and copies of new by-law amendments were given each member present. Each member not present will receive copies by mail, club officers said, so that every member is familiar with the enabling amendment and the rules pertaining to collection of assessments.

Howard Luhe, club maintenance officer and a member of the board of directors, was named head of a committee to determine the extent of rebuilding the larger of the club's two aircraft and to receive bids on the job. The work will probably start here within the next week, since a long lay-up would represent considerable financial loss, club officers stated.

Other questions discussed included ways and means of getting more club members to fly more often as the great number of inactive members currently on the roster is a thorn in the club's side. Some provisions to correct this were written into the newly-enacted by-law amendments.

14,000 Widows of Vets Entitled to Bigger Payments

Widows of 14,000 veterans stand to lose money unless they apply for increased compensation payments within the next two weeks, Veterans Administration said today.

They are widows whose husbands died of service-connected causes before this year, and who may have the higher payments dated back to January 1 if they apply by July 1, VA added.

VA said the 104,000 widows eligible for the increased benefit have been notified, and that 90,000 already have made application.

With a few exceptions, those applying after July 1 will have their payments increased only as of the day VA gets the application.

Widows who have not made application for the higher payments are urged to contact the nearest VA office immediately for details.

Potato Marketing Agreement Is Topic of G. Forks Meeting

Talks by National Potato Council officials highlighted the annual meeting of the Red River Valley Potato Growers Assn. Thursday in the University Fieldhouse in Grand Forks.

A. E. Mercker, executive director, and Perrin Edmunds, president of the Council, were featured speakers on a program that also included Arlon Hazen, director of the North Dakota Agriculture College Experiment Station; Aurilla I. Smith of the Northwest Marketing Service; and Bernard Imming, secretary of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Assn.

Claude Ebling, general agriculture agent for the Soo Line Railroad and E. J. Hanson, traffic director, also appeared.

Most of the talks centered around the proposed marketing agreement in the Valley, with the comments of the speakers well summed up in a report by Lyle Currie, association executive secretary.

The agreement, Currie said, is a necessity for the area in surplus years and a great factor in influencing prices. It is an important part of an overall marketing program and is a means of creating greater acceptance of Red River Valley potatoes by putting a higher quality product before the public.

Mercker cited co-operation as the key to success in combating low prices and expressed an optimistic view for future price rises.

He said that acreage reduction and diversion of lower grades were some factors to be considered to raise prices and prevent another 10,000,000-bushel oversupply such as was experienced in the past year.

Currie also called for a common means of identifying Red River Valley potatoes, explaining that shippers are using different brand names with nothing to identify their potatoes as Valley products.

He said that "Red River Red" the smiling potato character in the fur-lined cap and coat, had been adopted as the Valley trademark, and asked that shippers use this insignia on their packs in addition to their own brand names.

Driving Tips for Safe July Fourth

Dodge Safety Consultant Makes Ten Suggestions

As millions of fun-seeking motorists head for the lakes, mountains or beaches over the Fourth of July holiday, safety experts are hopeful that extra care and caution will keep the highway accident toll at an all-time low.

To help achieve this goal, Jeanne [illegible], Dodge safety consultant, has prepared this list of 10 driving tips.

1. Control your temper when behind the wheel. Highways are crowded and travel is slow; don't "blow-up" and take unnecessary chances.
2. Start early, expect frequent delays and leave for home early, preferably during daylight.
3. Watch out for careless drivers who are over-anxious to reach their destinations.
4. Slow down, to allow passing cars extra room to get back into the right lane ahead of you.
5. Always give the other driver more than his share of the road.
6. Get into the proper lane well in advance of turning—and always signal your intention to turn or stop.
7. Pull your car entirely off the road when stopping for sight-seeing or a roadside picnic.
8. Check traffic in all directions, especially to the rear, before pulling out of a parking spot onto the highway.
9. Reduce speed at sundown and drive within the range of your headlights.
10. Concentrate on your driving—it's a full time job.

Plans for Minnesota Centennial Advance

Scores of local and regional projects to commemorate Minnesota's 100th anniversary as a state in 1958 are taking shape, centennial county chairmen report.

Some 70 county chairmen and 3500 committee members are developing plans ranging from painting of a sternwheel steamer in Winona to a retracing of a famous Red River ox-cart trail from Pembina to St. Paul.

Winona County Historical society's old paddlewheel river steamboat, the James P. Pearson, is undergoing a complete paint job. The sternwheeler was purchased last year and at that time, Dr. L. I. Younger, president of the society stated, "It's quite important to emphasize that rehabilitation of the Pearson for a historical showpiece will be completed in 1958, when the centennial of the state will be celebrated."

Exhibits of paintings, photography, sculture and literature by residents of Winona county are highlights proposed by that county's centennial commitee.

The Marshall county committee has outlined an ambitious program which includes re-tracing of one of the famous Pembina ox-cart trails and restoration of the Old Mill state park flour mill.

Pennington county's committee plans to cooperate in the Pembina ox-cart trail project as well as set up a roadside parking area on the bank of Red Lake River at the point marking the former western border of an Indian reservation opened to settlement in 1904.

One of the first county committees to receive funds to initiate actual programming for their participation in the centennial is Clay county. This group was granted $5,000 from its county commissioners. Total budget for their participation will run approximately $12,500.

Historical pageants are being organized in Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Clay, Renville, Rice, Traverse, Brown and Nobles counties.

Red Lake county's group has gone ahead with its decision to establish a historical museum which will be open to the public throughout 1958.

Crops and Soils Day Set July 18

Annual Event Is Slated at Northwest School

Final plans are being completed for the annual Crops and Soils Day at the Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston, for July 18, according to Dr. Olaf C. Soine, agronomist at the Northwest Experiment Station.

Dr. Soine indicates there will be some changes in the nature of the program this year. Visitation of all plots will commence at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. All plot visitation will be completed by noon.

A very interesting program is shaping up for the early afternoon and will be completed by about 3:00 p.m. The Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association meeting is tentatively scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the library of the Northwest School of Agriculture.

Editorials . . .

Our quote of week last week failed to name the author so we are repeating it. It is worth repeating.

"One fact stands out in bold relief in the history of men's attempts for betterment. That is that when compulsion is used, only resentment is aroused, and the end is not gained. Only through moral suasion and appeal to men's reason can a movement succeed."

—Samuel Gompers

Good Reporting

The tornado belt lies far to the south of us and severe storms of the type that was so disastrous in Fargo last week are unusual. A few years ago a twister did much damage in a Canadian village north of here, and we can remember the Fergus Falls storm back in the 'twenties that took a heavy toll of lives and property. We will be well satisfied if they do not get closer to us than that.

As television spectators of the Fargo storm we wish to pay tribute to the members of the staff of the Fargo station for doing an outstanding job of reporting the disaster, warning of its approach and telling what had happened shortly after it accurred. It was a nice piece of work. No doubt the advance bulletins saved lives.

Canada Votes

A couple of weeks ago Canada had a national election. On Monday, June 10, the voters expressed their preferences. They voted out an administration that had been in power more than 20 years.

On Friday, less than two weeks after the election, a new government had been formed and had assumed responsibility for the management of the federal government. Under their system they move fast.

And under their system the head of the government always has the support of a majority of the members of their law-making body. If that majority turns against him on any important issue then he no longer is the head of the government—unless in the election that than is called the voters give him a vote of confidence by electing a Parliament that is favorable to him.

One of the serious disadvantages our system has, in comparison with that of the Canadians, is the possibility of a deadlock between the legislative and executive branches of our government.

Our country suffered because of such a situation during the critical last two years of both the Hoover and the Wilson administrations. As we get closer to another election there probably will be more division along partisan lines between President Eisenhower and the present Democratic congress. The Canadians have a distinct advantage in being able to break up any such deadlocks immediately. We must bide our time until another regular election, when the situation may or may not be improved.

Under the Canadian system the party in power must assume greater responsibility as a party. Party loyalty among the members is essential to continued control.

In light of these differences the Canadian election has been especially interesting. We have witnessed a revolution, conducted in the best traditions of democratic processes, a revealing episode in the orderly life of our northern neighbor.

How Quotas Are Set

The Mountain Lake Observer wonders how quotas are established for the many fund raising campaigns that are conducted each year, and that is a thing we probably do not wonder about often enough. Says the Observer:

"We have often wondered how the quotas were set for the numerous fund drives put on in Cottonwood county. Were they portioned out according to population in the state; were they set up according to national averages of population and wealth? In some cases this does not seem to be the true picture.

"Some fund raising organizations have set quotas above the proper proportion for our county and state and when these quotas have been met and exceeded, large quotas have followed the next year.

"We don't mind doing our fair share but the idea of subsidizing state and national fund driving organizations for the benefit of large staffs and inflated programs tends to discredit many of the fine and fair minded charities so much needed in our nation.

"The only check we have on the need of these organizations for funds and the estimates as to our reasonable share of the contributions, come to us through such control agencies as the Community Chest. To keep the requests of these charities within reasonable limits, and in proper relationship with the needs of other recognized organizations, is the purpose of the Community Chest. That is one of the important justifications for its existance.

Another justification is the saving in time and dollars that are effected under the one-drive-a-year plan, putting 'all of the begs in one askit.'

Some of the professional do-gooders have no liking either for the control or the economy that comes through a centralized drive. These have big money-raising organizations of their own, with lots of high pressure solicitors on their own staffs and highly dramatized, emotional appeals to excite the masses. They get a bigger take, of course, going it their own way.

Still Legislating

The Wisconsin legislature convened early in January and is still in session, with most of the important matters still to be disposed of. There is no constitutional limit on the Wisconsin sessions as we have here in Minnesota. If it were not for the ninty day deadline imposed by our constitution it is reasonable to presume that our sessions would drag along just at they do in Wisconsin.

That ninty-day limit probably does not allow enough time, and some extension would be justified. But extending the time limit is not going to do away with the last minute rush of business and clock-covering. Until some drastic changes have been made in human nature the last minute rush will always be with us.

Controlling a Killer

(Grand Rapids Herald Review)

During the last decade, sea lampreys have worked up the Great Lakes and have virtually destroyed lake trout fishing. The parasites which grow to a length of about a foot, bore into the sides of the fish, eventually killing them.

It is good news that a control method being tried in Wisconsin is really working. The method used is to put electric barriers across the streams leading into the Great Lakes. When the lampreys come up to spawn they are killed by methods which do not affect fish.

The lamprey elimination program is a joint American-Canadian venture with costs projected at well over a million dollars. The Great Lakes Fisheries Commission expects to build several hundred barriers this year. By 1958 it is hoped that lamprey spawning will be almost completely eliminated. By the end of their 5-year life cycle, it is hoped that this hazard to fishing will be gone.

With the lampreys eliminated, it will still be a work of many years and large expenditures to build back the trout in the Great Lakes. But it will be well worth the effort.

The lamprey episode may have some meaning for other fish problems. It demonstrates that answers can generally be found for most fish problems. But it takes time to find the right solution. So it is important to see that fish research is done before problems become acute. It costs the public less that way.

Shorter Work Week

(Morris Tribune)

Much attention has been given recently to the possibility of shorter work weeks in the future. The trend in weekly hours of work reveals that today's work week is 4 or 5 hours shorter than it was 30 years ago and on this basis, forecasters are predicting that we will have a four-day work week, at least in the manufacturing industries, within 25 years.

It is true that our technological advance has been such that a person working five days today can live better than one who labored six days years ago. It is also likely that our advance will continue so that one may live as well on four days work a quarter of a century hence as he lives today on five days.

Be that as it may, it is important for people to realize that in considering the ideal length of the work week, they have before them a choice between more abundance and more leisure. The longer anyone works, the more goods and services he can enjoy. The same is true for the American people as a nation. We have available for consumption only which we produce.

Legislation, collective bargaining, hourly rates, government edicts cannot change this basic fact.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

Minnesota Historical Society

The Big Six

Minnesotans have long been accustomed to the charge that some of the area's famous ten thousand lakes might be better described as puddles. The state has, however, at least six big lakes, lying wholly within its borders that are indisputably impressive in size.

The largest lake entirely within Minnesota is Red Lake, which has 282,240 acres of water and 127 miles of shoreline. Leech, Mille Lacs, and Winnibigosh lakes are next in order in size. Interestingly enough, Lake Vermilion, which is fifth in size with 38,400 acres of water, has by far the longest shoreline—210 miles. The smallest of Minnesota's "big six" is Lake Pokegama, which has 21,760 acres of water.

Dalrymple's Bonanza

In the day when the average Minnesota farm was even smaller than it is today, the large-scale farming operations of Oliver Dalrymple were highly unusual.

Dalrymple arrived in Minnesota in 1856, a lawyer and a graduate of Yale, to seek his fortune on the frontier. After amassing some capital, he purchased, in 1866, 2,500 acres in Washington county about twenty miles south of St. Paul. By using fifteen plows at once, he broke 1,700 acres of land the first fall and planted it with wheat the following spring.

The profit from the first year's crop is said to have paid for the land, machinery, and other costs. Within five or six years Dalrymple is thought to have made a quarter of a million dollars.

Dalrymple was not afraid to invest large sums in his farm. He astounded his neighbors by purchasing two steam thrashing machines which cost fifteen hundred dollars apiece—at a time when few frontier farmers used any machinery; and when the cash income of most farmers was under five hundred dollars a year. By 1873 Dalrymple had 2,200 acres under cultivation, employed seventy men, and was making a profit of $50,000 a year.

In 1876 he transferred operations to the Red River valley. It was no accident that he was entrusted with the management of huge land-grant tracts there, for he had already proven his ability in applying modern mass-production methods to agriculture. So successful was he that the Dalrymple farms in North Dakota became famous throughout the world.

Farmers Wanted

"We want farmers. We are almost ready to offer a bounty on farmers," trumpeted Minnesota's first newspaper, the "Minnesota Pioneer," on August 16, 1849. "And we recommend to them to come—come as soon as they can," the editor continued. As bait to attract farmers, he offered the information that "corn and oats have retailed here during most of the present season at 50 and 75 cents. Potatoes at 75 and $1."

In an appeal to the "Stockbreeders of the United States" in the same issue, the paper reported that "In new Minnesota . . . beef, readily retails at seven cents per pound. No finer opening for cattle and capital, can be found in the world. . . . No man here thinks of selling a beef to be butchered," the editor said. "Cattle are all wanted for work, for milk and for increase. We have known ten dollars offered and refused here, for a calf nine weeks old, to slaughter.

"We will invite you, farmers," he concluded, "in Wisconsin and Illinois, from the Wabash and even from down as far east as Arostook, where the sun rises before day break, to come to Minnesota with your cash and your cattle and your wives and your little ones, where the climate is pure and bracing, the soil rich and the streams stirring with fish."

Lumberjacks Mail Box

A sky pilot who visited the logging camps in the Rum River area in 1873 set down the following description of the lumberjack's informal but effective mail service.

"At a fork in the road" near "we passed a Pine Woods Post Office—a stump on which was nailed a candle-box with a slit for mailing letters and a slide for enabling each comer to look over the contents." Any visitor to the camps, he continued, "is likely to be a mail carrier, and is greeted with inquiries for letters, papers, and the latest news from 'The States,' as the outside world is called in this independent republic of the woods."

Scalp Bounties

Following the Sioux Uprising of 1862, white settlers in Minnesota were so incensed at the Indians that the state offered a bounty for Sioux scalps. The red men were hunted by parties of volunteer scouts who were to receive wages of two dollars a day for their efforts, and the "St. Peter Tribune" of July 22, 1863, announced that "additional compensation of $25.00 will be given to each scout upon producing satisfactory evidence that he has killed a hostile Sioux warrior."

In addition the paper reported that "a reward of seventy-five dollars will likewise be paid to any person" scout or not "for every hostile Sioux warrior killed . . . within the State upon the production of the proper proofs."

Some notion of the settlers' inflamed attitude is shown by the editor's comment that these bounties should "give citizens an inducement to 'attack, pursue, and destroy' the bloody vagabonds threatening our settlements, and for doing a public service they can claim their reward."

CORN TASSEL MAY BE NATIONAL EMBLEM

By the time this gets into print the United States may have a new floral emblem. The vision and patient persuasion of a native Minnesotan have gained for the graceful Corn Tassel not only national acclaim but the almost certain approval of Congress as the official United States flower. In bringing about this recognition of American maize Miss Margo Cairns of Minneapolis has won the proud sobriquent Miss Corn Tassel. "It sustained our country's natives, our first settlers, and all who have come after, it is raised and used throughout our land, it's beautiful, it's useful—it's a perfectly natural choice," is the logic behind Miss Cairns' imminent success.

JUST WHAT DO YOU FISH FOR?

Some fish for profit, some for food, most for fun. When they wet a hook, what are Minnesota's 300,000 annual non-resident fishermen looking for? Conservation Volunteer gave 'em second and third choice, so the figures add to more than 100% in this revealing survey: 68% hope for walleye, 40% get 'em; 20% prefer Northern, 41% get 'em; 23% fish for bass, only 14% catch 'em; 10% like panfish, 34% get 'em; 4% say bullheads, 2% trout, 4% really fish for fun, with absolutely no preference. Eight percent get bullheads, only 1% get trout; and 6% actually wind up with nothing! In Saint Louis county, where the catch is preponderantly walleye, northern, and trout; 51% of non-resident fishermen are from Illinois, 11% from Iowa; 80% of Le Sueur county's game fish are bullheads, 92% of their visitors are from Iowa; Hubbard county with the wide variety of fish, draws fairly equally from Illinois, Iowa, and several other states.

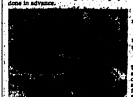
ANGEL FOOD SURPRISE

NANCY HAVEN

Want a different dessert? Try Angel Food Surprise. The guests won't know the surprise until the cake is cut. The wonderful part for you is no last minute rushing . . . all preparation is done in advance.



- 1 10-inch angel food cake (not iced).
- ½ pint whipping cream
- 1 cup washed, drained berries
- ½ cup Beet Sugar
- ½ cup chopped walnut meats
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

USING a serrated knife cut a 1-inch slice from the top of the angel food cake; set aside. With 2 forks carefully tear out cake to form a 2-inch wide groove around the center of the cake. Make the groove about 2 inches deep. (Use the torn cake pieces for another dessert—such as with a pudding.)

WHIP cream; as it thickens add Beet Sugar gradually. Fold in berries, nut meats and flavoring.

FILL groove in cake with cream mixture—try not to leave any air spaces. Replace top on cake, pushing it down gently so top is quite level.

FROST entire cake with a 7-minute icing, tinted with red food coloring. Place cake in refrigerator for four hours. Each slice will have a chilled center of cream and berries. Serves 12.

Brings "Steady Yield"

Harold Davy, Houston county farmer, says he's "more sure of a steady yield" because of conservation farming. He has put in contour strips, diversion dikes, planted trees and renovated pastures during the past 10 years on his 340-acre farm. Besides saving soil and moisture, he has gained a 35 percent increase in crop yields, along with a saving in time, energy, fuel and machinery. Harlie Larson, Houston county extension soils agent, reports that the Davy farm has been a stopping place on several recent farm tours and demonstrations.

Aids Wildlife

Phil Boxrud, Watonwan soil conservation district cooperator, has worked a wildlife habitat into his farm conservation plan. He has a wildlife border of grass 2 rods wide around his fields. The border is an ideal nesting ground and also provides shelter and food.

Gains Popularity

More than 75,000 purple osier willows have been planted in the East Agassiz soil conservation district during the past 15 years, says Don Broberg, SCS worker at Twin Valley. This willow grows fast and by the second winter gives better protection than a snow fence. It has no central trunk, but has a dense cluster of whiplike growth. It normally grows to 9-12 feet in 5-6 years. It's also known as the bush willow, the rural willow and basket willow.

Chopped, Dried Hay

A hay chopper and barn dryer make his hay go farther, says William Russell, Sibley county farmer. He cuts his hay one day, puts it in the barn the next day at about 40 percent moisture, then dries it with a mechanical mow dryer system. "We save more leaves, the cows eat more of the hay, and there's less 'left over' hay to throw away," he says. "I figure this cuts down by a third the amount of hay needed for the cows over winter, compared to baling hay."

Three billion oil-industry dollars bought 58,160 wells, financed 2.5 billion barrels of production, and added 1,187 million barrels of crude oil to the nation's reserves last year.

SCANNING THE NEWS

DESPITE the high interest rates it is now offering the Federal Treasury is having difficulty in funding its securities as they become due without having to pay out billions in cash.

Here is an example. Last month the Treasury did a refinancing job on about $4.2 billions of October 1954 Securities which had been issued at 1⅝% interest. Upon maturity the Treasury exchanged $2.34 billion of the old securities for new 11-month certificates at 3½% interest, twice as high as the old interest; it exchanged $647 million for 58-month notes paying interest at 3⅝%, but holders of $1.16 billion of the old notes refused to accept new securities in exchange even at the high interest rates and demanded to be paid off in cash. Within the next several months the Treasury will have some $75 billions in maturing securities to fund. If the ratio of cash to exchange in securities runs about the same as in the $4 billion deal, it would mean the Treasury would have to come up with something like $18 billions in cash, which would take some doing.

The McClelland Senate Investigating Committee plans to take up soon, a study of what is happening to Labor Welfare funds. The estimate there is more than $25 billions in these welfare funds. The labor unions alone, however, control only about 2% of them. About 8% are controlled by joint union-management trustees, with 90% controlled entirely by management.

In addition, Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) has introduced a bill which calls for full disclosure of fund operations by management alone, and to this management, through the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, is strenuously objecting. To which Senator Douglas asks, "What do you have to hide?"

These labor welfare funds are not private funds. They are trustee funds held for the benefit of workers and their families. The manner in which they are invested, the safety of the funds, whether private gain is being derived from them, are of public interest. They are also of interest to the beneficiaries, even though management pays in a percentage of the funds, and thus members of unions, individually have a right to know how they are being used, for $25 billions can have quite an impact upon the economy of the nation.

The NAM maintains that in the funds solely operated by management, neither the Federal Government nor the Unions have a right to look at them. However the McClelland Committee, if it carries through, will want to take a good look, and Senator Douglas declares: "Congress has stated and the courts have held that employer contributions toward welfare and pension benefits are in the nature of compensation to employees. Whether the funds for such programs are contributed by the employers, the employees or both, the employees have a right to know the financial details of such plans as well as to have their interest in such plans protected."

If pension and welfare funds represent deferred payments or wages for workers, as the courts have held, then of vital interest particularly to the Union members is what is done or should be done with the income from the funds.

New Virginia plant improves iron ore

Today, American steel mills are demanding better iron ores to enable them to increase the efficiency of their blast furnaces. Most of our remaining Minnesota ores cannot meet the new quality standards without special processing. So we must construct expensive new plants like the one above to improve even our direct shipping ores.

And, if Minnesota is to continue as one of the world's major suppliers of iron ore, we will need still more research . . . more of these costly new plants . . . requiring additional investments of many millions of dollars in our state. Every Minnesotan has a stake in encouraging this favorable climate for investment and employment and should support it.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

Floo[illegible] Affect East R[illegible] Lake, Polk Co. [illegible]eas

Torrential Rains Cause Heavy Water Damage to Crops

Heavy rainfall during the past few days has sent two area streams on a rampage across low-lying farmland, causing damage estimated by state officials at $3 million or more to crops, livestock and buildings in the areas affected.

Fortunately, no lives have been reported lost in the flooding of the Clearwater River, Lost River and Ruffy Brook in Red Lake and East Polk counties. Thousands of acres of growing crops have been inundated and some livestock loss has been experienced by flooded-out residents of the rural areas mostly affected.

(While some bad flooding has been caused by the overflow of the Clearwater river, necessitating preventative measures against bridge washouts and causing untold damage to growing crops along that stream, the worst flooding is taking place along the rampaging Ruffy Brook.

Normally Ruffy Brook is a small stream that flows out of Pine Lake just south of Gonvick and empties into the Hill river east of Terrebonne. Now it is a raging ruffian that has engulfed thousands of acres of land along its bed and drowned several head of livestock as it did so.

As of Wednesday afternoon Oklee had not been flooded but the muddy water are edging closer to the north side of the small home-town of Rep. Coya Knutson, who announced Wednesday she had appealed to the Farmers Home Administration to grant a production or special emergency

People who wish to contribute to this drive may contact the following people or leave their contributions of clothing and other items at the places listed by Monday, July 1: Holt Mercantile, Mrs. Louie Sagstuen; Newfolden Hardware, Louie Sagstuen; Strandquist Produce, Roy Anderson; Gatzke Sportman's club, Frank Ogel; Middle River Produce, Maynard Morrissey and Elmer Thompson; Grygla, St. Olaf church, Mrs. Harry McLean; and Goodridge, First Lutheran church, Norma Hanson.

Rural Youth Chosen to Make Odd Fellows United Nations Trip

John E. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Anderson of rural Thief River Falls, has been awarded the 1957 trip to the United Nations Assembly in New York, as a delegate in the Odd Fellows "Pilgrimage of Youth". Young Pine lodge, I.O.O.F. and its ladies' branch, Lyon Rebekah lodge have jointly sponsored this delegate on the tour conducted by the world youth committee of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

This is the 8th annual pilgrimage to the U N and this year includes over 700 such delegates in fourteen chartered bus tours. They come from all parts of the continent, to spent a week attending sessions of the U N for observation. The delegates are allowed the opportunity of seeing the U N in action. While in New York they are also given time for sight seeing.

The delegates are chosen on basis of character, scholarship, participation in church and school activities, leadership and world interest. John Anderson is the first local delegate to be picked from the rural area. He will leave St. Paul July 1st, arriving in New York Sunday, July 7th. At the conclusion of the week's U N Pilgrimage, he will leave New York Saturday, July 13th, returning via a different route crossing lake Michigan by ferry to Manitowoc and returning to St. Paul July 17.

This all expense paid trip is by charter bus, under guidance of three adult leaders with each bus group. Sandra Nabben was the runner-up or alternate for the award.

Ralph Iverson of Alexandria is state chairman for the Pilgrimage, and M. C. Gulbranson is local chairman, assisted by Chas. Emanuel, Oreal Halland, Mrs. Morris Odegaard and Millard A. Nelson.

The local Odd Fellow organization will also be host to the Pacific Northwest group of the pilgrimage, serving them their noon lunch at the local Odd Fellows Hall on July 15th. Their bus is due to arrive at noon, enroute from Winnipeg, their previous overnight stop.

He stated that the worst flood conditions appeared to be in the Lost River and Clearwater River watersheds north of Clearbrook and Gonvick.

Local citizens responded generously to the Red Cross appeal for contributions of money for the aid of victims of last Thursday's disastrous tornado at Fargo, a total of $669.46 being turned in early this week at the postoffice and local banks. Cleanup Work Goes on After Fargo Tornado

Nearly $50,000 Is Contributed to Relief of Victims

Workers are still clearing rubble in the 100-block area of Fargo which was devastated by a tornado a week ago.

Money is now flowing into the two funds set up for relief of victims of the storm and repairs are now well under way on most of the damaged buildings.

But there are still 13 persons hospitalized, three in critical condition, with injuries received when the twister thundered into the city last Thursday.

There is still one more funeral to be held. Services for Donald Tilgen, 25, whose wife is still in a hospital, will be held today. He is the tenth victim of the tornado. Services were held earlier this week for the six children in the Gerald Munson family and for the three members of the Theodore Udahl family, all of whom died in the storm.

"Operation Cleanup" continued under sunny skies as the task shifted from roads to alleys to private property which was strewn with debris by the storm.

Workers from Fargo and other North Dakota communities and from some Minnesota towns, armed with saws, trucks and loaders and working under the direction of a Fargo fire department official are busy clearing the rubble from the area.

Financial help for victims of the storm is being received at two funds there also. The total Wednesday neared the $50,000 mark, combining the nearly $26,000 collected by the Red Cross and the $20,000 received by the Fargo disaster contingency fund set up by the city commission there. Responses to the appeal have been received from all over the nation.

An advisory committee has been set up to consult with tornado victims on settlement of insurance claims.

Highway Embankment Acts as Dam Across River

The highway 59 bridge across the Clearwater river north of Plummer (bridge in right foreground) is too small to handle all the water now coming down the river bed so the bridge embankment has caused water to back up on east side of the bridge for some distance. Considerable farm land has been inundated by the Clearwater but flooding along this stream is not so bad as that along the Lost River and Ruffy Brook streamways.

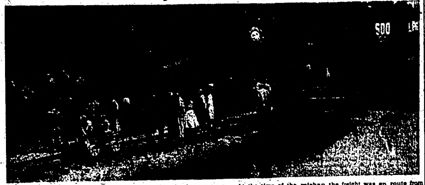
Cars on Extra Soo Freight Derailed by Washout at Clearbrook



Curious spectators are shown above as they view the damage wrought at Clearbrook Saturday evening when eight cars of an extra Soo Line freight train were derailed following the washout of a railroad culvert caused by torrential rains in the Clearbrook area. At the time of the mishap the freight was en route from Superior, Wisconsin, to Thief River Falls. The derailed cars were empties, and the locomotive remained on the tracks. None of the crew was injured. — Photo supplied by th Gonvick Leader-Record.

Details of Mishap to North Central Plane

Five Grand Forks residents lost a night's sleep; but arrived in that city safely Monday morning after their plane was forced to return to Minneapolis for an emergency landing after its landing gear had brushed against a truck as it came in for a landing in in Grand Forks shortly after mid-night.

The North Central Airlines plane, carrying seven passengers and a crew of three, grazed a truck on U. S. Highway 2, just north of the Grand Forks municipal airport, at 12:47 a.m.

The pilot, Capt. Orlin T. Gudim, Bloomington, returned to the Twin Cities where emergency equipment was available, rather than attempt a crash landing at Grand Forks.

After circling Wold-Chamberlin Field in Minneapolis for about 10 minutes, the plane came in for a wheels-up, belly landing at about 3:15 a.m. The runway had been "foamed down" with chemicals to lubricate the landing surface and deter any possible fire.

All emergency equipment at the airport was standing by, but it was not needed. North Central Airlines officials said damage to the plane was minor and there was no injury to any of the passengers or crew members.

The seven passengers were returned to Grand Forks in a special plane about two hours later.

In Grand Forks the plane had grazed a freight truck with a cargo of jet engines, driven by Mike Parsons of Edmonton, Alta. About $500 damage was caused the truck, but Parsons kept on the road and was not injured.

Robert Knott, a passenger on the plane, said he could see a big truck approaching on the highway as the plane came in for the Grand Forks landing.

"I knew we were going to hit," Knott said. "We felt a slight jolt, the pilot gunned the engines and we pulled right up."

The crippled plane was about 20 minutes out of the Twin Cities airport when another DC 3 with seven North Central maintenance men aboard pulled up alongside.

Lights were turned on the landing gear to determine the extent of damage.

The damaged plane, its fuel running low, then circled Wold-Chamberlin field for about 20 minutes. Some of the passengers expressed concern over the continuous circling.

Flood Damage to Crops in East Red Lake and Polk Co.

loan under Public Law 38 to farmers flooded out in the Lost river,Ruffy Brook areas.

Rep. Knutson also requested that Governor Freeman designate the flood zone a disaster area and petition President Eisenhower for emergency relief, assistance.

State Rep. Ben Wichterman and an official of the state agriculture department flew over the flooded areas Wednesday and they said the damage would mount into millions of dollars before the streams receded into their banks. It will be too late to reseed crops in fields now standing under water along the stream courses, it was pointed out with thousands of acres so affected.

The floods, which are causing most of the damage in an area southwest of Lower Red Lake in Clearwater, East Polk and Red Lake counties, were touched off by recent torrential rains in that area. Up to five inches of rain reportedly fell in the Clearbrook area alone Saturday, resulting in derailment of eight cars of a Soo Line freight train last Saturday evening, when the train crossed a washout.

In the immediate Thief River Falls area streams are not overflowing although they are running bank-full everywhere. Farm work has ground to a halt because of a great excess of rainfall which has left water standing in all but the highest fields in the area.

So far this month over five inches of rain has fallen on Thief River Falls and environs and weather forecasters say we can expect up to another .75 inches by next Monday, according to long-range forecasts announced late Wednesday.

Gilson deSousa Says Farewell on Leaving for His Home in Brazil

GILSON DE SOUSA.

Gilson deSouza, exchange student from Rio de Janeiro, who has completed his secondary education at Lincoln high and has lived in Thief River Falls during the past school year as a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barzen, has written the following farewell letter to his friends in this community. He starts his long journey back to Brazil tomorrow.

Well, ten months are gone by and now it's time for me to leave. When you have two families it is pretty hard to leave one, for you always miss the other. Sure, I want to go home, to my Brazilian family and to my friends, but on the other hand I don't want to leave my American family and my friends here in Thief River.

Although during those cold winter months I wished I were thousands of miles away from here, I realize, when I look back, that I had a wonderful time, that here I found everything a person can look for—love and friendship.

In a few hours I'll be in Minneapolis taking the bus that will take me across the central [illegible] states: Wisconsin, Missouri, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Washington D.C. and New York. Then a few days in New York, twenty-two hours in airplane and I'm home, coming back to another kind of life, to another kind of people.
